ENTIRE U. S. 'DRAFTED' IN JOB DRIVE

Today

Another Shake-up.
Our Armor Plate Gone.
The Lash in England.
A Bigger Universe.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

ANOTHER "BIG day" in Wall street, more than 8,000,000 shares sold, with many of the little gamblers, who had just decided to "come in," wishing they had waited.

Stocks dropped widely, wheat went off sixteen cents a bushel. "The dollar was strong," which perhaps helped the slump. A strong dollar means low prices. A low priced dollar means higher prices for stocks and products.

THE CHIEF Italian flier, Gen. Balbo, with his most important pilots, lunched with President Roosevelt at the White House yesterday, and wondered, doubtless, that such a big country should have such a little White House. They have bigger public buildings than that in Rome, and Mussolini is building more of them.

The polite Italians expressed delight at everything, added a wreath to the grave of the unknown soldier, and they are expected to fly back to Rome next Tuesday.

GEN. BALBO makes light of his countrymen's marvelous achievement, saying he was tired of flying over the Mediterranean and decided to stroll over to Chicago. Nevertheless, his is the most remarkable flight ever made, and one most important to the future of aviation and of war.

It is as important to this country as the invention of gunpowder was to the nobles that wore armor plate and found that bullets would go through it. Our "armor plate" has been the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, and we know now that fleets of airships can fly over them.

WHEN THE British dislike anything they try to get rid of it. Two young Britishers, first of the kind in that country, confessed yesterday to robbery with sawed-off shotguns. Importation of the American idea displeased the British judges.

They sentenced the young men to long terms in prison, but first each young gentleman was lashed with the cat-o-nine-tails. When the lashings were over, both were understood to remark that they would do no more robbing with sawed-off shotguns. The cat-o-nine-tails destroyed the glamour of crime.

In this country, when we don't like anything, we talk about it.

THE UNIVERSE seems to be getting bigger in spite of scientists, led by Einstein, who had made up their minds to limit the performance of the Creator and say to the cosmos:

"THUS FAR SHALT THOU GO AND NO FARTHER."

Little man measures his own field, farm, country and planet, and wants to measure everything else. But Divine wisdom has made different arrangements.

MT. WILSON'S 100-inch telescope discovers new nebulae, or "universes," 300,000,000 light years distant from this earth. For your amusement, figure out how far that is, the distance that light going 186,000 miles per second could travel in 300,000,000 years.

Bertrand Russell says the universe is limited, and light could travel around it "in a few hundred million years."

IN THE new nebulae 300,000,000 light years on one side of us are balanced by other universes, as far on the other side, the diameter of that new "cosmos" would be 600,000,000 years and its circumference the distance around it, one thousand eight hundred million light years.

A simple-hearted cowboy that lassoed a locomotive, never having seen one, was no more simple-hearted than the scientist that would lasso the infinite.

GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON, appointed by President Roosevelt to help regulate wages, hours and other working conditions, appears to be a rugged sort of person, using rugged English. When certain "best minds" object to his plans for restoring general prosperity he doesn't say that they represent "a doubtless highly conscientious element devoted to constitutional niceties."

He calls them "the chiseling fringe," and warns them to "stop chiseling."

THE BRITISH government sees good in recent American rulings concerning money. Britain borrowed $250,000,000 from this country, payable in American gold coin in 1937. England went off the gold basis, the pound dropped to about $3.50. It would have taken many pounds to buy enough gold dollars to pay $250,000,000 in 1937.

But Uncle Sam went off the gold basis, gold is impounded. No American gold coin can be produced. Since this country makes it impossible for Britain to pay in gold coin, she will pay in paper dollars.

Instead of being compelled to buy high-priced gold dollars with low-priced paper pounds, she will buy cheap paper dollars with her pound above par. A proposition that she makes for conversion of the bonds is on the whole generous.

Once more we ask:

"Who understands money?"

Taken to Hospital

CHARLES H. KLINE

Former Mayor Kline, today rushed to St. Francis Hospital from his home.

EX-MAYOR KLINE NEAR DEATH

Suffers Stroke, Rushed Unconscious to Hospital

Former Mayor Charles H. Kline was rushed to St. Francis Hospital today. It was learned he is near death.

He was unconscious this afternoon, his right side paralyzed.

The former Mayor suffered a stroke last night at the home of his brother-in-law, Dr. S. Harrison Johnson, in Gross street, East End.

Dr. Johnson described Kline as "a pretty sick man." He added:

"The Mayor was over at our house last night when he became ill suddenly. I gave him some medicine and put him to bed."

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Today Kline was rushed to the hospital in an ambulance. He is being attended by Dr. A. H. Colwell.

Dr. Johnson said the Mayor's illness was a recurrence of the complications which were troubling him when he resigned March 29.

Physicians then said in effect that the Mayor had heart trouble and other chronic afflictions.

JAIL AVOIDED

The Mayor resigned office and escaped a six-month jail term because of his physical condition. condition. At that time physicians appointed by District Attorney Andrew T. Park reported that the ex-Mayor's condition was subject to the "possibility of serious complications."

Kline was sentenced to jail after he and Bertram L. Succop, former city purchasing agent, had been convicted of malfeasance by a jury in Butler.

Almost two years ago the Mayor made a successful fight for his life in the same hospital. He suffered boils on the neck which led to complications and an operation. At one stage of his illness his condition was reported as critical.

Herron Opens Campaign As Witherow Quits To Back McArdle

Mayor Receives Ovation at Meeting

With all the trappings of an old-time "town meeting," Mayor John S. Herron last night in the Fort Pitt Hotel was "nominated" as the choice of the so-called regular organization for the Republican mayoralty nomination in the September primary.

The atmosphere of the meeting left no doubt as too where the city and county Republican organizations, the machinery of both in the hands of Senator James J. Coyne, stand in the mayoralty campaign. City Chairman William J. Soost was temporary chairman, and explained that the meeting was called to determine the standards bearers of "our party." The city wards were well represented by leaders and there followers.

Every move was devoted to an indication that the nominees indorsed had the approval of the Republican party, even though it was a primary campaign on which they were being launched, a battle presumably within the party and with no candidate the "regular" nominee until after the voters make their primary decision.

COYNE APPLAUDS

Throughout the meeting, over which former Senator J. S. Weller presided, Senator Coyne from a balcony opposite the speakers' stand beamed down on the gathering and applauded every move. With him were Congressman M. J.

Councilman Defers Announcing His Candidacy

By MARK SHIELDS

The opposition to Mayor John S. Herron in the Republican mayoralty primary took its first definite step toward cohesion today with the retirement of William P. Witherow as a potential candidate, together with his indorsement of Councilman P. J. McArdle and the request that his friends support McArdle.

Mr. McArdle, expressing his satisfaction at Mr. Witherow's act, refrained from a formal announcement of his candidacy, but his petitions continued to circulate, and there were predictions that he would throw his hat into the center of the ring within a few days.

ASPIRANTS CONFER

The action of Mr. Witherow climaxed several days of conferences involving McArdle, former President of Council James F. Malone and Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell, all four advertised as anti-administration candidates for the mayoralty nomination.

These conferences were instituted after the Citizens' Committee, originally sponsoring Mr. Witherow, became convinced that Judge Frank P. Patterson could not be brought into the fight as a candidate against Mayor Herron

STOCKS SKID AGAIN, 3 TO 12 POINTS

Last-Minute Rally Lifts Prices From Lows

NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP.)—Stocks crashed downward today in the wildest market since 1929.

Extreme losses generally ranged from $3 to more than $12 a share for shares of the country's largest corporations.

Trading in many issues was demoralized due to the absence of supporting orders. Pools liquidated stocks in enormous volume and there was tremendous selling from speculative margin accounts that had collapsed.

Reports that the New York Stock Exchange planned to close were denied by the exchange, which also said that dealings had not been suspended in any issue, despite the chaotic condition of the market. The tape at one time fell half an hour behind floor transactions.

By 2:55 o'clock the market had rallied from the lows. The rebound for some leaders was substantial, American Telephone snapping back to $119 from $114, reducing its loss by half.

United States Steel common, which had collapsed under $50 for a loss of about $8, veered back to above $52, while New York Central, after losing $11, cut its decline by $5.

Indications were that the turnover would exceed 9,000,000 shares. At 3 o'clock, the usual closing hour, the tape was half an hour late.

Meanwhile, trading in grain and provision futures on the Chicago and Kansas City Boards of Trade was suspended today following yesterday's wild sessions which saw grains slip as much as 26 cents.

Operations will resume tomorrow.

It was indicated at Washington that the Roosevelt administration is watching for evidence of pool manipulation of stock and commodity markets.

WAR-TIME PLAN IN EFFECT

Roosevelt Aims for End to Idleness By Labor Day

The text of President Roosevelt's employment agreement appears on Page 10 and a detailed explanation of his aims on Page 12.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(AP.)—Every citizen today was summoned to a covenant with President Roosevelt to re-employ the jobless millions by Labor Day.

To more than 5,000,000 employers was addressed a request from the President to join his National Recovery Administration in a mass attack on the depression by voluntary agreements to lift wages and shorten hours.

To the public went an open appeal for co-operation "by supporting and patronizing employers and workers who are members of the N. R. A."—signers of the presidential agreements for boosting national purchasing power.

NO BOYCOTTS

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, Industrial Recovery administrator, objected, however, to use of the word "boycott" in connection with the campaign to be waged to get consumers to patronize co-operating establishments. They will not specifically be asked, he said, not to deal with non-co-operators.

Powerfully driving the war-like plan for unifying the country in creating re-employment was a carefully mapped "campaign of education" that brusque Gen. Johnson said will "saturate the country with the dope of this thing."

President Roosevelt himself will take to the people the plan he and Johnson agreed upon finally late last night. Back at his desk after the presidential conference, Johnson said:

"I'm just as certain it will work as I am sitting here. I'm staking everything on it."

HEART OF PLAN

The heart of the plan:

Every employer will receive through the mail, July 27, an agreement addressed to him by President Roosevelt. Upon signing, this binds him to main-

POST HOPS OFF FOR FAIRBANKS

See map and timetable of Post's flight on Page Two.

FLAT, Alaska, July 21.—(AP.)—Wiley Post, Oklahoman flier, resumed his aerial race around the world today at 7:20 a. m. Fairbanks time (1:28 p. m. Pittsburgh time).

He planned to hop 350 miles to Fairbanks, refuled and then take off on a 1,450-mile jump to Edmonton, Canada.

Another pilot, two mechanics and a navigator made up the remainder of the seaplane's crew. They planned to remain here until tonight or tomorrow, before returning to Siberia.

Mattern still wishes to complete his globe-circling flight to New York, he said, but his plans are not definite. The plane in which he left New York on June 3 is a wreck 50 miles from Anadyr.

The Oklahoman was only 4,000 miles from his goal, New York, when he landed here after a 22-hour battle with the elements on his flight from Siberia. He was undaunted by his plane nosing over in a stiff cross wind when he finally glided down at the airport here at 3:30 p. m. Fairbanks time (9:30 p. m. Pittsburgh time) yesterday. The propeller was broken and the landing gear damaged.

He was unhurt himself, although extremely nervous and exhausted.

Post has until 9 p. m., Pittsburgh time Sunday to break the existing round-the-world record which he and Harold Gatty set in 1931. But Lee Trenholm, his flight representative, said today at New York he looked for him back at Floyd Bennett Field, Brooklyn, by late Saturday afternoon.

Post Mishap Hidden From Aged Parents

MAYSVILLE, Okla., July 21.—(AP.)—News of Wiley Post's forced landing at Flat, Alaska, was withheld from his elderly parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Post, until a brother, Arthur Post, had assured himself the flier was safe and that his plane was not badly damaged. Arthur said:

"We didn't want to worry the old folks about it until we knew for sure. I knew Wiley was all-right, but I was afraid he might be coming in without that plane."

Cavein Damages Town, 12 Escape

PITTSTON, Pa., July 21.—(AP.)—Scores of houses were damaged, gas and water mains snapped and one fire started by a coal mine cave-in, but the 12 men at work in the vein escaped unhurt.

Zane Grey Lands 900-Pound Fish

LOS ANGELES, July 21.—(AP.)—A 900-pound silver marlin, which looked like a "submarine in colors" as it came to the surface, was caught by Zane Grey, the author, near Tahiti, his wife said yesterday, after receiving a letter from the sportsman.

Canada's Chief Asks Stock Mart Closed

LONDON, July 21.—(AP.)—Commenting on the suspension of the Chicago and Kansas City grain exchanges, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, of Canada, said today:

"If President Roosevelt wants to save the world, he will close the New York Stock Exchange."

BRITONS DEFEAT VINES, ALLISON

AUTEUIL, France, July 21. — America's chances of winning the Davis Cup, rated at 6 to 5 as tennis stars of the United States squared off against those of England in the inter-zone final here today, were very close to zero at the conclusion of the first two singles matches, in which Ellsworth Vines, Jr., American champion, and Wilmer Allison were defeated in straight sets.

Vines, his generally powerful service wild and ineffective and his backhand highly vulnerable, was made to look like a novice as he lost to Henry W. (Bunny) Austin, 26-year-old second ranking Briton, 6-1, 6-1, 6-4, in one of the biggest tennis upsets of recent years.

Allison was slightly more impressive, but no more effective, as he bowed to Fred Perry, England's No. 1 player, in the second duel, 6-1, 7-5, 6-4.

To remain in the competition and meet France in the challenge round next week, the Americans now are confronted with the almost hopeless task of sweeping the remaining three matches John Van Ryn and George Lott are to oppose the British pair of Perry and George Patrick Hughes in doubles tomorrow; Vines will meet Perry and Allison will meet Austin in the concluding singles duels, on Sunday.

Queen's Short Skirts Cause Party Flutter

LONDON, July 21. — (AP.) — Queen Mary caused a pronounced feminine flutter in London society by appearing at the garden party at Buckingham Palace yesterday in a dress that stopped short of the ground by perhaps seven inches.

Practically every other woman attending the function was attired in ground sweeping skirts.

Reed Seeks Reopening Of Banks

WASHINGTON, July 21.—An inquiry by Senator David A. Reed into the condition of closed national banks in Western Pennsylvania, and the reasons for delay in effecting reorganization of institutions now in the hands of conservators, has developed several facts not heretofore made public. These were disclosed at the Senator's office today as follows:

1. There are more national banks in charge of conservators in Western Pennsylvania than in any similar area on the United States.

2. To date only one national bank in this district, in Erie, has been licensed to open following a reorganization subsequent to the bank holiday.

3. Plans have been approved for the reorganization of another bank, in Johnstown, and this institution is expected to reopen for business soon.

The explanation of the failure of other banks in the Pittsburgh district to reopen, or to undertake reorganization plans, lies in the fact that they have not submitted reorganization plans to the Comptroller of the Currency, or sent reorganization committees to Philadelphia or Pittsburgh to discuss their problem with the appropriate authorities.

TREASURY TO ACT

To facilitate these reorganizations, where the condition of the banks is such that there is a possibility that they can be reorganized, the Treasury Department will send national bank examiners into Western Pennsylvania in the immediate future to confer with stockholders and depositors of

RUSSIANS BAN MARC CONNELLY

NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP.)—Marc Connelly, the Pittsburgh playwright, has been prohibited by Soviet officials from visiting Russia, says a cablegram received here from Ralph Pulitzer, former publisher, who is a member of a party of Americans cruising in northern waters on the Swedish-American liner Kungsholm.

No reason was given for the Soviet action.

Connelly, author of "The Green Pastures," a Pulitzer prize winner, is touring with his wife; Pulitzer, Edna Ferber, novelist, and other writers.

The Kungsholm sailed on June 30 and is to return on August 10. The liner is due at Leningrad tomorrow.

FIANCEE FLEES REPORTERS

By GEORGE C. GALLATI
International News Service.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Making his second adventure into matrimony, Elliott Roosevelt, strapping 22-year-old son of President Roosevelt, will be married tomorrow in Burlington, Ia., to Miss Ruth Googins, of Fort Worth, Tex., International News Service learned today.

The pretty, dark-haired Texas society girl will become the bride of young Roosevelt at a quiet ceremony to be performed at the Burlington home of her uncle, George C. Swiler.

Swiler today admitted that the young couple planned to have the ceremony at his residence in Iowa to escape the fanfare which has accompanied their meetings here since the President's son flew to Chicago Tuesday for a visit with Miss Googins.

Pirates Oppose Schumacher Today

FORBES FIELD, July 21.—Bill Terry, Giants' manager, gave Pittsburgh fans an opportunity to look at his ace right-hander, Hal Schumacher, as the Pirates and Giants fought it out this afternoon in the fourth game of their stirring series. Steve Swetonic was on the slab for the Buccos.

Boys' day gave the fourth clash a noisy background. Thousands of youngsters poured into the rightfield stands as quickly as the gates were open.

The Pirates downed the Giants, 6-5, yesterday in the third contest to make it two out of three in the set. The series will close with a double-header tomorrow.

Tennessee for Repeal, Drys Plan Contest

Associated Press.

Tennessee today became the nineteenth state to approve repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment as Oregon voters went to the polls to record their preference.

The margin of victory for the anti-prohibitionists in Tennessee was smaller than in any other of the states which have held popular elections on the proposed constitutional change. Returns from 1,990 precincts out of 2,232 gave 123,013 for repeal and 113,561 against. The remaining precincts were not expected to change the result materially.

Charging that "the grossest possible fraud" was perpetrated in Memphis and Nashville, John F. Baggett, chairman of the prohibition campaign, said in a statement today that the vote is being "very carefully studied with a view to contesting the election. Mr. Baggett said:

"We have the city machines of Nashville and Memphis to thank for the very narrow margin which the wets are claiming."

In Oregon today, leaders of the repeal movement predicted 2 to 1 victory. Dry leaders seemed agreed that they had no more than a "fighting chance."

Tennessee voted to elect 63 delegates from the state-at-large to a convention to be held August 11. The ballot contained two lists of names, one for repeal and one against. Tennessee has been dry since 1909. A bone dry law enacted eight years after that date only recently was modified to permit sale of 3.2 per cent beer.

Soupline Closes Here; 'Regulars' Spurn Jobs

Pittsburgh's longest "soupline," the Helping Hand in Water street, is suspending on July 29 until late fall.

Signs inform the "regulars" of that fact and also that all who wish will be put to work on the Helping Hand farm, Freeport road, near Harmarville.

At the farm the wages are food, clothing, shelter and tobacco, according to H. L. Semans, director. More than 400 men are at work now, he says, and the entire "soupline" of from 1,000 to 1,200 will be given jobs if they are willing to go.

Those ill and unable to work are advised to go to Mayview or Woodville. Semans said:

"Many men in the soupline are regulars—men who have been eating free for two or three years without ever doing a hand's turn. At the farm we raise food for the winter, and feel that all men who are able to work should help out."

The signs have been up a day now, according to Semans, and not one of the "regulars" has volunteered to go to the farm.

TROOPERS REPLACE SHERIFF AT PENNA. STRIKE SCENE

PINCHOT MAKES BARGAIN WITH LEADERS

Speeds to Capital for Parley After News Of More 'Outbreaks'

Associated Press.

Gov. Pinchot, law enforcement authorities and union officials early today adopted a four-point program which the Governor predicted would avert further disorders in the Lansdale hosiery workers' strike, most violent of Pennsylvania's many labor disturbances.

Unprecedented replacement of the county sheriff as chief law enforcement officer by state police and withdrawal of all local police from the strike scene form the keystone of the plan.

Two persons were shot, others were slightly injured and tear gas was hurled late yesterday as strikers and sympathizers outside the Dexdale hosiery mill battled two-score police who had been deputized by the Montgomery County sheriff.

District Attorney Stewart Nase, of Montgomery County, announced that Chief of Police Theodore Hallowell, of Cheltenham Township, was held under $3,000 bail, charged with shooting of the two men during yesterday's disorders.

HURRIES TO CAPITAL

News of the trouble sent Gov. Pinchot hurrying from his home in Milford to Harrisburg. He summoned to the capital officials of the county and the union, and today's program was the result of their conference.

1—Sheriff J. Haseltine Lever withdraws all deputies from Lansdale.

2—Burgess Elmer K. Bean withdraws all police from the vicinity of the Interstate, Arcadia and Dexdale mills and agrees to recognize the constitutional rights of all citizens within his jurisdiction.

3—Gov. Pinchot sends state police "to prevent violence from any source, to protect the rights of persons and property," and to enforce public order.

4—The American Federation of Full Fashioned Hosiery workers agrees to limit the number of pickets at the three mills, to picket only with officers of the union and workers from Lansdale, to prevent all violations by their members and to co-operate with state police in maintaining order.

MISS CARR ATTENDS

Sheriff Lever represented the county and borough while Emil Rieve, president of the federation, appeared for the strikers. Among others attending was Miss Charlotte E. Carr, Pinchot's newly appointed secretary of labor and industry.

Pinchot said:

"I am convinced that, with goodwill, good humor and common sense, we can work through the strike without further violence. These qualities have been shown tonight."

In Philadelphia seven men were beaten and another was knocked unconscious today in a melee between strikers and non-strikers at the Walburton hosiery mill. Six men were arrested as 150 police stopped the disorder.

nied that he would be married tomorrow.

Young Roosevelt insisted "these reports of my marriage are somewhat exaggerated."

Miss Googins fled to the home of her relatives in Burlington, Ia., merely to seek refuge from reporters and the spotlight of publicity focused on her because of her meetings with Roosevelt here.

Bored at the necessity of repeatedly denying that he and Miss Googins would be wed, young Roosevelt outlined his plans for today and tomorrow to reporters. He said he was going to "do" the night life of Chicago tonight and sleep late tomorrow.

He chided newspapermen:

"Did it ever occur to you that I may have asked Miss Googins to marry me—and been refused?"

FRIEND SAYS 'IT'S TRUE'

Despite Elliott's assertions, a close friend of Miss Googin's here declared that all the denials of both Elliott and Miss Googins were just soo much "smoke" and that arrangements have been completed for a simple ceremony at the Burlington home at 6 p. m. tomorrow.

She said that Miss Googins would wear a white chalk crepe frock of simple Grecian lines for the wedding. She said Miss Googins had purchased her trosseau in Chicago during her visit here, and had been so busy buying dresses and frocks that she did not even attend the World's Fair.

This friend also said that Elliott and his bride have decided to live in Fort Worth, Tex.

Miss Googins, it was said, asked Elliott to refrain from announcing their engagement which Elliott consented to do on her promise that they would be married this week.

The President's son flew here from Nevada Tuesday immediately following his divorce from Elizabeth Browning Donner, of Philadelphia, and he engaged hotel quarters but a few blocks from where Miss Googins and her mother had been staying.

ROOSEVELT AT DESK AGAIN

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt resumed his regular order of business at the White House today and called the cabinet for its usual sesison in the executive office.

The President conferred during the morning with Secretary Ickes, administrator of public works, and Lewis Douglas, director of the budget.

He remained in the White House proper for the luncheon with Ras Desta Demtu, special envoy of the Emperor of Ethiopia.

He planned to return to his desk in the executive office later today for the first time since he suffered a slight indisposition after his week-end cruise on the Potomac.

HULL UPHOLDS TRAFFIC TRUCE

LONDON, July 21.—(AP.)—A statement by Cordell Hull, American Secretary of State, urging maintenance of the tariff truce after the adjournment next Thursday of the World Economic Conference was read to the economic commission by Hendryk Colijn, the Dutch premier and chairman, this afternoon.

Mr. Hull, chief of the American delegation, prepared the statement after an extensive exchange of communications with Washington. It contains a detailed explanation of President Roosevelt's views with regard to tariff policies.

The commission was meeting for a final review of its work before making a report to the parent body.

A number of important countries are understood to favor letting the tariff truce, which was arranged for the duration of the conference, lapse because of failure to achieve currency stabilization.

Elliott's Ex-Wife Meets 'First Lady'

CAMPOBELLO, N. B., July 2.—(AP.)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, on a leisurely motor trip through Northern Maine, arrived here yesterday for a visit at the Roosevelt summer home. She was met at Lubec by Mrs. Elizabeth Donner Roosevelt, divorced wife of Elliott Roosevelt, and made the trip to Campobello Island in the launch Outja.

MELLON AGAIN SUED ON TAX

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(INS.)—David A. Olson, former Senate investigator, today filed an amended suit in District of Columbia Supreme Court against Andrew W. Mellon, former Secretary of the Treasury and others seeking $220,000,000 alleged to be owed the government for unpaid income taxes and penalties. Olson filed the suit as a private citizen.

Other defendants are Ogden L. Mills, formerly Secretary of the Treasury; David Blair, former Collector of Internal Revenue; Alexander W. Gregg, former counsel for the revenue bureau, and Under Secretary of the Treasury Arthur A. Ballantine.

The suit lists the names of 26 foreign steamship companies, which, Olson stated in his suit, were involved in an alleged scheme with the Treasury Department to avoid payment of taxes. The suit states that in March, 1927, Mellon went to Europe on a ship of one of the lines and entered into a conspiracy with an official of one of the steamship companies.

The suit was filed through Attorney Charles A. Russell. A previous suit filed by Olson in the same case was recently dismissed.

EMPLOYER HELD IN GIRL'S CASE

ALLENTOWN, Pa., July 21.—(AP.)—Nathan Dasher, alias Dashefsky, is under $3,500 bond on charges of violating the Mann Act, the aftermath of testimony presented before the Legislative Sweatshop Investigating Committee.

Rosa Pany, 17-year-old former employe of the D. & D. shirt plant, Northampton, told a United States commissioner that she accompanied Dasher, one of the proprietors, to a Paterson (N. J.) hotel a year ago.

Hearing on another charge involving two girls was postponed after Charles Bolich, assistant United States District Attorney declared the witnesses had been suborned.

Ohio Towns Argue Over 'Nellie Gray'

WESTERVILLE, O., July 21.—(AP.)—Today was the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Benjamin Russell Hanby, author of "Darling Nellie Gray" and two Ohio towns still can't decide where he wrote the song.

Westerville claims "Darling Nellie Gray" was written when Hanby was a sophomore student at Otterbein College. Rushville maintains it was composed when Hanby was teaching there after graduation.

TOWANDA, Pa., July 21.—(AP.)—A. B. Deitrich moved into a supposedly deserted house and found an occupant—a five-foot rattlesnake. He killed it in the parlor and found its nest in an old pump organ.

Several sloughed skins indicated the reptile had made his home there several seasons.

Pastor Threatens Rally When Talk Turns 'Wet'

The Rev. R. B. Yokeley, pastor of the Homewood Baptist Church, threatened to halt a Democratic rally at Homewood and Bennett streets last night when William Foster, a speaker, casually mentioned prohibition. The pastor said:

"This is church property. If there is any more talk against prohibition you'll have to get off the property."

The minister was told the meeting was not being held on church property and he departed, while the speakers continued to criticize the Republican party, the Independent Republicans and conditions in Pittsburgh.

Clarence R. Strothers, Democratic canoidate for Council principal speaker, criticized Mayor John S. Herron's efforts to clean up Pittsburgh. He said the Mayor could look out of his bedroom every night into a "nest of racketeers." He also described him as a puppet, dominated by "big shots" and racketeers.

GANG GRILLED IN FACTOR KIDNAPING

U. S., States and Cities In Concerted Drive On Abductors

Associated Press.

A concerted anti-kidnaping drive was producing results in various sections of the country, officials asserted today.

Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief investigator for the Cook County State's Attorney's office in Chicago, asserted that he had reliable information that three of four members of the gang of Roger Tuohy, of Chicago, arrested in Elkhorn, Wis., were involved in the recent abduction of John Factor, the speculator.

The police at Elkhorn said the prisoners were identified as Tuohy, Willie Sharkey, "Gloomy Gus" Schaeffer and Ed McFadden. They added that Schaeffer had $1,200 in $10 bills in his possession. Reports at the time Factor was released were that his ransom, reputed to be from $50,000 to $200,000, was paid in $10 and $20 bills.

RETURNED TO CHICAGO

The suspects were returned to Chicago, where they are to be questioned about Factor's abduction as well as about the kidnaping of William Hamm, Jr., wealthy St. Paul brewer.

At the same time progress was claimed by officials in their investigation of the abduction and subsequent release of August Luer, Alton, (Ill.) banker, with the announcement that one of five suspects—Percy Michael Fitzgerald—had confessed participation in the crime.

Mayors of 15 municipalities near Alton met to formulate plans to rid their localities of undesirable persons.

NO O'CONNELL RANSOM

Meanwhile, breaking his silence for the first time, Ed O'Connell, uncle of John J. O'Connell, Jr., today said a ransom had not been paid for the kidnaped boy.

The elder O'Connell, Democratic power in upstate New York, said the family had had no contact with the kidnapers beyond the ads in Albany and New York papers. He believed the boy was safe but said that was based on "just a feeling."

And in Philadelphia, the United States Department of Justice took up the hunt for two men who shot Frank A. McClatchy, 56, wealthy real estate man, after he resisted their attempt to kidnap him for ransom.

Almost simultaneously with these developments came an announcement from Senator Louis Murphy, of Iowa, that the federal government was investigating all forms of major racketeering, and especially kidnaping, with the idea of strengthening laws to cope with the situation. Two other members of a Senate sub-committee are engaged in investigations in Michigan and New York. They are Senators Vandenburg, of Michigan, and Copeland, of New York.

SON IDENTIFIES DROWNED MAN

A body found in the Allegheny River June 26 was identified today as that of John W. Brown, 65, janitor at Duquesne University.

Relatives, believing he was staying at the university, were not apprehensive until they learned he had not been there for several weeks. At the university, morgue attaches said, it was supposed he was on vacation.

Harry G. Brown, 115 Montgomery avenue, North Side, a son, established the identity after seeing the man's clothing at the morgue and learning initials and a date were tattooed on one arm. The body was cremated when no one claimed it. The son claimed the ashes for burial.

The younger Brown recalled reading of the drowning and the tattoo marks in the Sun-Telegraph, but did not associate them with his father until he learned yesterday the latter was not at the university.

AUSTRALIA HITS CURB ON WHEAT

LONDON, July 21.—(AP.)—Stanley M. Bruce, Australian delegate, told the World Economic Conference today that his country certainly would not associate itself with any scheme for the restriction of wheat production as a solution for world difficulties.

Mr. Bruce declared:

"Australia has not at this moment subscribed to any such scheme."

This declaration appeared to make more remote the chances for conclusion of an agreement for restriction of wheat production, which has been sought by representatives of the United States, Canada, Argentina and Australia.

Bruce said:

"Schemes of this character can be carried out only by governments either Socialist, Fascist or Communistic in character, and Australia certainly does not intend to become any of these."

BERWICK, July 21.—(AP.)—A gift of $1,000 from Secretary of the Treasury Woodin was among contributions announced yesterday as Berwick concluded a campaign which raised $36,180 to pay existing debts of the Berwick Hospital and to finance its charity work for the next two years. Woodin is a former resident of Berwick.

CAPITAL FEARS ILL VET MARCH

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 21. — A spectacular march on the national capital by an army of disabled veterans was rumored here today as an advance guard established temporary "headquarters" beneath the Washington elm on the Capitol grounds.

Royal W. Robertson, a leader in the bonus march of 1932 which resulted in rioting and bloodshed, led the advance guard. He declined to confirm rumors of a disabled veterans' march on Washington, but announced the disabled veterans were planning a "drastic move" to offet the "hardships" imposed on them by the economy act.

The veterans also were reported to be planning a spectacular memorial service here next week to commemorate the killing of three of their comrades on July 28 last year during the bonus riots. Services probably will be held at the graves of the veterans in Arlington Cemetery.

FOOTBALL STAR WINS $75,000

DETROIT, July 21.—(INS.)—Damages of $75,000 were awarded today to Ken Strong, former Detroit Tiger outfielder, and once all-America football player, in his $250,000 damage suit against Dr. Alfred D. La Ferte.

Strong based his suit on the outcome of two operations performed by Dr. La Ferte on his right wrist. Dr. La Ferte removed the wrong bones during the operations, causing the wrist to stiffen and forcing him from big league baseball, Strong contended.

An appeal from the verdict will be made. The physician's attorney indicated. Dr. La Ferte had denied the operations wrecked the athlete's career, producing as evidence moving pictures of Strong in a professional football game last fall.

Phila. Bank Head Accused of Fraud

PHILADELPHIA, July 21.—(INS.)—A warrant charging embezzlement of funds from the closed Northern Central Trust Company, of this city, was issued today for Walter Gabell, president of the bank.

The charge was brought by the State Banking Department, which has been in charge of the bank since it closed with its five branch offices on September 28, 1931.

REED SEEKING REOPENING OF BANKS

Charges Western Pa. Is Neglected by Treasury

closed national banks in an effort to assist them in working out their plans.

Liquidation of closed banks will be deferred in all cases where it appears that there is a possibility that they can be reopened through a waiver of part of the deposits by the voluntary action of the depositors.

In all cases the first interest of the Treasury Department is in the depositors, and no plan for reorganization or liquidation will be approved unless it promises a maximum return to those who had money in the bank when closed by the President's proclamation.

At Senator Reed's office it was said that the Senator for many weeks has been working on this problem quietly, and assisting in reorganizations wherever possible. Appointments have been made for numerous delegations of depositors and bank stockholders who have come to Washington for interviews with the Comptroller's office.

TREASURY PUZZLED

It was disclosed that the Treasury has been puzzled by the failure of Western Pennsylvania institutions to make any move to reopen. The conclusion has been reached that this is due to one of two reasons: Either the banks are not in condition to be reopened, and will have to be liquidated, or the depositors and stockholders do not know how to proceed to get their problem before the appropriate authorities.

It is explained that the first step in effecting a reorganization is to get in touch with the chief national bank examiner and federal reserve officials in the district in which the bank is located to go over the ground preliminarily, or with officials of the comptroller's office here. A whole floor in the Washington Building, opposite the Federal Treasury, has been taken over by the comptroller's reorganization group, and a large staff of national bank examiners assembled for the purpose of dealing with this complex problem. The reorganization division of the comptroller's office is in charge of W. R. Milford, formerly chief examiner for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Every national bank which failed to reopen following the bank holiday has been examined. The comptroller's office is therefore in position to confer with any delegation which comes to Washington to discuss reorganization plans.

ELY INCREASES LEAD IN BRIDGE

LONDON, July 21.—(AP.)—The American contract bridge team had increased their lead over the English to 7,740 points at tea time today when the fourteenth hand of the afternoon and the two hundred and fourteenth of the 300-board match was concluded.

The tenth hand was particularly tragic so far as English hopes for a comeback were concerned. In it the Americans picked up 1,530 points.

Ely Culbertson and Theodore A. Lightner bid and made a little slam in hearts. P. V. Tabbush and George Morris, playing the same hand for England, were set one in a grand slam contract.

Behind from the start of the competition Monday until yesterday, the Americans amassed a lead greater than the British ever had.

Axmen Not Jeopardizing Jobs, Says Mansfield

Commissioner William D. Mansfield today denied charges of the Mutual Co-operative Association that County employes have lost employment at North Park because federal forestry service men are taking their jobs at a dollar a day.

The association's director, Gen. E. Schroeder, upon complaint of local workers, said today it will file a protest with the County Commissioners, charging country tractors are being run by the dollar-a-day force; that instead of confining the forestry workers to service intended in President Roosevelt's program the North Park section is building tables, bench and enlarging picnic facilities, thus depriving resident workers of employment. It was further charged a boss and straw boss of the forestry workers have been appointed by the county, each drawing $145 a month.

Mansfield said:

"The federal government is in full charge of the reforestation group in North Park, and I don't believe is doing anything the government's rules do not permit. The county can't tell them what to do, and I know of no county employes who have been fired since the reforestation workers went to the park."

Regis Welsh, in charge of county personnel, declared:

"The federal government asked the county to furnish four men experienced in the park work, to serve as foremen. So, four county men have been added to the park work, instead of any being laid off."

BABY DETESTED BY PARENTS BECOMES WARD OF COURT

PAIR REFUSES TO REAR CHILD IN HOME

'We've Seen Too Many Kids to Care,' They Tell Judge

DENVER, July 21.—(AP.)—The young parents of a 6-week-old golden-haired boy told Judge George Lerg in Juvenile Court yesterday that they "detest the child," and, at their request, the baby was ordered committed to the state home for dependent and neglected children.

Maynard Erkenbeck, construction laborer, said he and his wife "can't be bothered with a baby because we detest him and don't want him around." The infant's mother, Mrs. Margaret Erkenbeck, corrobrated her husband's statement. She said:

"We don't want the baby. We want to get rid of him. I was one of 12 children and my husband was one of five and we've seen too much of kids to care for them."

In granting the parents' request to take the child, Judge Lerg said he was not doing so to free them of their rightful responsibility, but to "save a baby from any contact with parents lacking in the most fundamental feeling—love of offspring—and to insure protection to its helplessness."

DIES UNDER ICE TO SAVE GIRLS

LOS ANGELES, July 21.—(INS.)—The body of Kenneth McKenzie, 21, University of Southern California athlete, was to be returned here today from Sequoia National Park, where he was smothered to death in an ice cavern.

McKenzie sacrificed his life for the safety of his fiancee, pretty Miss Elsie Gilmore.

He had descended into the cavern to determine if it was safe for her to explore. She and two sisters watched an ice avalanche trap him.

McKenzie placed third in the javelin event in the I. C. 4-A track meet at Cambridge, Mass., and he held the U. S. C. record with a toss of 204 fet 11½ inches.

SLAYER OF GIRL GOING TO CHAIR

PHILADELPHIA, July 21.—(AP.)—Richard (Big Slim) Bach today was convicted of murder with death as the penalty for the killing of 18-year-old Rose McCloskey.

The girl was beaten to death last winter in Fairmount Park after her escort had been knocked unconscious with a stone.

The jury retired before last midnight, and court officials predicted a verdict "almost immediately." It failed to materialize. The verdict was delivered this morning.

Both prosecution and defense demanded that the youth either be sent to the electric chair or acquitted of the killing.

The low that was centered over Manitoba yesterday morning is now centered over Lake Michigan. It is producing considerable cloudiness over the lake region, but the rainfall for the last 24 hours was limited to a few very light showers. Showers were quite general over the Central and Southern Atlantic Coast states yesterday and last night, but the showers were mostly light. Pressure is still high over the Atlantic coast, and another high is spreading over the Northwest. It has caused a marked drop in temperature over that section to bejow 50 degrees over the Canadian Northwest and between 50 and 60 degrees in the Dakotas. The maximum temperature in North Dakota yesterday was 76 degrees, while the preceding day it was 100 degrees. Temperatures of 90 degrees or higher occurred over the Ohio Valley states, and the Central and Southern Mississippi Valley states yesterday.

Movie Heroine Visits Here

Girl of Westerns, Likes City, but Misses Horses

A family reunion brought Marion LaFollette, pretty movie actress, to Pittsburgh. She likes the city, but she misses her horses.

The 23-year-old player, who for the last year and a half has played in western and serial pictures, is here on a month's visit. She is a guest of her sister, Mrs. Henry W. Van Natta, 674 Florida avenue, Mt. Lebanon. Her mother, Mrs. Emily LaFollette, accompanied her here.

It is the first family get-together in seven years.

Miss LaFollette, a cousin to Senator "Bob" LaFollette, is a graduate of Occidental College, Los Angeles.

Upon her return to Hollyywood, Miss LaFollette will make a series of five serials of western pictures for Universal.

SEEK MISSING MINISTER

PHOENIX, Ariz., July 21.—(AP.)—Authorities here today sought the Rev. Victor A. Rule, former Presbyterian pastor, on a felony complaint charging failure to provide for his three children.

Search for the minister was being directed toward Michigan and the midwest, where he was reported to have been seen.

The complaint was obtained by Mrs. Rule, who lives here with the children.

Mr. Rule gave up his Phoenix pastorate more than a year ago to accept a pulpit in a suburb of Pittsburgh.

Mr. Rule disappeared following his resignation from the pastorate of the fashionable Edgewood Presbyterian Church a year ago. His resignation and disappearance surprised his wife, who had planned to make her home in Pittsburgh.

Word was received from his brother, the Rev. Andrew Rule, shortly after he had vanished, that he was alive and well. However, no word of him had been received by Mrs. Rule.

The cause of Mr. Rule's resignation never was learned. Some of the members asserted that it was asked and others denied it.

A month after his disappearance it was learned here that Mr. Rule had won a $100 prize in a cigaret ad writing contest.

Girl Puts Wings On Bike, Blames Balbo for Bump

EVANSTON, Ill., July 21.—(AP.)—Little Miss Ebba Anderson, age 12, blames Gen. Italo Balbo for the unfortunate affair.

Open-mouthed she gazed skyward while the fleet of Italian seaplanes roared away to the east. It gave her an idea.

Yesterday she fitted her bicycle with a pair of wings and ascended to the roof of the family garage while a crowd of playmates watched, tense with excitement.

Into the air went the "Spirit of Evanston;" bang into the backyard after going through a few barrel rolls, tail spins and nose dives.

Police administered first aid to numerous cuts and bruises and mumbled something to Ebba about a pilot's license.

Fliers Ride Through Lindy-Style Storm Of 'Snow,' Cheers

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Ninety-six new heroes of the air, led by Gen. Italo Balbo, rode through New York's own Appian Way of ticker tape and lunch hour crowds today to receive their official welcome at City Hall.

The gallant crew of the Italian trans-Atlantic flying Argosy paraded through a pleasant storm of bravos, tumultuous cheering and paper snowflakes shimmering down from the skyscrapers.

Every available policeman was used to guard the line of march against any anti-Fascist demonstration. Detectives from the "bomb squad" mixed in the huge crowds which packed the curbs of lower Broadway.

Downtown New York had seen the 24 silver planes marked in black and green and red and white swoop over the city from Chicago on Wednesday.

Today, the same millions again crowded the windows of the financial canyon.

It was the biggest crowd since the one which greeted Charles A. Lindbergh on his return from another famous ocean flight in 1927.

At the head of the parade, Gen. Balbo rode in an open car, accompanied by Generoso Pope, Italian-American publisher, and the Italian consul.

As Balbo moved through the cheering throngs, he raised his hand in the Fascist salute.

At City Hall, Mayor O'Brien officially welcomed the Italian fliers. He compared Gen. Balbo's feat to those of other noted Italians, Columbus and Marconi.

WOMAN 'LIFER' STAR WITNESS

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., July 21.—(AP.)—A confessed principal in the slaying of her husband, Mrs. Ida May Shaw accused Mrs. Myrtle Delaney from the witness stand of suggesting to her that she 'get rid" of Arthur A. Shaw, railroad machinist.

Taking the stand as a state witness at Mrs. Delaney's trial as an accessory in the slaying, Shaw's widow testified yesterday Mrs. Delaney and Harley Lemon, another confessed principal, also discussed poisoning Mrs. Delaney's husband, William Delaney, another railroader.

Both Mrs. Shaw and Lemon, her cousin, were sentenced to life imprisonment upon their pleas of guilty to the slaying of Shaw.

MDIVANI 'ARMY' NO MENACE TO RUSSIA

Princes' 'Throne Plot' Warriors Jobless, Not Royalist

HOLLYWOOD, July 21.—(Universal.)—Georgia, tiny rich province of Soviet Russia, need have no fear of an armed invasion at the hands of a Hollywood army.

For like most Hollywood armies, the recruits who were to enthrone the Georgian princes, Serge and David Mdivani, with the help of a financial angel are, in truth, only members of the famous army of the unemployed, willing to don uniforms and fight anyone—before a motion picture camera, investigation disclosed.

The warriors had no idea they were being groomed to sneak 6,000 miles to Russia and fight for the glory of Mdivani and the millions of barrels of oil that underlie Georgia.

AMAZSD AT 'PLOT'

From the recruits, all ex-service men, banded in an organization called the Veterans' Motion Picture Training Battalion, came expressions of amazement at details of the so-called plot.

E. Neilson, one of the present leaders, explained:

"Several months ago we boys got together and formed our outfit to get jobs in military pictures.

"One day we were told Mary McCormic, the opera star, had promised to come out and give us a pep talk, buy us uniforms and build barracks. But she never appeared.

"Shucks, we didn't know of any plot to take Georgia for those two princes. We didn't even know Miss McCormic was married to one of 'em. And I can tell you the only time we'll ever get dressed up, carry guns and sing 'Marching Through Georgia' will be in a movie and it will be Georgia, U. S. A."

SUITS PUZZLE PRINCES

NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP.)—Perfumed, immaculate and affable, the Mdivani boys, Prince Serge and Prince David, arrived on the Europa from Paris yesterday to hurry to Hollywood to see if their marital difficulties can be settled.

They were puzzled but gallant over the suits brought by their respective wives, Mary McCormic, the diva, and Mae Murray, the actress.

Prince Serge found his questioners had difficulty keeping straight the identity of the two brothers. He said helpfully:

"I'm Mary McCormic and that's Mae Murray."

Then he plunged into an extended discussion of his American citizenship papers and his oil wells. But Charles Huberich, husband of their sister, the former Princess Nina, discouraged talk of the divorce suits. The brothers referred to him as "the lawyer."

3RD FRED STONE GIRL ON STAGE

EASTHAMPTON, N. J., July 21.—(AP.)—Carol Stone, the third daughter of comedian Fred Stone to go on the stage, made her debut last night in the Arnold Bennett play, "Mr. Prohack."

Stone came from New York for the performance. His other two daughters, Dorothy and Paula, have played in musical comedies for several seasons.

The leading role in "Mr. Prohack," presented in America for the first time, was played by Mrs. Dorothy Cheston-Bennett, widow of the playwright and novelist.

Two Students Held In Fraternity Fire

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(AP.)—H. Albert Smith, 26, of Humphreys, Mo., president of the local chapter of Sigma Chi fraternity, and Edward J. Parlton, 22, of Derby, Conn., a pledge, were held for the grand jury yesterday on charges of setting fire to their fraternity house.

Bond of $1,500 was fixed after a hearing in police court.

DIVORCE PAPERS DRAWN WHILE DAVE SINGS

Warbles of Love, but Ignores Wife's Pleas From Ocean

LONG BEACH, Cal., July 21.—(AP.)—Billed as "David Hutton, the Angelus Temple baritone," the husband of Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, made his debut on the vaudeville stage here yesterday, while his attorneys prepared legal papers for service in Baltimore, notifying the evangelist she has been sued for divorce.

Hutton, nervous before his first stage appearance, was cheered by the sight of a line forming at the theater.

Going to his hotel window to look on the line, composed mostly of women, he said:

"This is the greatest day of my life. I have always dreamed of 'going on the stage."

WILL PAY NURSE

Jerome Mayo, his attorney, prepared the papers that will be served on Mrs. Hutton next Tuesday when she arrives in Baltimore from France, where she recently underwent an operation.

While Hutton sang a sentimental ballad here, Mayo was in conference in Los Angeles with attorneys for Miss Hazel St. Pierre, a Pasadena nurse, who was awarded a $5,000 judgment against Hutton for breach of promise. Mayo announced:

"It's all settled. There has been no reduction in the amount of the judgment and Dave will pay it off in a sort of installment plan, a little down and a little here and there. That is agreeable to Miss St. Pierre."

IGNORES WIFE'S PLEA

Hutton went through his final rehearsal during the morning, lifting his heavy voice above the spasmodic conversation of a dozen chorus girls who appeared in another act. He selected his costume, a gray suit, a mauve necktie and two-toned shoes.

Hutton spoke casually about his wife. Fingering a wireless message in which she appealed to him to wait until she was physically able to face the ordeal of divorce, Hutton dismissed it with a shrug.

He said he had answered none of her messages from mid-Atlantic and has no intention of complying with her plea to "come and get me." She previously asked him to meet her in Baltimore.

LIBBY'S STAGE RETURN DENIED

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., July 21.—(AP.)—Libbey Holman Reynolds, widow of Zachary Smith Reynolds and former Broadway revue star, will not return to the stage until her son is at least 2 years old, Benet Polikoff, her attorney, announced yesterday.

Polikoff has just returned from the East, where he said he found the blues singer much improved in health and the baby "doing fine."

The child, an "incubator baby," was born several months after Smith Reynolds was found at the palatial home here dying from a bullet wound in the head. Polikoff said the mother desired to name the child Smith, for its father, for whose death she was indicted and later vindicated.

"A Thousand Cheers," publicized as the vehicle in which she would return to stardom, holds no appeal for Libby now, Polikoff said.

Negro Doctor Denies Love Theft Charge

LOS ANGELES, July 21.—(AP.)—Denying theft of the affections of Mrs. Fay Desmond, wife of Leo F. Desmond, Dr. Eugene C. Nelson, Negro physician, today had filed an answer to the $100,000 suit brought in Superior Court here by the oil machinery salesman.

Nelson, former husband of Helen Lee Worthing, once a Follies girl, said the suit was barred by the statute of limitations and also that the complaint failed to state facts sufficient for a cause of action.

KIN CAN'T SELL KAISER AUTO

NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP.)—Prince Louis Ferdinand, second son of the former Crown Prince of Germany, who works for the Ford Motor Company in Detroit, returned on the Europa yesterday from a holiday abroad and reported his grandfather, the former Kaiser, still was at work on the woodpile in Doorn.

The former Kaiser "spoke highly" of President Roosevelt, Prince Louis reported, but remained deaf to his sales talk when he tried to sell him an automobile.

The Prince visited his royal cousins, the Prince of Wales and Prince George, in London for the first time, and recalled a delightful visit there with the English governess of his childhood, Miss Ether Brimble, whom he had not seen since 1914.

Man's Curiosity Saves Baby From Pool

JEANNETTE, Pa., July 21.—(INS.)—"Skippy" Mitchell, 2½ years old, is alive because a man was curious yesterday.

Daniel Zorn, 55, saw frightened Russell Montrose, 10, hurrying from the Sensenich Dam near Irwin, Pa. He asked:

"Where are you going with that pair of shoes?"

"A boy just drowned down there."

Zorn hurried down to the water's edge, grabbed the protruding arm of "Skippy" and pulled him out. First aid was applied, and "Skippy" regained consciousness.

CAROLYN WELLS FOILS DEATH 'SENTENCE'

Writer Resumes Career And Rhinestones Go Back on 'Shroud'

NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP.)—Carolyn Wells isn't going to die after all—not at once, anyway—and now she can put the rhinestones back on her shroud.

Once given but two years to live, the noted author has confounded her doctor and settled down again to the literary career she started in 1900.

Laughing, she declared today:

"You may say that the event of my demise has been postponed about 22 or 32 years."

Seemingly condemned to quick death by what appeared to be a fatal heart ailment, the creator of scores of detective stories, of the Patty books, the Pete and Polly stories, a "Lovers' Baedeker" and some 150 other popular works, found adventure and humor in the approaching event.

DRESSMAKER PRACTICAL

The related:

"More than anything, I liked immensely the attitude of my dressmaker.

"I called her about a dress in which to be buried.

"'Your white chiffon with the rhinestone trimming will be just the thing,' she told me. 'I'll run right over and cut off the trimming.'

"'But my short sleeves,' I protested.

"'Well, you can wear your cocktail jacket, too.'

"Wasn't that grand—laying me out in a cocktail jacket. I just adored it. It was much better than a lot of sympathy."

FELT NO REGRET

She felt no regret, Miss Wells said, when she heard her "sentence" pronounced.

"When I was told, I felt it was true. But I didn't really feel sorry—my life has been full and complete. I did wish to heaven, though, I had fixed things up a bit more.

"But after I arranged my will I didn't know what to do. I fussed around and the first thing I knew I was getting better."

To date she has received, as result of a story she recently wrote about her impeding death, nearly 2,000 letters tendering sympathy and suggesting cures.

INSISTS ON HASH

She loves it.

"All but that part suggesting diets about meat and potatoes. If I can't have hash I won't have anything to do with diets.

"And prunes—someone offered a diet without prunes. Who ever heard of a diet without prunes—"

Dismissing diets, prunes and death as something pretty much like rhinestone-trimmed shrouds, she turned back in high good humor to the problem of squeezing four murders into her latest mystery novel.

BRITAIN OUSTS 2 AMERICANS

LONDON, July 21.—(INS.)—The American colony was baffled today by the case of a mysterious American and his wife who, according to the Daily Express, were told to "get out" of England and "go quietly" because of anti-Communistic activities.

The couple, Maj. and Mrs. Frank Pease, were asked to leave the country, the Express said, "because propaganda they were conducting against Communism 'is not in the public interest.'"

Maj. Pease is a mysterious figure little known in American circles. He and his wife came here two years ago from Paris, and since then, according to a statement by Mrs. Pease to the Express, have been engaged in writing propaganda against Communism.

The first intimation they received that they were not wanted in England, Mrs. Pease said, came after her husband had submitted to Lord Trenchard, head of Scotland Yard, a copy of his book, "Red Russia's World Web."

Candy on Stick Kills Boy, 2, as He Falls

NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP.)—A strawberry "all-day sucker" killed 2-year-old Edward Pinto.

He had it in his mouth yesterday while he ran down the sidewalk. Suddenly he tripped and fell on his face. The stick snapped off and the ball of hard candy lodged in his windpipe, strangling him before he could be hurried to a hospital.

Olivier Reaches U. S. For Role With Garbo

NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP.)—Laurence Olivier, English actor, who has been signed to play opposite Greta Garbo in motion pictures, arrived on the Europa yesterday on his way to Hollywood.

With him was his wife, Jill Esmond, English actress.

PLATTE, S. D., July 21.—(AP.)—Ed S. Johnson, former United States Senator from South Dakota, is dead today from heart disease.

OLD-TIME RALLY OPENS HERRON CANDIDACY

Muldowney, Sheriff's Solicitor Robert Averbach, P. J. O'Malley, former Senator Wilson McClintock and Supt. of Police Frank McQuaide. Senator Weller noted their presence when he opened his speech with the remark:

"Even at this meeting we are represented by the gods in the galleries."

The meeting provided no surprises. The slate went through on fast schedule, and, as Maryor Herron said, the only surprise would have been if the meeting had declined to indorse him.

CHEERS SPONTANEOUS

Any way you look at it, the meeting was a good one from the Herron standpoint and the enthusiasm had an element of spontaniety. There were pay-rollers and would-be payrollers, but they did their cheering without drill-masters, and there was a big crowd.

The English room of the hotel was crowded to the doors, and hundreds of men and women stood on the sidewalks along Penn avenue and listened to the words of the speakers, brought to them through amplifiers.

The county organization, as well as the city regulars, were well represented. County Chairman William H. Coleman took no part in the formalities, but he was outside the door at adjournment with his right arm pumping busily at handshakes to the party workers. There were county as well as city candidates indorsed.

SLATE NAMED

The slate indorsed, together with their nominators and seconders, follows:

Mayor John S. Herron—Nominated by Samuel Harden Church, seconded by Richard Briney.

Councilman Harry A. Little—Nominated by David I. McCahill, seconded by Henry Blum.

Councilman W. Y. English—Nominated by Alfred C. Ackenheil.

Councilman C. B. Connelley—Nominated by Louis Caplan, seconded by Bresci E. P. Leonard.

Councilman George S. Oliver—Nominated by Walter J. Christy, seconded by Edward G. Lang.

Councilman Frank L. Duggan—Nominated by Dr. C. B. Schildecker, seconded by W. G. Yost.

Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar—Nominated by W. Clyde Grubbs, seconded by Meade J. Mulvihill.

Coroner W. J. McGregor—Nominated by C. E. Theobald, seconded by Dr. Robert L. Anderson.

MAKES NO PROMISES

The Mayor was the only nominee to speak in response to his indorsement, explaining he was going to make no fulsome promises for the future at this time.

There was a mixture of independents and regulars in the program, as well as an effort to show that all wings of the Republican party were interested in the slate being adopted. This plainly showed in the announcement of the officers who will manage the Herron campaign.

Senator Weller is to be chairman, Mrs. A. G. H. Frazier, one-time Leslie adherent, is to be vice chairman; Edward Labowitz is secretary, C. J. McBride, treasurer, and Leonard S. Levin, chairman of the meetings and speakers' committee. Labovitz and McBride hold the same positions in the county committee.

GRUBBS PLAYS PART

W. Clyde Grubbs, who nominated Gollmar, was in 1930 chairman of the western campaign committee for Gov. Pinchot, and was County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern's favorite for either a post on the Public Service Commission or the Common Pleas Court vacancy which went to Judge Ralph H. Smith.

Robert H. Braun, Jr., who seconded the nomination of John Schrader for Jury Commissioner, is a son of the superintendent of the workhouse, who once was Sheriff through the backing of the late Senator M. G. Leslie. Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell, potentially a candidate against Mayor Herron, was also a Leslie lieutenant.

The attitude of the meeting in approving the slate was that there should be co-ordinated support for all the candidates listed.

MAYOR PRAISED

Samuel Harden Church, president of Carnegie Institute, who "nominated" Mayor Herron, said he was a worthy man. He added:

"Mr. Herron's long experience in City Council and now as the Mayor of our city has qualified him beyond comparison for grave responsibilities. I know that he looks upon the government of Pittsburgh as in effect a great business corporation, and that he would like to see it operated generally as other great business corporations are operated.

"I am aware that some men are saying that Mr. Herron would be officially controlled by political dictation, but knowing him through an acquaintance extending over many years I know that John Herron will recognize no master but his own conscience."

MERITS CITED

In the councilmanic nominations Little and English were praised on the score of their experience, Connelley because of his extensive work in the development of trade schools, Oliver because of his long connection with public affairs and Duggan because of his efforts in welfare work, traffic and industrial safety, in both of which Pittsburgh was said to stand first in the country.

Gollmar, according to Grubbs, had acted as a concilator in many industrial disputes, his negotiations with employers and workers having averted many threatened troubles.

Herron, in appreciation of the indorsement said:

"I'm not going to be a bashful candidate. I'm not going to appear surprised by what happened here tonight. I am Mayor now because my colleagues in Council first elected me their president and then Mayor when a vacancy occurred. I shall try to make them proud of those actions, and tonight, surrounded by the best people of Pittsburgh, I say I shall try to make you also proud of what you have done. I ask support for our whole ticket, to keep Pittsburgh in the high place it already holds."

Herron was given an ovation, and at the close of the meeting the audience crowded about to shake his hand.

Former Athlete Seeks Judgeship

A former athlete of note in this district to enter the political field is Attorney John P. Baker, who has announced his candidacy for judge of the County Court. Baker attended South High School, University of Pittsburgh and University of Pennsylvania. He was an outstanding scholastic, collegiate and professional basketball player.

ENTRY PICKED BY DEMOCRATS

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Pittsburgh's Democratic organization candidate for Mayor, being groomed to emerge successfully in the party primaries and lead an aggressive attack against the Republican organization in November, has been selected and tagged, Joseph F. Guffey declared on his return to Washington today.

The identity of the Democratic standard bearer will be announced in due time, Guffey explained:

"Just now it is a little too early to drag the name from the hat."

The Democratic mayoralty selection will be the 100 per cent choice of local Democrats in the saddle, he will be acceptable to Postmaster General "Jim" Farley and measure up to all the specifications for Roosevelitian indorsement and sponsorship, Guffey said.

Guffey is pleased with the choice which apparently was settled on his last week-end trip to Pittsburgh. The Democratic watchword will be the "new deal."

ZOLLER TO RUN FOR COUNCIL

Harry R. Zoller, 2506 Kingwood street, Thirty-second Ward, has announced as a candidate for City Council. Zoller, a meat packer, was born on the North Side, but moved to the Overbrook section 13 years ago, and was a member of Overbrook Borough Council when that section was taken into the city.

Zoller is a war veteran, is married and the father of three children.

Clemens J. Gross, 2309 Patterson street, has announced as a candidate for alderman of the Sixteenth Ward. He is being supported by Fred Dengler, a city assessor, and Republican ward chairman. The incumbent alderman is William J. Hughes, who has been a follower of former President of Council James F. Malone.

behind whom all the anti-administration elements might muster.

SUPPORT EXPECTED

It is assumed that Mr. Witherow's indorsement of Councilman McArdle has the approval of practically all the group which has been interested in the industrial leader and which has been carrying on a bitter warfare against Senator James J. Coyne, Herron supporter, following their successful effort to have former Mayor Charles H. Kline removed from office.

If a councilmanic slate is formed when McArdle announces his candidacy it is expected that Witherow will be a candidate for the legislative body.

Some of those who have been interested in the Witherow candidacy may not accept his indorsement of Councilman McArdle with hearty enthusiasm, though they prefer him either to Malone or Mackrell. Their financial contributions to a campaign may not be as great as had Mr. Witherow or Judge Patterson made the race.

MACKRELL SILENT

Mr. Mackrell today declined to comment on the Witherow statement. Friends of the Register of Wills are insisting that he will be a candidate for the mayoralty, creating a three-cornered battle which will be to the advantage of Mayor Herron. Mr. Mackrell would not say whether he would or would not run when interviewed today.

He and Councilman McArdle held a conference Tuesday in the Register's office, McArdle being reported to have made the overture. This followed a meeting between Malone and Witherow, at which Witherow suggested to the former Council president that both should get out in favor of McArdle.

Mr. Malone agreed to turn the proposition over in his mind, but so far has made no public declaration of his attitude. He has consistently said he would step aside if he conceived that move best for a concerted drive against Mayor Herron.

ADVISED ON TACTICS

Mr. McArdle, in his conference with Mackrell, is presumed to have been feeling out the ground as to the possibility of winning the support of the Register. It is understood he has been advised to negotiate personally toward opposition cohesion, the same proposition which was put before Judge Patterson when Citizens' Committee leaders attempted to induce the Judge to be a candidate.

It is further understood that the meeting between McArdle and Mackrell broke up with neither sure just what the other was going to do.

Friends of Mr. Witherow abandoned his candidacy with reluctance, the desire for him having progressed over a period of months. They finally were convinced that no concessions would be made by some of the large groups affiliated with practical politics, but on the outs with the city administration.

ABANDONS AMBITION

In the circumstances, and being primarily concerned with the defeat of the Mayor, they and Mr. Witherow determined to evidence their sincerity by abandoning any show of personal ambition. In his statement last night, asking support for Councilman McArdle, Mr. Witherow said that "the welfare of this city is the paramount issue," and "personal considerations must be subordinated." He praised the record of McArdle, his statement reading:

"Many citizens of Pittsburgh have urged me to become a candidate for Mayor. I highly appreciate and value their extraordinary expressions of confidence in my ability to undertake this task.

"The political destiny of Pittsburgh is in a critical condition. Unless concentrated and unified effort is regimented amongst the men and women who are alive to the seriousness of the conditions confronting us, no real accomplishment will be attained.

"The welfare of the people of this city is the paramount issue. Personal considerations must be subordinated to the ultimate end. Co-ordination is vital.

"I, therefore, ask that my name be withdrawn from any consideration for the office of Mayor, and urge those who have been most interested in my support, and the citizens generally, to throw their influence and backing to the candidacy of P. J. McArdle.

"His record in service to the city of Pittsburgh has demonstrated high honesty, efficiency and ability. He has unwaveringly fought the battle against the previous and present Republican machine. His principles of government represent those for which we have been striving.

"I earnestly ask and urge a vigorous and militant campaign in behalf of Mr. McArdle. He is outstanding in ability to give Pittsburgh proper government, has been thoroughly tested and found secure, and is a man for whom the people of Pittsburgh should have great enthusiasm in vesting their confidence."

AMERICAN JEW BEATEN BY NAZI MOB

International News Service.

LONDON, July 21. — United States Consul General George S. Messersmith, in Berlin, has lodged a protest with the German government against maltreatment of Americans, after Philip Zuckerman, of 69 East Third street, New York City, reported he was beaten up by Nazi storm troopers in Leipzig, American diplomatic officials here learned today.

Last Sunday, according to his story, Zuckermann was standing with his wife and two relatives on Bruehl street in Leipzig, watching a parade of storm troopers.

When most of the paraders had passed, the last few broke from their ranks and came toward the group on the sidewalk.

Zuckerman said the Nazis attacked everybody in his party because one of them wore a long beard and was easily identified as a Jew.

Zuckerman said he declared he was an American, but added that by that time at least 200 persons had gathered around him.

According to the information here, he charged the storm troopers "beat me unconscious" and that he later woke up in ad rug store.

He said the man hwo took him to the store charged the storm troopers kicked him in the head after they beat him.

Zuckerman, a Jew, according to the information received here, is an American citizen and an imported of raw furs and has owned a business house at Leipzig since 1931.

He is said to be in a hospital at Berlin, in serious condition.

Nazis Round Up Jews, Parade Them to Jail

BERLIN, July 21.—(AP.)—The ancient city of Nuremberg was the scene yesterday of an extraordinary roundup of Jews, no news of which was allowed to reach the German public.

Between 200 and 300 Jews, mostly businessmen and shopkeepers, were arrested by the Nazis and paraded through the main streets of the city. The procession was headed and flanked by storm troopers. The Jews were taken eventually to the Baeronchans barracks, where presumably they are still in custody.

According to local Nazi circles, the action was intended to be "a drive against Jewish society." It was not ascertained whether the drive was sanctioned by high authority or was on the initiative of Nuremberg storm troopers.

Reports were circulating that similar action would be taken in other towns throughout the reich.

Jewish News Agency Closed in Berlin

BERLIN, July 21.—(INS.)—The secret state police today closed the Berlin office of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency.

Civil War Veteran Dies at Harmony

BUTLER, Pa., July 21.—Jacob D. Hodil, 89, last survivor of the Civil War in the Harmony-Zelienople district, is dead today at his home in Harmony. He served in Company I, 76th Pennsylvania Infantry.

He was the last of four veterans to die within a year.

Germany Losing World Friendship, Says Church

Growing Sympathy Curbed by Acts Of Nazis

A growing sympathy toward Germany by the world at large has been curbed by the acts of the Hitler government toward Jews, according to Samuel Harden Church, president of Carnegie Institute.

Church spoke last night over radio station WWSW in behalf of the $2,000,000 Jewish relief campaign.

Hitler, according to Church, has ridden into power through a policy of appealing to the lowest instincts of racial and religious hatred.

TRADE RESTRICTED

Church continued:

"He has atrociously decreed that the Jews are to have no part in the educational or professional life in Germany; and that they shall conduct their stores and their shops only when those places are placarded with warnings not to patronize them because they are owned by Jews. Jewish professors, some of whom have made illustrious contributions to scientific knowledge, have been removed from their chairs, and their students have been taught by Hitler to spit upon them.

"Jewish students are beaten and driven away, and informed by Hitler that education is not for them—no, not even in their own country of Germany. Little Jewish children who had learned to lisp the praise of their fatherland, suddenly learn from Hitler that the fatherland is no longer theirs. Jewish judges, lawyers and doctors are all at once boycotted by Hitler out of their work; and over all he has built up the atmosphere of violence and oppression."

SEES FRIENDSHIP HURT

Other nations honor Jews for their contributions to science and world progress, Church declared. A friendly feeling toward the German people was broken down after the Hitler government went in, he said, explaining:

"Until Mr. Hitler came into power there was a large and growing sympathy in the heart of humanity toward Germany, which manifested itself in a feeling that the harsh terms of the Versailles Treaty should be modified in those conditions which seemed to restrict the economic life of the German people.

"In the promotion of this design Germany was relieved of further reparation payments; and there was a sense of kindness and forgiveness toward the German people out of which it was hoped that a real peace and a true friendship might be developed throughout the world.

"But Mr. Hitler's inflamed preachments have revived among many of the German people the insufferable arrogance which drove them stark mad from militarism in 1914."

STUDYING ART, RUNS ELEVATOR

While Michael Wachper, 28, of 716 Eureka street, Mt. Oliver, is employed as an elevator operator, but he is "marking time."

Wachper is an artist. But while helping to support a family of seven, he has been unable to leave a job which brought a steady income.

In the meantime, he has been preparing for the future by studying commercial art at Fifth Avenue High School. He also has studied at Carnegie Tech and the Art Institute of Pittsburgh.

With studios both at home and in the locker room of the P. and L. E. Annex Building, where he works, Wachper has ample space to pursue his hobby.

Several of his paintings have been sold. One, a portrait, was purchased by L. A. Lee, superintendent of telegraph for the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad. Several churches, too, have bought oil paintings from him.

When conditions improve, Wachper intends to enter the commercial art field, while also painting in oil.

Former Grid Star Gets Year in Pen

CAMDEN, N. J., July 21.—(INS.)—Charles Edgar (Blondy) Wallace, 53, reputed South Jersey beer baron and one-time famed football player at Pennsylvania University, today had been sentenced to a year and a day in the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., on a charge of evading payment of $6,149 in income taxes for 1929 and 1930.

3 NAZIS FREED IN CHURCH FEUD

KLAGENFURT, Austria, July 21.—(AP.)—The release of three Nazis, who had been jailed on suspicion of desecrating a church in nearby Bodendorf with swastika emblems and blasphemous slogans, aroused excitement today. Nazi paraders shouted:

"The priest and sexton did it."

JEWS OPEN NAZI BOYCOTT

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
Universal Service.

AMSTERDAM, July 21.—World Jewry has declared an organized economic war against Hitler Germany in reprisal for "inhuman" Nazi persecution of German Jews. All countries and all religions were urged yesterday to join in a boycott against the Hitler Reich.

The Jewish World Economic Conference, called here for three days especially to consider the plight of German Jews, was convened under the chairmanship of Samuel Untermyer, New York attorney.

Twenty-six delegates, representing 16 countries, were in attendance, while cables and telegrams from Jews of 10 other countries were received, declaring they would co-operate in whatever measures the conference takes.

Discussion of the treatment of Jews in Germany described it as "an inhuman and barbarous return to the mediaeval age." Hitlerism was characterized as a menace to the peace and progress of civilization.

5 AMERICANS OUT ON BAIL

PALMA, Mallorca, July 21.—(AP.)—Five Americans were free on bail and awaiting trial today after being jailed six weeks for allegedly assaulting a civil guard.

Mrs. Clinton B. Lockwood, of West Springfield, Mass., and Rutherford Fullerton, of Columbus, O., posted bail of about $1,200, which sufficed for the others.

WALTHER YOUTH TOLD TO FACE DUAL DUTY

CHICAGO, July 21.—(AP.)—The rising generation today was exhorted to assume the obligations of a dual citizenship, one religious and the other political.

In a plea to young Lutherans attending the International Walther League convention to observe their civic responsibilities, Congressman John W. Boehne, of Evansville, Ind., said:

"It is imperative that the generation of which you are an integral part must resolve to establish once more a dual citizenship, however, divorced from each other, one a citizenship and a communion with your God and the second a worthwhile citizenship under constituted authority to your government which, by the way, is a divine command."

The foremost obligation, Boehne declared, and upon which hinged the entire relationship between a citizen and his country was that of "loyalty to fundamental moral principles upon which all right conduct is based."

As part of the electorate, he said, the young of America should take a more serious interest in their government by exercising extreme caution in choosing administrative officers.

This could be done by acting according to the dictates of the conscience, he declared, having in mind the principles on which the republic was founded.

Winners of the league's annual short story contest were announced as follows: Theodore A. Weiss, of Quincy, Ill., first; Dorothy Burmeister, of St. Louis, second, and Hilda Hillger, of Chicago, third.

In the poetry contest, Miss Doris Kretzschmar, of Minneapolis, was named poet laureate.

W. F. Weihrman, international camp director, reported that a score of district camps had been prepared for the summer to serve as training schools for future league leaders. He announced that a tour had been arranged to take leaguers from the convention to the international camp at Arcadia, Mich.

MUSHBALL NEW FOE OF CRIME

Pittsburgh's unique weapon in fighting crime is the mushball.

At a meeting of the Western Pennsylvania Committee on Penal Affairs, Public Charities Association, held yesterday in Kaufmann's dining room, Thomas A. Meryweather, secretary of the Criminal Justice Association, and executive director of the Crime Prevention Association of Philadelphia, brought this to light. He said:

"Playing of organized games among boys and young men will prevent crime in the future. Pittsburgh is a mushball town. You can play four games of mushball where you can play only one of baseball."

Reserve Officers' Outing Tomorrow

Regular Army and National Guard officers will be guests at a picnic of the Reserve Officers Association, Pittsburgh Chapter, in the Spreading Oak Grove tomorrow. Tennis, riding, dancing and a golf match are planned. Lieut. Ronald L. Thompson is chairman of the picnic committee.

ROOSEVELT'S EMPLOYMENT PLAN TEXT

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(AP.)—The text of President Roosevelt's employment agreement follows:

During the period of the President's emergency re-employment drive, that is to say, from August 1 to December 31, 1933, or to any earlier date of approval of a code of fair competition to which he is subject, the undersigned hereby agrees with the President as follows:

1—After August 31, 1933, not to employ any person under 16 years of age, except that persons between 14 and 16 may be employed (but not in manufacturing or mechanical industries) for not to exceed three hours per day and those hours between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m., in such work as will not interfere with hours of day school.

2—Not to work any accounting, clerical, banking, office, service, or sales employes (except outside salesmen) in any store, office, department, establishment, of public utility, or on any automotive or horse-drawn passenger, express, delivery, or freight service or in any other place or manner, for more than 40 hours in any one week and not to reduce the hours of any store or service operation to below 52 hours in any one week, unless such hours were less than 52 hours per week before July 1, 1933, and in the latter case not to reduce such hours at all.

Artisans' Hours

3—Not to employ any factory or mechanical worker or artisan more than a maximum week of 35 hours until December 31, 1933, but with the right to work a maximum week of 40 hours for any six weeks within this period; and not to employ any worker more than eight hours in any one day.

4—The maximum hours fixed in the foregoing paragraphs (2) and (3) shall not apply to employes in establishments employing not more than two persons in towns of less than 2,500 population which towns are not part of a larger trade area; nor to registered pharmacists or other professional persons employed in their profession; nor to employes in a managerial or executive capacity, who now receive more than $35 per week; nor to employes on emergency maintenance and repair work; nor to very special cases where restrictions of hours of highly skilled workers on continuous processes would unavoidably reduce production but, in any such special case, at least time and one-third shall be paid for hours worked in excess of the maximum. Population for the purposes of this agreement shall be determined by reference to the 1930 federal census.

Minimum Pay Proposed

5—Not to pay any of the classes of employes mentioned in paragraph (2) less than $15 per week in any city of over 500,000 population, or in the immediate trade area of such city; nor less than $14.50 per week in any city of between 250,000 and 500,000 population, or in the immediate trade area of such city; nor less than $14 per week in any city of between 2,500 and 250,000 population, or in the immediate trade area of such city; and in towns of less than 2,500 population to increase all wages by not less than 20 per cent, provided that this shall not require wages in excess of $12 per week.

6—Not to pay any employe of the classes mentioned in paragraph (3) less than 40 cents per hour unless the hourly rate for the same class of work on July 15, 1929, was less than 40 cents per hour, in which latter case not to pay less than the hourly rate on July 15, 1929, and in no event less than 30 cents per hour. It is agreed that this paragraph establishes a guaranteed minimum rate of pay regardless of whether the employe is compensated on the basis of a time rate or on a piecework performance.

Wage Cuts Barred

7—Not to reduce the compensation for employment now in excess of the minimum wages hereby agreed to (notwithstanding that the hours worked in such employment may be hereby reduced) and to increase the pay for such employment by an equitable readjustment of all pay schedules.

8—Not to use any subterfuge to frustrate the spirit and intent of this agreement which is, among other things, to increase employment by a universal covenant, to remove obstructions to commerce, and to shorten hours and raise wages for the shorter week to a living basis.

9—Not to increase the price of any merchandise sold after the date hereof over the price of July 1, 1933, by more than is made necessary by actual increases in production, replacement of invoice costs of merchandise since July 1, 1933, or by taxes or other costs resulting from action taken pursuant to the agricultural adjustment act and, in setting such price increases, to give full weight to probable increases in sales volume and to refrain from taking profiteering advantage of the consuming public.

10—To support and patronize establishments which also have signed this agreement and are listed as members of N. R. A. (National Recovery Adminstration).

11—To co-operate to the fullest extent in having a code of fair competition submitted by his industry at the earliest possible date and in any event before September 1, 1933.

Price Adjustments

12—Where, before June 16, 1933, the undersigned had contracted to purchase goods at a fixed price for delivery during the period of this agreement, the undersigned will make an appropriate adjustment of said fixed price to meet any increase in cost caused by the seller having signed this President's re-employment agreement or having become bound by any code of fair competition approved by the President.

13—This agreement shall cease upon approval by the President of a code to which the undersigned is subject; or, if the N. R. A. so elects, upon submission of a code to which the undersigned is subject and substitution of any of its provisions for any of the terms of this agreement.

14—It is agreed that any person who wishes to do his part in the President's re-employment drive by signing this agreement but who asserts that some particular provision hereof, because of peculiar circumstances, will create great and unavoidable hardship, may obtain the benefits hereof by signing this agreement and putting it into effect and then, in a petition approved by a representative trade association of his industry, or other representative organization designed by N. R. A., may apply for a stay of such provision pending a summary investigation by N. R. A. if he agrees in such application to abide by the decision of such investigation. This agreement is entered into pursuant to Section 4(A) of the National Industrial Recovery Act and subject to all the terms and conditions required by sections 7(A) and 10(B) of that act.

HOW 'NEW DEAL' WILL GO OVER

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(AP.)—Here's the plan which Hugh S. Johnson and his aides have mapped out to put the big re-employment campaign across:

On July 27, mail carriers will begin distributing to every establishment employing more than two persons blank agreement forms by which signers pledge limitation of working hours and higher wage minimums.

Each signer mails his agreement to the nearest district office of the Department of Commerce in a return envelope provided.

TO ISSUE BADGES

On or after August 1 each employer who has signed may present a certificate of compliance furnished him to his postmaster, receiving posters and badges bearing the words, "Member N. R. A. We do our part." (N. R. A. means National Recovery Administration.) This may be displayed on goods.

Re-employment agreements will be filed in Washington and also posted in the local postoffice.

After August 1, consumers who wish to help may go to authorized establishments (to be designated later) and sign this statement:

"I will co-operate in re-employment by supporting and patronizing employers and workers who are members of N. R. A." They will be given an N. R. A. membership button.

VOLUNTEER BOARDS

Volunteer unpaid boards of seven will be named in each of the 24 Department of Commerce districts to supervise and advise on progress of the re-employment movement.

State recovery boards of nine members will be created in each state to give further supervision and to co-operate with the Governors. A council will accompany each board, its membership drawn from heads of state labor, trade, civic, welfare associations, etc.

There will be no compulsion except that of "conscience and opinion."

A thorough program of public explanation of the agreement and its aims will be carried on by addresses and otherwise, with civic, patriotic, religious and fraternal organizations co-operating.

COAL COMPANY UNIONS FOUGHT

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(AP.)—Reports that an open-shop clause had been included in a bituminous coal code of fair competition being drawn up here drew immediate opposition last night from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Green said:

"Our position toward a proposal for a company union clause in a coal code is just the same as it was toward the steel industry's proposal.

"It is our purpose to fight most vigorously any company union clause.

"Representatives of the employers had their day when the Industrial Recovery Act was considered by Congress. They proposed a company union clause at that time and Congress refused to put it in.

"Now they're trying to get into the code what they couldn't get into the act. It's opposed to the spirit and the letter of the law."

Meantime the operators drawing the code divided into a dozen committees to consider what J. D. A. Morrow, of Pittsburgh, called "the thousands of little details which must be cleared up before the code is finished."

To taste right food must be seasoned right

—every good cook knows that

To Satisfy—a cigarette has to be seasoned just right

YOU buy food—steak, flour, corn meal, or fruit—it is cooked and brought to the table and tastes just fine. While the same food, cooked by somebody else, may not taste right at all. That's the difference between cooks—knowing how to season food.

It's somewhat like this with cigarettes. Many kinds of cigarettes have good tobaccos, but they are not mixed right; and then again they are not seasoned with the right amount of the right kind of Turkish Tobacco.

Chesterfields are seasoned just right . . . they are milder and taste better . . . and that's why They Satisfy.

U. S. MOBILIZED IN GIGANTIC JOB DRIVE

tain a fixed minimum wage and not to exceed a fixed maximum work week during "the President's emergency re-employment drive" from August 1 to December 1.

The basic hours, labor and wages:

Child labor outlawed.

$14 to $15 a week minimum and a 40-hour week for so-called white collar labor.

30 to 40 cents an hour minimum for a 35-hour week and an eight-hour day maximum for factory and mechanical labor.

Equitable readjustment of pay above the minimum.

Every signer receives a certificate and government badge showing the seal of N. R. A. (National Recovery Administration) and the words: "Member N. R. A. We do our part."

This badge may be displayed on all equipment, goods, communications and premises. The signer may appeal for adjustments if a hardship is worked.

Johnson today telegraphed to Chamber of Commerce presidents in all cities of over 10,000, asking them to create local committees which will run the community end of the re-employment drive.

Simultaneously the presses at the government printing office were roaring away on production of millions of copies of the President's emergency re-employment agreements, which employers will be asked to sign.

Johnson asked the presidents of the commerce chambers to get on the local committee their Mayor and officials heads of the Clearing House, Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs, retail merchants' associations, federation of labor, advertising clubs, federations of women's clubs, welfare societies, ministerial associations, real estate associations and other important units.

Further instructions as to conduct of the campaign were promised later.

The campaign in general will be under supervision of Charles F. Horner, Kansas City, war-time head of the Liberty Loan drive speakers' bureau.

Frank R. Wilson, of Sioux City, Ia.; Louis J. Alber, of Cleveland, and Labert St. Clair, of New York, all specialists in the Liberty Loan movement, have been assigned key positions in the new set-up.

JOHNSON HOPEFUL

Johnson said:

"We're going to appeal to the public to support the people who agree. I believe we can create a psychology stronger than in war. We already have the churches and fraternal societies lined up."

For every consumer who wishes to co-operate and become a member of the N. R. A., there will be a badge issued upon signing of this statement:

"I will co-operate in re-employment by supporting and patronizing employers and workers who are members of N. R. A."

Johnson exhibited a chart he called "the only significant chart there is." It showed that values have shot far upward, leaving purchasing power behind. He said:

"It is inevitable that these must move together for prosperity. So the stock market crash isn't such a bad thing after all."

Johnson gave out two documents after leaving the White House. One was a copy of the agreement every employer recives, the other a bulletin describing "the President's re-employment program."

AGREEMENT OUTLINED

The agreement began with a note "to every employer" and was signed "Franklin D. Roosevelt." It read:

"1. This agreement is part of a nation-wide plan to raise wages, create employment and thus increase purchasing power and restore business. That plan depends wholly on united action by all employers. For this reason I ask you, as an employer, to do your part by signing.

"2. If it turns out that the general agreement bears unfairly on any group of employers they can have that straightened out by presenting promptly their proposed code of fair competition."

The bulletin described the plan. It explained an agreement would hold until a code for the particular industry was approved, fixing wages and hours. It warned that for every trade or industry which has not submitted a code by September 1, the President will exercise his authority and order hearings to proceed on the preparation of one.

OPEN SATURDAY NIGHT

U. S. JOB PROGRAM EXPLAINED IN DETAIL

SPEED NEEDED TO MEET CHANGES

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(AP.)—Here is the text of the industrial administration's explanation of President Roosevelt's re-employment program:

1—Names.

To save space and time, we will call the national industrial recovery act N. I. R. A., and the National Recovery Administration N. R. A.

2—Industrial Self-Government.

Bulletin No. 2, dated June 19, 1933, shows how to submit codes of fair competition under N. I. R. A. Sec. 3(A). It permits industries and trade associations to organize for self-government, to increase employment and improve labor conditions, to wipe out unfair practices, to discipline themselves and to stabilize their operations.

Nothing will be permitted to slow up that process. It must go fast if business is to do for itself and for the country the great good offered by N. I. R. A. It will proceed as promptly as codes can come in and be heard.

Nothing in this bulletin and nothing in our plans or statements change that process, which will go on without any regard whatever to the new and additional plan set forth in this bulletin (No. 3).

Rapid Action Needed

3—Codes and Agreements Distinguished.

But swift-moving changes require swift action. A rapid rise in prices and mass production is going on. Mass purchasing power must rise as fast. The President has stated his policy to do this by prompt shortening of the work-week and raising of wages for the shorter week.

Rules governing hours and wages of labor must be included in every code and codes must continue to come along as fast as possible. But whole industries must organize and have many conferences before codes can be worked out and that takes a long time.

In this national emergency, we cannot delay broad re-employment while we wait for codes. If we are not to have a set-back in our returning prosperity and if we are to take this chance to get out of this depression, we must act more quickly to get more and fatter pay envelopes to our workers.

We can do this under section 4(A) N. I. R. A., which, in addition to codes, permits trade groups and also individual employers to make agreements with the President himself to do their part in this great effort. We are going to use this additional power.

This bulletin sets forth this swifter plan, which is in addition to (and not in place of) codes. These new presidential agreements should be sent in by all individual employers at once, as provided in paragraph 7 of this bulletin, and codes should be sent in by industries and trade associations as fast as they can be prepared as provided in bulletin No. 2 N. R. A.

4—Time Limit on Codes.

In order to assist these trades and industries which are not sufficiently organized to present their codes in representative fashion, and to help compose the difficult problems in other trades and industries where economic differences have delayed the submission of codes, it is assumed that to all trades or industries which have not submitted codes under section 3(A), by September 1, 1933, the President will begin to hold hearings under section 3(D) as fast as proper notice can be given and hearings arranged.

Early Solution Seen

So much for codes. The plan to create nation-wide re-employment by presidential agreement is as follows:

5—The President's Re-Employment Drive.

A truce on selfishness. Before Labor Day—six weeks away—it is possible to solve the problem of re-employment through individual agreements with the President. But to do this the country must act quickly, vigorously, and boldly, as one man—get together in one powerful effort—declare a truce on selfishness.

In this mass attack on depression there is a clear-cut part for every group. Members of each group are invited to become members of N. R. A. on the plan set forth in this bulletin.

The employers' part is to act at once and all together to submit and scrupulously comply with agreements with the President to shorten hours and raise wages, and to co-operate with employes in peaceful adjustment of differences. The way to make these agreements is shown in Paragraph 7.

The employes' part is to do their best on the job and to co-operate with N. R. A. and employers in peaceful adjustment of differences. More can be done now for workers through this co-operation of 125,000,000 people than can ever be done by discord and dispute.

The public's part—and especially the part of women who control the bulk of buying!—is to support all those employers and employes who do their parts to put breadwinners back to work.

Will Receive Badges

6—Employers' Badge of Co-operation.

For the public to do its part, it must know which employers have done their part to put people back to work by making these agreements with the President and by codes.

Every industry and every employer who has agreed with the President on this plan, or who has had approved a code covering the vital subject of re-employment, will be enrolled as a member of N. R. A. and given a certificate and a government badge showing the seal of N. R. A. and the words:

"Member N. R. A. We do our part."

It will be authorized to show this badge on all its equipment, goods, communications, and premises. Lists of all employers authorized to use this badge will be on file at all postoffices, so that any misrepresentation by unauthorized use of N. R. A. badges can be prevented.

Messages to Be Mailed

7—Employers' Agreements With the President.

During the three days beginning July 27, letter carriers will deliver at each place of business a message from the President, accompanied by a copy of the form for the President's re-employment agreement. A certificate of compliance form, and a return envelope addressed to the district office of the Department of Commerce. Any employer who has not received this material by July 29 can obtain it from his local postmaster.

Each employer who wants to do his part will sign the agreement and return it in the return envelope.

On or after August 1, each employer who has signed his agreement and put it into effect may sign the certificate of compliance, take it to his postoffice, and receive the posters, etc., which evidence his membership in the N. R. A.

The district offices of the Department of Commerce will prepare each week a list of agreements received from each town, and will send one copy to Washington and one copy to the postoffice, where it will be posted for public inspection. Postmasters will send certificates of compliance to the district offices, where they will be checked off against the list.

Co-operation Sought

8—Consumers' Badge of Co-operation.

Every consumer in the United States who wishes to co-operate in the President's re-employment drive and be considered as a member in N. R. A. may at any time after August 12, 1933, go to the authorized establishment in his locality (to be announced later) and sign a statement of co-operation as follows:

"I will co-operate in re-employment by supporting and patronizing employers and workers who are members of N. R. A."

Any such signer will then be given and may thereafter use the insignia of membership in N. R. A.

Organization Outlined

9—District Recovery Boards.

There is hereby created one district recovery board of seven members for each district of the Department of Commerce to be appointed by the President. The board will consist of one person prominent in each manufacture, retail trade, wholesale trade, banking, farming, labor and social service who is willing to volunteer his services without compensation.

The local district manager of the Department of Commerce will serve as secretary of the board. The board will consider, advise, and report to N. R. A. on the progress of the execution of N. I. R. A. and will pass upon such matters as shall be referred to it for action by N. R. A.

Boards in States

10—State Recovery Boards.

There is hereby created for each state a state recovery board of nine members from each state to be appointed by the President. The board shall serve without compensation and shall select its chairman and secretary from among its own members.

The memberships will be truly representative of commercial, industrial, labor and civic interests of each state. The state boards will advise and report upon the execution of N. I. R. A. in their states, and receive and act upon all matters referred to them by N. R. A. or by their district boards.

Each governor will be notified of the appointment of the state board and it will meet at the call of the governor. At the first meeting it will organize and decide upon and promulgate its own rules and procedure.

Councils Planned

11—State Recovery Council.

There is hereby created, to be organized by and to serve in co-operation with each state board, a state recovery council. Upon application to the state recovery board by any state labor, manufacturing, trade, civic, social service of welfare association, organization, or club, the presiding officer thereof is entitled, ex-officio, to membership on the state recovery council.

The function of the council is to recommend to the board any necessary action with regard to the organization presided over by any member of the council, to request the services of the board and of N. R. A. in any proper matter to the end of perfecting and strengthening any such organization, and to assist to make available to the administration of N. R. A. the services of any such organization.

Compulsion Not Used

12—General Statement of Policy and Purpose.

There is no force here except conscience and opinion. This is an appeal to those good instincts of our people which have never been besought in vain. But it is not a ballyhoo campaign.

The plan is new; the agreement is not simple and a thorough public program of explanation is needed and will be carried out.

After four years of hopeless and seemingly helpless suffering and inaction, it would be unforgivable not to open to the country the chance it now has under this law to unite once more to overcome an emergency and, it may be, to defeat depression.

This is a test of patriotism. It is the time to demonstrate the faith of our fathers and our belief in ourselves. We are a people disciplined by democracy to a self-control—sufficient to unite our purchasing power—our labor—our management power to carry out this great national covenant with vigor, with determination but with the calm composure and fair-play which should always mark the American way.

Workers' Living Costs Up for Month

NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP.)—The National Industrial Conference Board reported today that wage-earners' living costs rose 1 per cent between May and June, compared with an advance of 0.8 per cent in May. They were 5.7 per cent lower than in June of last year, however, and 26.6 lower than in June, 1929.

Taking the dollar of 1923 as 100 cents, the board found the purchasing value of the dollar last June was 137.4 cents, compared with 138.7 cents in May.

Ickes' Soft Heart Puts 74 Back On Payroll

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(AP.)—Hard boiled government economy policies gave way to the soft heart of a cabinet officer.

Questioned by newspapermen, Secretary Ickes yesterday disclosed he had re-employed 74 professional men in the geological survey who had been dropped July 15 because he saw they faced "rough sledding."

Ickes announced he had placed the force on a furlough system to make way for the reinstated employes until they had time to "look around and find other jobs."

WAGES BLOCK ELECTRIC CODE

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(AP.)—The industrial recovery hearing on the proposed electrical manufacturing code recessed today for the National Electrical Manufacturing Association to work on a suggestion by Deputy Administrator W. L. Allen for reconsideration of the wages and hours provided.

The code recommended a 35-cents-an-hour minimum wage and 36 and 40-hour weeks.

Labor demanded a 30-hour week and 90 cents an hour for skilled workers.

A. F. of L. Chieftain Raps Lumber Code

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(AP.)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, today announced the wage code proposed by the lumber industry as insufficient. At the hearing on the code he said:

"The wages imposed in this code do not conform with the spirit or letter of the recovery act."

STEEL RAISES OFFICE FORCE SALARIES

The drive to put more people to work and boost their purchasing power progressed today with these developments:

1—"White collar" employes of United States Steel Corporation subsidiaries in the Pittsburgh district got 15 per cent salary boosts.

2—Federal and state officials prepared to launch the government's state-wide re-employment service.

3—More industries in the Tri-state area reported increases in employment and wage boosts.

"White collar" workers employed by United States Steel Corporation subsidiaries in the Pittsburgh district today got a 15 per cent increase in salaries.

It was learned authoritatively that Carnegie Steel Company and the American Bridge Company office workers got the boost in accordance with the daily wage increase announced by the companies last week.

The raise is effective as of July 16, the date on which the 15 per cent pay increase went into effect for shop workers employed by the companies. The order will affect 1,200 workers in Carnegie Steel's central office here and a large number in offices at the plants.

It was believed the increases resulted from appeals of the administration in Washington that the "white collar" workers' purchasing power be increased.

M'CUNE AT PARLEY

John McCune, Jr., of Grove City, appointed federal director of re-employment in Pennsylvania, attended a conference with state officials in Harrisburg yesterday.

Miss Charlotte E. Carr, state Secretary of Labor and Industry, said location of district re-employment offices probably will depend on the general industrial and unemployment situation. Offices are to be scattered through the state.

The service is designed to establish unemployed workers in permanent positions.

PLANT TO REOPEN

Officials of the Hempfield Foundries Company, manufacturing cast iron and brass fittings, at Greensburg, announced their plant will reopen in two weeks, giving employment to 40 men. The foundry has been closed for six months.

Eight extra trainmen and 28 car repairmen were recalled to Youngwood by the Pennsylvania Railroad. The company's scales there were reopened because of an increase in coal freight shipments.

The American Sheet and Tin Plate Company plant at Morgantown, W. Va., was opened after a two-year shutdown.

The Perry Furnace Company at Erie, announced a 15 per cent wage increase for all its employes.

PUBLIC WORKS START SPEEDED

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(INS.)—President Roosevelt was ready today to approve the appointment of 10 regional public works administrators, thus paving the way for expenditure of $1,400,000,000 for state and other public works projects.

Confronted by wide protests against delay in getting the full $3,300,000,000 public works program under way, Secretary of Interior Ickes, as administrator of public works, was ready to lay his recommendations before the President.

An additional allotment of $73,482,478 for roads brought the total for this purpose granted states to $240,014,841. The President set aside $400,000,000 for roads.

States, counties, cities and other public bodies are anxious to launch their projects to provide jobs. The distribution, however, will not get under way until both regional administrators and state advisory committes are named.

Rolling Rock Club Trespasser Freed

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 21.—The mere fact that Vance Baker, Youngwood hunter, shot a deer on the property of the Rolling Rock Country Club near Ligonier did not make him liable to a fine for trespassing, the courts here have decreed in overruling a fine of $10 and costs imposed by Squire C. M. Skoup, of Ligonier.

Baker admitted that he did trespass on the club property last December, but claimed he did not know he was on the club's grounds. The court held that inasmuch as Baker did not trespass wilfully he was not guilty of the offense.

Mrs. Mary Roberts Rinehart's son, Stanley Marshall Rinehart, will be married next week to Mrs. Frances Goossens, daughter of the late Harry Yeatmans, of London.

In the news columns yesterday the Sun-Tele carried an announcement of their betrothal. And we received word late last night from Alexander Grosset, of Riverside, Conn., in whose home it was rumored that the Rinehart-Goossens wedding would take place yesterday, that the wedding had been postponed until next week.

Of course you know that Mr. Rinehart's novelist mother and his father, the late Dr. Stanley M. Rinehart, lived in Sewickley, and that Mrs. Rinehart lived as a child in old Allegheny.

Mrs. Goossens is a descendant, by the way, on the paternal side of the thirteenth Earl of Derby.

Gossipy Chat With Nancy Jane

Young Marcella Comes, the Pittsburgh artist, who was pictured on this page yesterday with her painting of Mrs. W. McCook Reed, you probably still think of her as Jane Allderdice, is starting out on a most ambitious project.

She is planning to do a series of paintings, to be exhibited together, representing the typical American girls of the age. Besides Mrs. Reed, whose portrait is nearly finished, she is working on one of Louise Reed.

She has finished a portrait of school-girl Eleanor McCook Maxwell. In the picture the young girl is wearing a simple white frock with a touch of green as the only color. There's a winsome, reflective expression in the young girl's face which the artist has translated to her canvas.

After studying at Carnegie Tech's Art School, Marcella studied abroad. She's now working both at Tech summer school and in her own studio, a most attractive place under the eaves of the Pennsylvania Apartments.

And there's no nonsense about the studio. It's comfortable, but designed and fitted as a workroom.

Marcella is looking for a young, red-haired woman. Did you ever realize how few girls of this modern day have definitely red hair?

On Center avenue, East End, there's a most surprising home, that of the A. K. Rabes. The entrance of the house is charmingly Georgian in formality.

But when you go through the house to the back, you find a wide, deep porch, strictly modern in its comfort, overlooking the valley and more immediately, a lawn.

And at the side of the lawn there's a stairway leading down the hillside, and also to a charming garden. Mrs. Rabe's garden boasts a fuschia tree, something rare in this climate. She's also making small geranium trees by plucking the lower leaves off the plant.

Pittsburgh is losing a baseball fan—jolly, young Maria Patton Wilson. She and her father, George C. Wilson, Jr., are sailing for Europe tomorrow, and they plan to be gone six weeks.

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Mrs. Floyd H. Nickeson, new publicity chairman for the Literary Review Club, has made an auspicious start, having sent to the press a complete outline of next season's plans, although the year books will not be compiled for several weeks. The club's first meeting, in September, will be an outing at Mrs. Clifford Martin's home, Vilsack road, Glenshaw, with vacation reminiscences and music comprising the program.

Mrs. Marie Tello Phillips Yeagle, speaking on "Modern Literature" and Mrs. William Noble Zortman, on "Modern Poetry," will visit the club on its State Federation day in October. A trip to the International Art Exhibit is scheduled for October, too. The study of poetry and music will be taken up at the next few meetings, the members studying the history of poetry and Burns, Tennyson, and Wordsworth in November. Forms of poetry and the works of Whittier, Lowell and Longfellow come next.

An evening meeting is on the books for December and it's to be a social affair with readings and music by club members and Miss Editha Weikal as guest pianist. Dr. Harvey B. Gaul will address the club on music day in January; an extra meeting at which noted humorists will be discussed is called for February and at the regular meeting that month the study of Pittsburgh will be begun.

Under this subject the city's early history, its outstanding pioneers, industries, its educational foundations, its songs, great men and women, its religious life and the theater will be discussed. And books by Pittsburgh authors, Mary Roberts Rinehart, Hervey Allen and Elizabeth Moorhead Vermorcken, will be reviewed.

The April meeting will be addressed by Mrs. J. O. Miller and on the same program will be music by Mrs. William L. Stone and Mrs. Louis Gerber. A guest day in June will round out the year.

PERFECT TAILORING MARKS NEWEST SUMMER UNDERWEAR

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

UNDERGARMENTS with a dressmaker's touch—that's a new development in knitted underwear! It's the result of a famous American designer's idea to cut undergarments to go with the gowns she creates. These custom-built things add no thickness to the figure—they're that sheer and are bias-cut in order not to wrinkle, bunch or twist. Her slips conform to the lines of a dress, made like many of them, with diagonal inserts, a fitted waistline and moulded skirt. To make them practically perfect, they're all backless—with ingenious strap arrangements to hold the slip firmly on.

* * *

THIS TYPE of wispy knitted underwear can be worn from morning to night, no matter whether a day leads from sports on to your favorite night club. Another point in their favor is the fact that though they're cobwebby sheer, they're also durable, with good resistance to laundering.

* * *

MANY WOMEN are wearing garments like the dressmaker-designed underthings in the accompanying picture. The type of garment sketched on the left does away with the need for corselettes, if you're slim enough, for it accomplishes a slight bit of restraint without giving one a corsetted feeling.

* * *

ONE OF the most delightful of the summer underwear novelties is the revival of the bathing corset, i

College Generation Tells Congress 'No More Wars'

CHICAGO, July 21.—(AP.)—No more wars and an emphasis on internationalism was the essence of what the American college generation told the older generation gathered at the International Congress of Women, history's first economic conference of women.

Mrs. Joseph S. Mannis, representing Goucher College, said she had ben out of college a year, had married a clergyman and gone back to a small town and that the theories of internationalism seemed a bit dim now.

Opposed To Wars

Viola Ilma, editor of "Modern Youth," declared, however adults may feel about militarism, the youth of the country want no more wars.

Miss Cleta Olmstead, of the University of Chicago, said:

"We know too much about our parents for their own good."

Miss Jane Addams, founder of Hull House and strong advocate for world peace, presided.

Other college students who spoke included Miss Elaine Douglass, representing Antioch; Miss Marion Holcomb, Berea College; Miss Jacqueline Watkins, University of California; Miss Alice Kelly, Connecticut College for Women; Miss Jane Morrison, Oberlin, and Miss Julia C. Drake, Mount Holyoke College.

Yesterday the congress began writing into a manifesto to views of women from 31 nations on the subjects of today that make news.

Prepare Manifesto

Birth control, disarmament, internationalism, tariffs, national and international economy, planned industrial recovery, education—those were a few of the problems dealt with in the document. It is being presented at today's session.

The manifesto was inspired by remembrance that 85 years ago a group of pioneer American suffragattes drew up their declaration of rights for women at the first woman's rights meeting at Seneca Falls, N. Y.

However, the first declaration presented women's demand for women, while the manifesto of today is described as being devoted to women's demands for men and women—for world society. Because of the topics with which it deals, the manifesto is challenging, not only to the world, but to women themselves.

It is more than a summary of the week's discussion of a weighty problem—it is, Congress leaders say, a pronouncement of the things women of the world stand for, and for which they will work.

Objective Of Women

Oswald Knauth, of New York, department store treasurer, told a round table group on "Security Through Buying Power" that early stabilization of the dollar is the next vital step on the road to economic recovery.

Mme. Marcelle Kraemer-Bach, Paris, France, founder of the International Association of Women Lawyers, encouraged women of all nations to band together for a common cause to avoid war.

Oakland police today sought a man reported to have attempted to attack an 11-year-old girl after luring her from the Magee Playground, Greenfield avenue, last night.

Approaching the girl, the stranger said he was a policeman, and asked her to accompany him, according to a police report. A short distance from the playground the stranger, it was reported, molested the child. The girl cried for help and the man fled.

The girl, treated by a physician at her home, told police the man wore a blue suit, straw hat and glasses.

WALKER QUITS COYNE COMMITTEE ON COUNTY COSTS

SOCIAL WORKER WELCOMED IN COAL TOWNS

Guards Even 'Set Up' Ice Cream, Pop to Reporters

The "open seasame" to the coal mining town, where others long have been barred, was found today by a little Philadelphia social worker.

With an armful of "Black News" Miss Elizabeth Wight walked right into the Pittsburgh Coal Company's Montour No. 10 mine town to investigate conditions for the Pennsylvania Security League.

When Fannie Hurst, the author, visited the coal fields to look over the conditions several years ago, she was denied admission. She was a newspaper representative.

Even newspapermen got in today. At first they were barred when they arrived with Miss Wight, and then mine officials changed their minds and invited them to see and photograph anything they wished.

CHANGE OF FRONT

It certainly was different than in the old days. The coal companies apparently have changed their attitude toward investigators.

Coal and iron police used to be long on the strong-arm and short on courtesy. Today newspapermen were treated to ice cream and soda pop.

Police Supt. Edward R. Sourbeer and Deputy Van Black met Miss Wight and the newspapermen with smiles. Informed of Miss Wight's identity, they said she could visit the "patch," but the newspapermen couldn't.

While the young woman was going about talking with the miners and distributing "Black News," recording how members of the Legislature voted on social legislation, the newspapermen were entertained by the officers.

FINE TIME BY ALL

Everybody had a nice time, and eventually thy visited the mine superintendent, William Phillips. After Phillips and Sourbeer conferred, the scribes were told to make themselves at home and the bars were down to them.

It was explained that a pass usually is necessary from the Pittsburgh office of the company.

Miss Wight got the same reception at the mine she visited yesterday, despite the fact that "no trespassing" signs were posted.

ASSEMBLYMAN SEES NO HOPE OF REAL QUIZ

Candidate for Judge Opposed to Senator

Hitting the "political principles" of Senator James J. Coyne, and declaring that he believes there can be no impartial and effective investigation of the costs of government in Allegheny County so long as Coyne dominates the inquiry, Representative William A. Walker, of the Thirteenth District, today resigned as a member of the committee.

Walker, who filed petitions yesterday as a candidate for judge of the County Court, has been telling friends that he feared his candidacy would be hampered by the appearance of following the Coyne lead in the inqury. In a statement today he said that he belonged to an entirely different political school from the Senator.

ASKED TAX PROBE

At an early meeting of the committee Walker introduced a resolution for investigation of the delinquent tax collector's office, the occupant of which is a Coyne protege. Representative J. A. Rectenwald is chairman of the committee and the other memebers in addition to Coyne are Senator Morris Einstein and Leonard Kane.

The committee, created at the last special session, was continued by the regular session last winter. Its previous investigations resulted in no recommendations, but created considerable stir, especially when it dug into administrative costs of the Pittsburgh School Board.

WALKER STATEMENT

Walker's resignation statement follows:

"After careful consideration, I have determined to withdraw from what is known as the Coyne committee investigating the cost of county government.

"I do not know who was responsible for my appointment, but it is evident that the influence of Senator James J. Coyne, the sponsor of the resolution, will dominate the committee. I do not subscribe to the same political principles or activities and belong to an entirely different school of political thought and therefore ask to be relieved of my duties on said committee.

"I believe that there can be no real investigation, under the circumstances, of the conditions in Allegheny County which are making the ownership of homes a great burden to our people, due to high taxation."

P. J. DONAHOE'S DEATH CLOSES LONG CAREER

Business, Political And Civic Leader For Years

Funeral plans were being made today for Peter J. Donahoe, 75, founder and president of Donahoe's, Inc., who died at his home in Stanton Heights yesterday afternoon. Death was believed to have been caused by a heart attack.

Mr. Donahoe

Mr. Donahoe's business genius was responsible for the founding of the present chain of 22 Donahoe food stores in the Pittsburgh district, and two fruit markets.

Born near the Point on February 16, 1858, he had lived in Pittsburgh all his life and was a leader in both the civic and business life of the city.

SERVED IN COUNCIL

During his early boyhood he attended the parochial schools and sold newspapers in the downtown district. In 1873 he became an apprentice printer on the old Pittsburgh Dispatch, where he worked for several years.

Mr. Donahoe was a member of the old Common Council, being elected in 1896 from the First Ward. He served three terms. In 1890 he served as Alderman of his ward but resigned after serving one term to take a seat in Select Council. He held the office for two years.

Mayor Bernard McKenna then appointed him police magistrate at Central Police Station. He served as magistrate for three years.

START OF BUSINESS

Thirty-five years ago he entered business in the public market house downtown. It prospered, and he opened a store, handling meat and groceries. Since that time more stores have been opened until today there are 24.

Mr. Donahoe for many years was the Republican leader of the Tenth Ward. He was ward chairman during Mayor Kline's administration. His political power figured strongly in the 1928 mayorality campaign.

He leaves four sons, John A., Jerome P. and T. Kernan, associated with him in business, and Edmond F., of Los Angeles; two daughters, Mrs. E. E. Tebbets and Mrs. Paul McCrory, and a brother, Thomas Donahoe.

GOES TO FACE DEATH TRIAL

In company with California officers, Lee D. Murphy entrained for Long Beach, Cal., early this morning to stand trial on a charge of killing his second wife.

Murphy was arrested here two weeks ago upon the request of the western police. His third wife and baby were with him when he was arrested in a Race street rooming house. Mrs. Murphy is planning to go to Long Beach for the trial.

Murphy is charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of his second wife seven years ago.

PHONE NEWS TIP EDITOR,

WARD RETURNS TO REAL HOME

The "forgotten boy"—a 10-year-old lad who lived in a Juvenile Court home for a year under a false name—is back home today, happy to be with his family and glad to see his neighborhood pals.

He is George Davis, of 333 West Fifteenth street, Homestead, identified Tuesday through a Sun-Telegraph picture.

George, his masquerade name of "William Barner" forgotten, quickly adapted himself to his old surroundings. He beamed:

"I hear the fellows want a pitcher for the mushball team. I've had lots of practice in the last year and I'll show them some swell pitching."

Mrs. Patrick Davis, his mother, said:

"It's heaven to see him again. For 12 months I've worried and wondered what became of him. Now I'm happy again and our family is complete."

The youth had no reason for leaving home except he said his father had "promised" a spanking. To Justice of the Peace John B. Jones and Constable Frank Bell, to whom he went for aid, he told a wild and imaginative story of his parents' death.

Summer Music For Soho Groups

Craftsmen to Hear Federal Officials

Government officials will visit Pittsburgh to discuss the National Recovery Act at the Memorial Craftsmen of America convention in the Hotel William Penn beginning August 8.

Ask State Replace Dangerous Bridge

Replacement of a dangerous iron bridge and railroad grade crossing on the Lincoln highway, two miles southeast of Bedford, was asked today by the directors of the Pittsburgh Motor Club in messages sent to Gov. Pinchot and the State Department of Highways. The appeal stated that the bridge is so narrow that a wide truck and a passenger car cannot pass safely while going in opposite directions.

'KIDNAPED' BOY TO FACE QUIZ

Jack Woods' "kidnap" story was awaited with interest today by his friends—and by Department of Justice agents and city detectives. Federal agents expressed doubt about his trip to New York being a "pleasure jaunt" and his companion a "real nice fellow."

The 15-year-old missing youth was returned to his home at 18 Forbes Terrace last night after being recognized at Downieville, Pa., from a Sun-Telegraph picture. He told his mother he had not been kidnaped but had been shown the sights and a fine time by "a fellow named Bob."

Young Woods blamed his pal, Floyd McClintock, 14, of 5705 Forbes street, for spreading a false alarm. The McClintock boy jumped from the car in which the two had been given a lift Tuesday. Jack Woods said he had accepted the stranger's invitation to go on with him to New York.

U.S. CONSULTED ON VOTE CASES

Attorney Earl F. Reed, special government prosecutor in the federal grand jury probe of election fraud charges, left last night for New York to embark tonight for Europe.

En route east he will stop at Washington for a conference with the Attorney General and other government officials relative to the election probe.

Reed will be away about five weeks. Trial of the 108 indicted by the federal grand jury will be held either at a special term of court in October or at the regular term in November.

First Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh, who with United States Attorney Louis E. Graham, assisted the special prosecutor in the probe, is in Canada on a vacation.

CHECKER STARS TO VIE HERE

A 20-game checker match and blindfolded exhibition will be held at the East Liberty Y. M. C. A., for three days beginning August 3.

William F. Ryan, of New York City, master champion of New York in 1931, and Charles W. Young, of East Liberty, Western Pennsylvania champion, are the two contestants.

Ryan holds the Illinois state and Chicago city championship. He was four times consecutive winner of the Florida Masters' Tournament, permanent holder of the Dan Morris Gold Checker Medal and a prize winner in every national checker tournament since 1924.

Young has won every match of any importance played in the Pittsburgh district during the past three years.

There will be two sessions each day, at 1 p. m. and 7 p. m.

NEWSIES BACK AGREEMENT

Street sales of Pittsburgh newspapers were carried on today without reports of disorder. Virtually all the newsies had fallen in line with the compromise agreement signed by the strikers' representatives and newspaper through the efforts of Mayor Herron.

In Homestead last night a group of boys pulled bundles from a newspaper delivery truck and scattered the papers. In Carrick two boys were arrested for tearing up papers taken from a newsstand. Otherwise all was reported quiet.

The newsies' strike endured for two days. It was called after an adjustment which affected 20 per cent of the street sellers was made. This adjustment put the wholesale price of the papers at the same rate which the other 80 per cent had been paying.

Father, Sons Held On Arson Charge

Matthew Seborski, 46, and his sons, Joseph, 18, and Alex, 20, all of 3440 Munroe street, were held for court on an arson charge today in Morals Court in connection with a fire at 3239 Dobson street, which property is owned by the elder Seborski.

Battalion Chief Daniel Jones testified a bottle of inflammable liquid was found in the ruins.

MACKRELL HITS AT ENGELSBERG

A sweeping denial is made by Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell in an answer filed late yesterday in Common Pleas Court to the suit recently instituted by Joseph Engelsberg for $31,350, which he claims to have paid to John Douglas, Jr., at Mackrell's request, at the time Douglas withdrew as a candidate for Mayor in 1921.

The Mackrell answer, filed by Attorney James Duff, said Mackrell has a full defense to Engelsberg's charge. Mackrell denied being indebted to Engelsberg for any amount.

He said he became acquainted with Engelsberg in 1914, but after that denied everything in Engelsberg's statement of claim.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:
BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 21.

The nearest thing we have had to "non-kick tax" so far, has been the gasoline tax, because they knew the money was going for roads. Now that repeal is assured, they better get in early and have it understood what the revenue will go to.

Will Rogers

What would be the matter with using every cent just for charity and unemployed relief? And make the tax very high, even as high as 50 per cent. If it was a 50 per cent tax, and it went to charity, you couldn't drink alone, some poor family would be drinking with you.

Five-cent-a-glass beer would cost you a dime. You get the beer, somebody gets a loaf of bread. Anybody could give a big champagne party and spend hundreds of dollars, and not even a Communist could kick on it, for the needy get half of it.

Even at double the price it wouldn't be as high as the country has been paying. Nobody could kick on a person drinking if he gave an equal amount to somebody that was hungry. That would come nearer being a painless tax than any I know of.

WILL.

Banquet Strategy Would Repel All Attacks By Air

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Saw Gen. Balbo lead his flying bungalows into Jamaica Bay.

Those 24 planes are sure tough sea gulls. They landed as neat and as pretty as billiard buttons on a string.

It shows what can be done with training and equipment. But we don't think we are in any dangr of invasion that way.

Planes could get over here all right. Gen. Balbo proved that. But there ain't an enemy aviator in the world who could stand three of our testimonial banquets.

We don't like to hash up yesterday's beef stew, but, have you noticed our round-the-world flyers didn't do so good after those Siberian mechanics fixed their engines?

Which hasn't got anything to do with repeal. All we can say is that when the South goes wet all it has changed is its direction. It used to go to New York.

'I WAS CHOKED THIS WAY'

MRS. WILLIAM DREESEN . . . . SHE ACCUSES HER HUSBAND

Mrs. Dreesen pictured at Dormont 'Squire Barker's hearing at which her husband, the awning manufacturer, was held for court on assault and battery charges. She testified he beat, choked her at the home of a woman she's suing. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

Man Held as Clubber During Triangle Row

William Dreesen, president of the W. C. Dreesen Awning Company, was free in $1,000 bail today after his wife had testified before Justice of the Peace Davis Barker, of Dormont, that her husband beat her with a club in the apartment of his secretary, Mrs. Helen Richards. Dreesen was held for court on assault and battery charges.

The beating occurred July 7, Mrs. Dreesen testified, when she went to Mrs. Richards' apartment at 5812 Black street, to ask her husband to go home. Mrs. Dreesen has named Mrs. Richards in a $25,000 alienation of affections suit.

Mrs. Dreesen's entrance to the Richards' apartment resulted in a free-for-all fight in which Dreesen, his wife, Mrs. Richards and Mrs. Richards' three children participated, according to testimony. Mrs. Dreesen's story that her husband choked her and beat her with a club was corroborated by her son Robert and Richard Ambrose, of 631 College avenue.

Dreesen did not testify, nor did Mrs. Richards, although she was present.

The principals in the fight were fined last week following a hearing before Magistrate Thomas D. Jones in Morals Court.

Mrs. Richards had previously testified Dreesen, for whom she has been working three years, had called at her apartment on business as was his custom, since he was out of the office a large part of the time.

EDWIN C. HILL TELLS GLORIES OF FAIR

By EDWIN C. HILL
International News Service.

CHICAGO, July 21.—The great Chicago fair has swung past the 5,000,000 attendance mark and is surging along toward its next million, well into its stride, and a sure and certain success.

An average of 150,000 people are pouring through the gates of the 424 acres reclaimed from the mud flats of Lake Michigan, paying their 50 cents a head, spending an average of a dollar and a quarter on the Midway shows and getting their startled heads full of things to wrote home about.

For the fair—and who wants to call it by that grandiloquent mouthful of words, "A Century of Progress?"—is the greatest show on earth.

It's the Book of Revelation, done in red, blue, green and gold, set to jazz and hooked up to the solar system.

No Dull Machine

It's anything you please, and that's the joy of it, for it's all things to all men. Don't think for a moment that it is a dull show of machines and scientific gadgets. It's the dramatic story, done in color and shot through with action, of man's conquest of his old enemy, Nature. It's the tale of how man has adapted himself, molded himself, responded to each new thing discovered and developed—really the explanation of why we are human beings, instead of tailless apes gibbering in the trees.

We don't need to go back a million years to catch the inspiration of the great show stretching for three miles and a half along the shore of Lake Michigan. Just look back over one century—the century of progress that Chicago is celebrating.

In 1833, it had been only three years since America's first locomotive chugged out of Charleston, South Carolina, over a few miles of bumpy track to Hamburg in the same state. The American people, living almost altogether east of the Mississippi, were hedged in by towering mountains, houseless prairies or dark, unbroken forest. No means of quick communication had been invented to overcome the natural barriers or to break, for months at a time, the dreary solitude.

Age of Candles

People, for the most part, wore clothing of their own making, for it was 13 years before the invention of the sewing machine. People read slowly and painfully by the light of tallow candles.

Even the kerosene lamp was still in the future.

When people fell ill, they had to depend on primitive remedies and crude surgery. Whole populations lived in terror of epidemics which swept over the land from time to time and took their toll in thousands.

Now lift the curtain quickly and gaze for a moment upon those marvels and miracles which the great Chicago fair exhibits, explains and dramatizes.

We hurtle through the air upon motored wings.

We speed along the ground in luxurious cars.

We live in homes made of materials which the genius of man substituted for the disappearing timber of the forests.

Electricity is our servant to give us our light and to do our work.

News Speeded

A whisper speeds 10,000 miles along the mysterious channels of the ether.

We read of an event occurring only a few hours before and 2,000 miles distant and see it pictured in the same newspaper.

We dine on foods in their original freshness and flavor, but grown hundreds of miles away.

We select our food for health and strength and eat it in safety because science has protected it.

We select clothing of infinite variety and fabrics.

We sit and watch the shadowy likeness of actors play their roles and hear their speaking voices.

We turn a dial and choose at will our music and entertainment.

We fall ill and medical science performs its miracles with the new devices and instruments of the new time.

Life has come to be, in this 100 years that the Chicago fair commemorates, happier in a thousand ways and safer a thousand times than ever it had been before.

That is the broad meaning of the fair—this dramatization of all that mankind has learned, and particularly in the past century. But there is much more than that. There is the beauty that the soul craves.

PIONEER DIES; LEAVES RELICS

Charles Logan Armor, 75, who collected valuable relics of pioneer days in the Ligonier Valley, died yesterday at Old Compass Inn, Laughlintown, in the quaint house his grandfather founded in 1799.

The collection was turned over to Frick Historical House at West Overton and the museum department of the Historical Society of Western Pennsylvania here.

Armor was born in the old log and stone hostelry of the grandfather. Throughout his life, when he found an old iron hoop, a primitive farm tool, or a clumsy bit of furniture, he stored it away and later exhibited his collection to visitors at the inn.

His collection became widely known, and when he began to fail in health, he transferred it to the museums for preservations.

20 GHOST FIRES PUZZLE POLICE

SWANWICK, Ill., July 21.—(AP.)—Twenty times in eight days fire has broken out in the farm home of Tony Pignee.

Investigators for an insurance company and local authorities searched last night and they could give no logical reason.

An enemy of Pignee was suspected, but vigil failed to reveal activity by an arsonist. The house is not wired for electricity.

First fire broke out in a barn. Pignee saved the building, but the barn burned to the ground the following day while he was absent.

Jacob Epplin, insurance agent, said the fires have broken out at short intervals in virtually every room of the house. He said:

"A blaze seems to break out on the floor; and the next one will come from the ceiling or walls."

A straw hat on the floor was burned to a crisp, Epplin said.

A calendar on a wall went up in smoke.

Calls at Hospital, Dies 5 Minutes Later

Deputy coroners today sought the identity of a moderately well dressed man, aged about 63, who died five minutes after he had entered Allegheny General Hospital, complaining of illness.

Death, hospital physicians said, was probably due to a heart attack. He had $7.56 in his pockets, but no papers of identification.

MRS. WAYBURN FLEES SHIP FIRE

SUNAPEE, N. H., July 21.—(AP.)—Mrs. Ned Wayburn, wife of the New York theatrical producer, and her two young nephews were forced to jump from a burning launch into Lake Sunapee yesterday and swim 200 yards to safety.

Mrs. Wayburn suffered burns on the hands and her hair was singed. The two boys, Kirby Lawson, 12, and Winifred Smith, 15, both of New York, were unhurt.

Wayburn saw the burning launch from his summer home here, and although not realizing it was his own boat, turned in an alarm.

Mrs. Wayburn and the boys were returning from fishing in another part of the lake in the Wayburn's launch, the Marguerite, when about 200 yards from W. W. Brown's boathouse and within sight of their home, the engine stopped. As Mrs. Wayburn attempted to start it, gasoline which apparently had been leaking from the tank became ignited, and the flames spread rapidly.

Boy Drowns, 2 Saved When Canoe Upsets

Tony Belcastro, 16, of 420 Fifth avenue, West Aliquippa, was drowned, and his two companions swam to safety, when a canoe in which the three boys were riding on the Ohio River near their homes was overturned by the backwash from an excursion boat late yesterday, according to police.

Pastor, 91, to Visit World Fair Despite Age

UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 21.—(AP.)—A mountain preacher who was too busy in 1893 to visit the Columbian Exposition in Chicago, is going to the World Fair this year despite his 91 years.

He is the Rev. J. A. Simpson, Fayette County's oldest minister, who lives in his self-made mountain home near Gorley's Lake.

For several decades he has brought the word of God to the mountain folk, living on plate collections and the products of his 40 acres.

THUGS HIJACK, BEAT UP PAIR

SCRANTON, Pa., July 21.—(INS.)—Six armed bandits held up two local truckmen near Mt. Pocono early today, took them for a ride and stole their truck after beating one and chloroforming the other.

Louis Macinni, ,21, and Frank Traino, 22, en route to Scranton from New York with a load of produce, told police that an automobile pulled up alongside them as they were driving and halted their truck.

Macinni was chloroformed and Traino was beaten when they resisted the holdup, and taken to Lake Ariel, 25 miles distant, where they were thrown to the roadway.

EXPO GIRLS FAIL TO GET BLUSH

CHICAGO, July 21.—(AP.)—Dancing girls at the World Fair went through their repertoire of wriggles and wiggles for Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the exposition, and didn't even get a blush out of him.

In fact, he said after touring the shows along the midway last night, his only grievance was with the barkers—for advertising some of the acts too well and leading folks to expect more than they actually see when they get inside.

Maj. Lohr, whose recent "curfew law," closing gates of the fair at 11:30 p. m. daily, and concessions at 1:30 a. m., brought a storm of protest from operators, had with him on his tour Col. Robert Isham Randolph and Mrs. Randolph, a Chicago newspaperman and his wife.

Col. Randolph, once head of the "secret six," local crime eradicating organization, termed some of the dances which have brought protests from reformers, as "clever" and "artistic."

ITALY ARRESTS 9 AS SPIES

ROME, July 2.—(AP.)—An alleged espionage band has been broken up with the arrest by the secret police of nine persons reported to include the ex-Socialist Deputy Umberto Bianchi and four government employes.

The arrests were made two weeks ago and revealed today. They came after a long investigation and the execution two months ago of Warrant Officer Ugo Travaglia, employed in the navy ministry and convicted of a similar offense.

The band was alleged to have sold military plans to a strong foreign power.

The arrested persons in addition to Bianchi, are reported to be his two grown daughters, both unmarried, two employes of the air ministry, and two private chauffeurs.

The police are seeking also two foreigners.

REGISTRATIONS SHOW SHIFT TO DEMOCRATS

Voters changed from the Republican to Democrat affiliations by the hundreds in Allegheny County's boroughs and townships, it was indicated today as Election Bureau employes began to tabulate totals from the Register Assessor's books, turned in yesterday.

Democratic registrations showed their largest gains in East Pittsburgh, where the Third District showed 280 Republicans to 467 Democrats; in Swissvale, Turtle Creek, Rankin, West View, Castle Shannon, Glassport, Forest Hills, Pitcairn, Verona, Wall, among the boroughs and many townships.

Among the boroughs standing Republican, but showing slight defections were Dormont, Bellevue, Crafton, Homestead and McKees Rocks.

FROM ONE TO 95

Port Vue's Second District, which not long ago had one Democrat voting, showed, according to today's record, 95.

Republicans, however, were in the majority in most places, although showing some effects of the "new deal." The largest gains for the Democrats were made in districts where the "new deal" has begun to function.

A ruling given by the County Commissioners and their legal advisers halted hundreds of others seeking to change their party affiliations. Register-assessors refused to accept applications for change in party, unless presented by the party desiring the change.

CAMPAIGN THWARTED

The ruling virtually nullified a campaign conducted in many sections by Democratic workers. They had obtained hundreds of signatures, and presented them, some in bulk, to the registrars.

Ray C. Dever, Elections Bureau custodian, said he was notified that some complaints of fraud had been attempted in Elizabeth Borough, Shaler Township and Rankin. Leo Riordan, chief investigator, explained that some applications for change had been signed, not by the voter, but by another, or that a number had signed without knowing that this confined the voter to the Democratic primary. He declared that his investigators as yet could not tell whether the charges had foundation.

The Democratic registration in boroughs and townships in 1932 was 25,000; it had risen to 50,000 in the May, 1933, registration. The new increase will be tabulated late today.

MUNICIPALITIES FORM LEAGUE

To advance the economic and social welfare of the municipalities of Southwestern Allegheny County, representatives of boroughs and townships of the region met last night in the Greentree Municipal Building and organized the Associated Municipalities of Southwestern Allegheny County.

The constitution will be approved at a meeting next Wednesday evening. Officers will also be elected.

L. C. Clark, Mt. Lebanon Township Commissioner, said the organization represents a population of 75,000.

Donner in 11th Ward Alderman Contest

J. Louis Donner, former investigator in the Board of Registration Commissioners' office today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for alderman of the Eleventh Ward. Donner lives at 5515 Black street. He resigned from the services of the county last August.

BENITA TO DASH HOME TO WED

HOLLYWOOD, July 21.—(INS.)—Benita Hume, brunette movie actress, likes to go to the theater with her different leading men. Furthermore, she was selected to play the leading role in the picture, "The Worst Woman in Paris."

These two facts combined to irk Jack Dunfee, the rich Englishman to whom she is engaged, to such an extent that today Miss Hume announced she would end his anxiety and dash back home to marry him. She said:

"He called me by trans-Atlantic telephone and spent $450 worrying over whether I was selected for the role because of something I had done in Hollywood.

"I feel that this wedding will put a stop to all further rumors and that it will allow me to conduct my private life without fear of advertisement."

"Recently I went to a preview with Maurice Chevalier and everyone hinted that we were romancing. When Jack Dunfee heard that, he 'phoned me another time and scolded me to the extent of $425 worth of toll charges."

Wills $75,000 Estate To 1928 Trust Fund

An estate valued at $75,000 was disposed of in the will of George W. Malone, 5640 Aylesboro avenue, late president of the Pittsburgh Trolley and Forge Company, filed for probate today. The will stipulated the estate was to be left in trust to be distributed as part of a trust fund set up in 1928. The widow, Emily, and the Bank of Pittsburgh were named executors.

Love Is a Good Bargain Even If Girl Picks Wrong Man

What do you think of love?

Is it the greatest thing in the world—or just "a lotta bunk?"

Here are three modern youngsters who would like an opinion. Just now they're having plenty of argument.

First, there's Peggy Ann. According to her, the only way to be happy is to stay single and do as you please. Sez she! "I am considered modern, to a certain extent, and I am passable as to looks. I travel with girls the majority of the time, but I also enjoy the company of men now and then. Night clubs aren't in my line, but occasionally I indulge in a visit to one.

"I believe that love is the bunk. Whether or not you marry the man, it doesn't work out right. It is better to stay and dream of wedded bliss than to say 'I do'—and wake up to find out your pipe dream is gone.

"'Oh, yea!' I hear some of your readers say. 'Just wait and see! That dame will fall hard, yet!' Well, I've already had the 'thrills and heart throbs' of going steady, and I've decided to be sensible enough to stay single. I've struggled along through life for the past 21 years without the Stronger Sex, so I'm sure I won't fade away without the love and 'Protection' of some Manly Creature."

That's Peggy Ann's story, and she intends to stick to it. Right on her heels comes Joan—with even more cynical ideas concerning modern males.

"'Love' is just a password that men use for their own benefit," is her sneer, "and girls who fall for that line of talk are just plain saps. I am 25, have gone about considerable, and I know what I am talking about. I have met plenty of so-called right kind of men, too. But underneath all their fine appearance they're hard and selfish, and would never give any girl a break.

THIRD GIRL DISAGREES

"My advice to Love Lorn is, 'keep single, have a good time. Get all you can out of life, and stay on your own side of the fence.' I don't believe there is such a thing as love. What people take for love is just a sort of an attachment for something you've got used to—and it isn't worth bothering with."

You may agree with Peggy and Joan, but Jerry doesn't.

"Although I travel in the company of Joan and Peggy Ann," Jerry admits, "I have a different opinion. I'm 'that way' about a fellow, and I know he returns that feeling. I have complete faith in him and in everything he does. I would like to have a home of my own with the one I love, rather than travel around with Tom, Dick and Harry having a 'good time.'

"I'm fond of keeping house, and I can cook. My greatest ambition in life is to have children. Perhaps these other girls haven't fallen in love. If they had, I am sure they would feel differently. All men can't be judged by one lone individual.

A GOOD BARGAIN

"Perhaps they do think I am silly to think this way, but if they're sane, I'm glad I'm crazy. I am 22, and I know what I am talking about. What do you think?"

You're right, Jerry! And you're smarter than a thousand cynical Peggys and Joans, who are driving away the very love they secretly crave by their own bitter mistrust.

Love is. And it's always a good bargain. That doesn't mean that love does not bring hardship, sacrifice and bitter heartache. It does, often; it always means added worry and work. But that's life.

We only get what we give, and we get in proportion as we give. If you give generously enough, nobly enough, then you needn't worry about the results.

But suppose a girl picks the wrong man? Even then, love's a good bargain. For we're always wiser, richer, stronger and—in the long run—happier for loving, even though the loved one proves unworthy.

So hang on to your faith and take your chances, honey. Life may hold many a heartache for you because of that faith—but it will hold only a headache for Peggy and Joan, or anyone else who doesn't dare to live and love.

Given in Marriage -:-

A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Noel Approves of His Father's Plans

"All right, Mary," I soothed the incipient panic of my husband's niece with the assurance that no one would say anything to her betrothed husband about the wedding. That, we all agreed, was the only way to thwart Philip Veritzen's patent intention to separate the young lovers by sending Mary to Paris for a year's study.

"Aren't you going to let him in, Mary?" Lillian said with a teasing little smile, and Mary rushed to the door.

"Mary!" Noel uttered his sweetheart's name with the sort of hushed reverence which always invests his voice when he sees her after an absence, no matter how short. It is as if the wonder of her bursts upon his senses anew each time he greeted her.

Mary clapped her hand to her forehead in a military salute.

"Present," she said, then gave a gay little laugh.

Noel smiled back at her, and I saw that a certain tension of anxiety relaxed with the smile.

"Then there's nothing the matter," he said, coming a step farther into the room. "I was afraid there might be."

He greeted Lillian and me with just enough of his father's manner to make the situation delightful.

"Mary said you wanted to see me, Mrs. Graham," he said, seating himself in the chair nearest me.

"I do," I said slowly. "I wondered if you could give us any light upon this new plan your father has made for Mary. I thought perhaps he had spoken to you about it."

EXPLAINS TO NOEL

It had hardly paid him to sit down, I reflected, as he sprang from his chair excitedly, with eyes roving from one of us to the other.

"New plan!" he said. "For Mary? What new plan?"

He was echoing the words in bewildered parrot fashion without having the least idea of what he was saying. Then, as realization came to him, his body stiffened and his eyes held a wary look.

"Let me hear it," he said tensely, "I am afraid—my father has been acting queerly for the last day or two."

"He probably had advance information," Lillian said, dryly. I flashed a warning to her, but it was too late.

"Advance information of what?" Noel and Mary exclaimed together.

"Nothing that's important now," I said hurriedly. "The news we have is simply this. Your father has told Mary he wishes her to have a year's study in Paris, and that she must be ready to go in three weeks."

For the fraction of a second Noel stood perfectly still. Only his eyes moved—leaped to Mary's with a swift, searching, appraising look. Then they turned back to me, and I saw that his face was drained of color.

"Did he say why he wished her to go away so long, and start so soon?" he asked.

A PROTECTIVE BARRIER

The boy was suffering keenly, and intuitively I realized it was from something outside the news I had given him. He was plainly sparring for time to get his bearings. But I wondered why he had asked me for an account of the interview which Mary had had with his father.

"I do not know," I said truthfully. "Mary told me about it only this morning, and she gave me simply what I have already told you. What else did he say, dear?"

I tried to make my voice casual, but I found it hard in the face of the strong emotions which were swaying Noel and Mary. For Dicky's niece, with the quick intuition born of love, had sensed something alien, perhaps hostile, in Noel's manner, and had instinctively thrown up a protective barrier.

"He said my French was entirely inadequate, and that I needed certain training for the roles he had in mind for me which only life in certain Parisian circles would give me. I believe he has arranged as a special favor to him to have me live with friends of his, who have high social positions."

"Fiddlesticks," Lillian began. But Noel's voice, suddenly strong and emphatic, drowned her exclamation. "I can see his point of view," he said. "It will be a marvelous opportunity for you, Mary."

Household Hints

Mint can be dried and saved for mint sauce during the "off season" when mint is difficult to obtain.

In salad dressings lemon juice and vinegar are readily interchangeable. For a fruit salad, orange or grapefruit juice give a pleasing flavor.

Bath brick finely powdered and mixed to a paste with paraffin is excellent for removing rust from steel. Apply the mixture with a flannel.

If you'll remove the cork from your glue bottle and put a piece of candle in its place the glue will not stick beyond all reason—nor will it get dry.

-:- The Beauty Box -:-

By HELEN FOLLETT

Snow-white tresses should be shampooed with only the blandest soap, and even that should be rinsed away thoroughly with the aid of a bath spray and a strong current of water. If silvery locks are inclined to take on a yellow cast, substitute whites of eggs for soap. Half a dozen are necessary if the thatch is heavy. Don't beat the egg whites. Give them half a dozen slaps with a fork, add a tablespoon of cold water. Beauty shops sell special bluings that contain mild bleaching properties designed to give white hair a lovely frost-like glitter.

When sitting, standing or walking keep the body erect, highly energized. The peppy woman will stave off the bent figure all her life long, because she thinks in terms of energy and activity. Good posture is largely mental. You must desire and work for the splendid anatomy if you are to possess it.

There's an idea that dry scaly skin is due to diet deficiency, not enough fat foods. Whatever the cause, the dry skin needs a thorough oiling twice a day, one for the purpose of cleansing the skin before freshening up for dinner, the other a heavy massage cream to be frictioned in for five or ten minutes at bedtime. If soap makes the skin still dryer, as sometimes happens, put a thin film of cream on before the facial scrubbing.

Bear not with rounded shoulders. They give to the figure an appearance of decrepitude and old age. Worse than that they contract the chest cavity, keep the lungs from working at full capacity. Throwing back the shoulders won't help. The cure is found in lifting the chest, carrying the head splendidly, stretching the backbone to its utmost length.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

A Forced Lead for a Slam

A forced lead play is one of the most effective means at the disposal of a Contract player for making a trick otherwise unattainable. This play is compartively simple provided the combined hands of the Declarer and Dummy are of sufficient high-card strength to completely dominate the situation up to the time that the chosen adversary is to be placed in the lead.

Mr. Drew Shankle, of Columbus, Miss., submits as an example of an interesting forced lead at no-trump the hand below:

East, Dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

♠ J 9 8 4
♡ 8
◇ 9 7 3
♣ J 10 9 8 2

♠ A Q 10 2 ♡ A 4 2 ◇ A J 5 ♣ A Q 3 — West ♠ K 6 5 3 ♡ K J 10 7 3 ◇ K 10 4 ♣ 6 — East

♠ 7
♡ Q 9 6 5
◇ Q 8 6 2
♣ K 7 5 4

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 ♡	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♡	Pass	6 NT	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

The bidding is probably slightly optimistic. The four Aces in the West hand urged West on to disregard in part his lack of playing-t[illegible] strength while East had bid with great freedom in view of the fact that his hand was an absolute minimum Opening and that his partner's Forcing Takeout suggested quite strongly that a Slam was his objective. However, it must be conceded that with control of all suits and tenaces in three of them West had some justification for his bid and that the pattern of his hand suggested that notrump might well be as easy a contract as a suit.

The Opening lead was the club Knave, upon which South played the 5 and which West won with the Queen. While West had no assurance that the Opening was from a long suit he felt that South's double of the contract of six probably indicated a stopper in hearts. This could be no other card than the Queen, so he led a small heart from his hand, went up with the King and returned the Knave. South refused cover and West finessed and held the trick. Then the diamond King was laid down, after which a small diamond was led and the Knave in the closed hand successfully finessed. South's double had been of great benefit in locating important key cards.

A small spade was now led to the King in Dummy and when the suit was returned and South failed to follow, it was obvious that only three tricks were available in that suit by ordinary means. West now cashed the Ace of diamonds, the Ace of hearts and the Ace of clubs and forced North into the [illegible] with his remaining club. In order to protect his potential trick in spades North had been forced to discard two clubs so at the 12th trick he was compelled to lead from his minor tenace in spades to West's major tenace and so permit the fulfillment of the contract.

TODAY'S QUESTION

North-South vulnerable.
The bidding:

1 ♠	2 ♣
3

You, South, hold:

♠ K Q 9 4 ♡ A Q ◇ K J 2 ♣ K 10 9 5

What do you bid?

Answer: Three notrump. With over 4 honor-tricks and a very good fit with North's suit, South should immediately contract for game. There is no sense in raising North's clubs, as it is possible that a five-club contract may be defeated, whereas there may be a very good play for three notrump. The hand is of a balanced nature with every suit doubly stopped, and the three-notrump bid in itself definitely confirms some club support. This is anything but a game-closing bid, and is, in fact, a mild Slam try. If North decides to continue bidding, South will then support clubs.

Rigid Quarantine Routs Dread Parrot's Disease

Passing a bird shop, the other day, I noticed a sign before a parrot's cage which read, "This parrot has been examined by the authorities and is free from psittacosis." The proprietor of the shop told me he had many prospective customers inquire as to whether it was safe to purchase a parrot. They wanted to know how they could be assured the bird was in perfect health.

Dr. Copeland

Many of my readers will recall the recent epidemic of "psittacosis," or "parrots' disease," as it is more commonly called. The epidemic was traced to a shipment of birds stricken with this disease. The affliction quickly spread to human beings who had contact with the diseased birds.

I am glad to say that by reason of the rigid measures taken by quarantine officials, the disease is now rarely encountered. Psittacosis is never seen in domestic birds. Parrots that are brought to this country from South America and European ports must undergo rigid health inspection before they are admitted to this country and permitted to be sold.

Psittacosis is caused by a germ called "bacillus psittacosis." The germ is transmitted from the diseased bird to those individuals who handle or care for the bird. The afflicted person complains of chills, fever and headache.

This is followed by pain in the chest and persistent cough. In many instances the illness is confused with pneumonia. The signs of psittacosis are sometimes identical with those of pneumonia.

Neglect of the disease is dangerous and may prove fatal. It is especially serious if it afflicts the very young, or elderly persons.

Fortunately, it is now possible to treat the more serious cases with a serum called "convalescent serum." This serum has been used with great success in a large number of cases. It is hoped that further studies will lead to the discovery of a vaccine that will be used as a preventive of this disease.

You can be assured of the health of a pet by careful inquiry as to when it was brought to this country and if it has been examined for psittacosis. Bear in mind that a sick bird is without appetite, has a cough, diarrhea and roughing of the feathers.

A bird with these signs should be suspected of psittacosis and not accepted as a family pet. It a menace to the health of the family. Even if assured of no disease I would advise that you refrain from purchasing a bird with these signs.

When you purchase a parrot, "love bird," parrakeet or canary, see that it is in good health and shows no signs of disease. Whenever possible, purchase a bird of domestic breed. If it is a tropical bird insist upon a certificate of health to protect you and your family.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Dance Invitation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—There is to be a dance at our school soon, to which I would like to ask a boy (who goes to a different school) to take me. My aunt thinks I should tell him that there is to be a dance, and then wait for him to ask me. I maintain that I should ask him to accompany me instead of "hinting," which would probably embarrass us both, and almost force him to ask me, since he is very polite. Please tell me which is correct.

2—If it is correct to ask him, should I telephone him immediately, as it is not three weeks until the dance. Or should I wait for a week when there is a possibility that I might see him but by that time he might have an appointment for that evening?

3—When you leave your escort to remove your wrap at a dance, what do you say? Where do you rejoin him?

CONSTANT READER.

1—I agree with you in this, for in a way you are a kind of co-hostess at this dance, since it is to be given at your school.

2—I suggest that you extend your invitation in the form of a charming note . . . this is always by far the best form for this sort of invitation. And write the note as soon as possible.

3—Something like, "I'll leave my wrap, and meet you here in a minute." This makes it clear where you are to meet after you have both checked your wraps and is the important thing.

Gift Suggestions

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A few months ago I became acquainted with two student nurses who were training at the hospital that I at the time was observing. We became very friendly and now they are leaving the state to return back to their own homes.

I would like to give each some sort of a parting remembrance gift. We are all about the same age, around 20, and I would like to know if this would be correct? And what would you suggest? M.

Purses at this moment are of such beautiful designs, of such a wealth of materials . . . for town wear . . . and of such a comfortable range of prices that this might be a suggestion. You might give one a purse for day wear, and the other an evening bag.

A folding traveling clock for each would be a very convenient present for a nurse. Or a fountain pen and pencil set. Or always-welcome monogrammed handkerchiefs. Or a loose-leaf leather address book.

Fashion Flashes

By ALICE ALDEN

A good solution to the problem of the girdle in hot weather is the pantie-girdle. A splendid model is made with mesh elastic back and sides. The leg bands are plushed.

A big splash is being made by a charming little swim suit of gray and yellow jersey with straps that cross in back. The shoulder straps are of rope in yellow and gray and are held at the bodice by little metal anchors.

A warm friend is a charming little cape of black faille covered with bands of silver fox and tying with a fur and silk bow at the left shoulder—good for day or evening.

The shoulders carry much of the interest in many of the new frocks, this fashion being a carry-over from last season. A smart afternoon frock of black crepe has net inserts at the shoulders with an oversleeve fashioned of free fabric fringes.

WIDE VARIETY OFFERED IN $1 MENUS

From a survey of the early entries in the Prudence Penny $1 dinner menu contest it is surprising to note the number and variety of appetizing dinners that can be served for four persons at this cost.

They are, of course, not as elaborate as the menus in the $1.50 classes, but they are as a whole what might be considered as satisfying dinners considering the current economic conditions.

Housewives, taking advantage of the unprecedentedly low prices on meats, vegetables and groceries, have given the dollar dinner idea considerable serious thought and the results will be startling and beneficial. Thrift is the keynote in this contest—a contest that is encouraging the housewives to think when they shop for the table.

AWARDS OF $100

The contest question is: "Can four persons be served with a well-balanced, appetizing menu at a cost not to exceed $1," and the cash prize list for the week is still $100.

Housewives are invited to tell Prudence Penny what they can serve at this cost. Prepare your $1 prize menus and submit them before next Tuesday midnight. Send in as many as you like. There is an entry blank in the Sun-Telegraph today.

The judges declared that the winning dinner menus in Contest No. 5—the last of the $1.50 menus—as a whole classed much better than any of the other weekly groups submitted by the housewives. They attributed this to the helpful and practical demonstrations in printed prize menus as they have been appearing in the Sun-Telegraph during the last five weeks.

Variety of Tempting Dishes Are Made With Eggs

This Popular Food Contains Many Important Proteins, Fats, Minerals and Vitamins

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator From New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

It is interesting to learn that eggs are served daily on the White House table and are a favorite dish in the President's family. Of course eggs have always been popular, but some energetic reporter learned of their popularity with the present occupants of the White House and used it as a bit of "news."

No one will deny the food value of the egg. This nutritious and economical food deserves its popularity. A recent statistician estimated that about 200 eggs per year, per citizen, are consumed in this country. Yet there are many persons who overlook the many benefits offered by this easily obtained food.

The egg contains important proteins, easily digested fats, valuable minerals and necessary vitamins. It supplies many of the substances that are essential for proper growth and development. It is especially valuable in the diet of the growing child.

Within recent years eggs have been recommended for infants as early as the sixth month. When given to infants, eggs should be "coddled." They are most easily digested in this form.

EASILY DIGESTED

Here the question is brought up as to what preparation of eggs is most easily digested by adults. Contrary to the popular notion, hard boiled eggs are as easily digested as soft boiled eggs. There is little difference between the scrambled and the fried eggs. I would advise that you choose whatever form of preparation that in your own experience gives the least amount of difficulty. Some persons cannot eat fried eggs, while others have little difficulty with fried or scrambled eggs.

Another question I am frequently asked is whether it is safe to use cold storage eggs. Of course all of us prefer freshly laid eggs. But if they cannot be had, cold storage eggs can be substituted with perfect safety.

TEMPTING DISHES

Improved methods of storage now assure the purchaser safe and nutritious eggs. In fact, at certain times of the year, the quality of a cold storage egg is superior to that of the so-called fresh egg. I am glad to say that eggs of an inferior quality are now rarely, if ever, seen in the markets.

A great advantage in the use of eggs is the ease of preparation and the great variety of use. They may be prepared in many ways. An individual taste can be solved without any difficulty. Creamed, stuffed eggs, salads, and egg dishes that will appeal to even the most fussy member of the family can be prepared easily. Consult your cook book and you will be amazed at the number of tempting dishes that can be prepared with eggs.

Prudence Penny's Recipes

CHERRY BASKETS—Halves of large canned peaches for the basket, for either fresh or canned cherries. If fresh cherries are used, pit them carefully and fill cavity with powdered sugar; if canned cherries are used, fill cavity with pecans. If both white and red candied cherries are used it will add much to your color scheme. To make the baskets, cut a thin slice from the bottom of each half peach so it will stand evenly on the plate. A small lace paper doily keeps the peach from slipping and sets off your decorations as well. Now cut a thin strip of angelica, bend carefully and insert it in each side of the peach to form a handle. This forms a dainty basket which needs only to be filled with the prepared cherries.

* * *

MERINGUE LIGHTNING CAKE—½ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 4 egg yolks, well beaten; 5 tablespoons milk, 1 cup flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Cream butter, add sugar gradually, then egg yolks. Sift flour, baking powder and salt and add alternately with milk, add vanilla. Mix well and put in two well greased pans. Spread with the following meringue: 4 egg whites, ¼ teaspoon salt, 8 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon baking powder.

Beat egg, add baking powder, sugar and salt. Bake 25 minutes in 350-degree oven. Put layers together with lemon filling and spread whipped cream around sides.

* * *

COFFEE BAVARIAN — 1½ tablespoon gelatin, 3 tablespoons cold water, 1 cup sugar, ⅓ cup water, 3 egg yolks, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1¾ cups whipping cream, 1 tablespoon sweet sherry flavoring, ½ cup good strong coffee.

Soften the gelatin in cold water. Boil the sugar and water until the syrup threads. Pour in a fine stream over well beaten egg yolks, whipping thoroughly. Add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Chill the cream. Whip. Add the egg-gelatin mixture, beating thoroughly to blend. Add sherry, coffee and salt. Turn into molds rinsed in cold water. Place in refrigerator to set.

* * *

TOMATO CROSS—Spread as many slices of bread as required with butter and place close together in a baking pan. On each slice place a thick slice of tomato sprinkled with salt, pepper and a very little sugar. Top with two thin slices of bacon, forming a cross. Cook in a moderate oven until the bacon is crisp and the tomato cooked. The tomatoes should not be cooked long enough to lose their shape. Canned tomatoes sliced, may be used with equal success.

* * *

COFFEE CARNIVAL—4 tablespoons tapioca, 1-3 cup seedless raisins, ⅓ cup chopped nuts, 2 cups hot coffee, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup whipped cream.

Add tapioca, salt and raisins to coffee and cook in double boiler 15 minutes or until tapioca is clear, stirring frequently. Add sugar, nuts, chill. Add vanilla, fold in cream. Serve in sherbet glasses, and top with cherries.

* * *

CRABMEAT CASSEROLE—1 medium can crabmeat, ½ small can pimento, 1 small can mushrooms (about ½ cup), 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 cups medium white sauce, ¼ cup grated cheese.

Remove bzones from crabmeat—chop pimento into small pieces and mushrooms into larger pieces. Salt and pepper the mixture to taste. Add extra butter if desired to white sauce. Mix with crabmeat. Turn into buttered baking dish. Cover and bake 10 minutes at 500 degrees. Uncover and sprinkle grated cheese over top and let bake until cheese browns.

Radio Joins U. S. Gangster War; Jolson Signs With Whiteman

By AIRCASTER

To the broadcasting systems of the nation is to be allotted next Sunday night, the honor of lending their coast-to-coast facilities for launching the country's first official general warfare on gangsters.

Mr. Keenan

At 10:45 p. m. this Sabbath, the federal government will launch its opening drive against organized crime, in a broadcast which will be "Uncle Sam's answer to the gangster's challenge." The voice of the government in this inauguration of hostilities will be the voice of Joseph B. Keenan, special assistant to the United States Attorney General, in charge of the war on gangsters.

Irving Aaronson sneezed during his dance program the other night, and next day received, as expected, 25 telegrams bearing the word, "Gesuntheit!"

Al Jolson Signs

Back some weeks ago, when Al Jolson staged such an irresistible show on the occasion of the inauguration of Paul Whiteman's broadcast, I ventured the prediction, later confirmed, that Jolson would never content himself with a single show of resurrection. I said that, most likely, he would rejoin the Whiteman outfit for a series.

Mr. Jolson

Some of the writing boys sort of doubted me, or were resentful of my prophetic attitude, and denied that there were any negotiations afoot for Jolson's return.

Yesterday, Jolson signed with the Whiteman sponsors, and his contract is an historic document, in a way, for it does not bind him to steady performances, but merely gives him the right to lay off when the spirit moves him.

He returns on the night of July 31—the same night on which the Whiteman show becomes a national show to be heard in Pittsburgh.

After that date, the weekly broadcast will shift to Thursday nights (10 to 11 o'clock) in the spot formerly held by Jack Pearl.

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

Now is the time to sign off all stories about bugs, ants and other members of that family.

J. H. Wall enclosed in his letter an envelope which he says contains a Japanese beetle. He wants me to verify his judgment.

Nix! I'm not going to open it.

* * *

Can't it just be pure accident that the boys of WJAS have been preceeding and following the broadcast with "Ah! Sweet Mystery of Life?"

* * *

At last a good word from a language student who says that the Globe Trotter never has split an infinitive during his broadcast.

Just keep listening, we'll split one yet!

* * *

You never would recognize the huckelberry pie I received as the one you sent. Enjoyed it, though. It tastes just as good with a spoon.

* * *

Mrs. Weber must have been up early this morning. Her huckelberry pie is still warm.

Just my luck. I never get the pie any place where I have a toothbrush.

At 312 First street, Aspinwall, Mrs. George B. Zahniser, has a yard full of hollyhocks. She boasts of 11 different hues and varying sizes. She suggests that globe trotters exchange seed. If many of you hollyhock growers are for the idea, will you signify your intentions and we'll work out an exchange system?

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

The only flaw, it seemed to me, in the Writers' Club affair the other midnight was the serious tone struck by Eddie Cantor . . . Whose comments instead of being a "rib" were sugary . . . Cantor pointed out that I had switched my column-routine a year ago—and that I had become "constructive" instead of destructive . . . He liked that, he said . . . He liked using the column to get fair play for the under-dog—and jobs for the unemployed, etc . . . And that before I went in for the "turn-about-face"—I was hated until I crusaded . . . Will Rogers resumed the clown angle, however, by arguing that he guessed most of us had switched from a year ago, and that he did, too . . . He said he no longer mentions Republicans for fear that nobody would know what he was talking about . . . And I couldn't resist telling them all that I had done nothing of the sort—and that I had merely reached out and mentioned the better-knowns, instead of confining the chatter to Broadway . . . And because of the serious note—several planned "pokes" were omitted, for which I was sorry . . . Nothing puts me to sleep so suddenly as speeches in which the guest is toasted, instead of toasted . . . I wish that Joe Cunningham could have been persuaded to come for the event—for Cunningham has the right idea about dinner-speeches . . . He belittles everybody—and so amusingly, too . . . Arthough Paul Gerard Smith's sentimental poem about the old days around 46th Street struck a tender chord—and he rarely gets tender—his ridicule is devastating . . . It was a grand night, at any rate, 600 of the local scribes coming, instead of 150 as originally planned . . . And I also couldn't resist using for a last line my favorite: That Hollywood is no different from Broadway . . . In both spots—they never give a guy a dinner—until he can afford to buy one!

Most amusing to me are the Hollywood follow-up stories on the recent crashes among the stars . . . Since this and that merger wilted, stories have appeared showing that there are number of "happily" married actors and actresses . . . Included among the long-distance marriages is the Joe Schenck-Norma Talmadge marriage . . . It was also revealed that when a couple remained together for 10 years or longer, it indicated that theirs was a happy merger . . . To which I don't agree at all . . . Some can't afford having their marriages dissolved—or they consider the children or each other's feelings . . . Other writers wondered why so many marriages in Hollywood fail . . . The answer is simple to me . . . Too many of the men and women in Hollywood typify the last word in glamour and sex-appeal . . . And when they are confronted by so much temptation—their minds wander . . . Among the players, I mean . . . Also, they go through so many love scenes before a camera (or rehearsing them) that when they go home to their spouses they are either too weary for love, or they sneer at each other's talent at embraces, etc. . . . And this observation, I think, best sums it up . . . Too many of the wives, who earn fancy wages every week, shelve their grooms when the mood grips them, knowing they can support themselves . . . Carole Lombard, for example, makes $1,500 a week without William Powell!

This item gave me the shudders . . . It is told of a well-known actor . . . How he married a well-to-do gal a few years ago . . . And when he got into the big money division—he wanted his freedom . . . So when she went East to visit her kin—he went to a local court—and asked for an annulment on the grounds of a charge against himself . . .

This, it appears, was done to keep her from getting half his fortune under the California community statutes . . . The community law, by the way, has driven more husbands crazy than anything else . . . Whatever money or real estate a man has in California is half owned by his wife when they divorce . . . The law was created many years ago for the protection of women . . . In the old days, it seems, men fom other states came to California and wooed the local widows, whose Indians left them mines and land, etc. . . And then, after robbing the women, they stranded them . . . Hence the law—which makes it all 50-50—regardless of whose fault it is that the marriage melts.

Interesting, too, is the "Invisible Man" movie, due soon, starring Claude Rains . . . In it the star will be seen for less than 25 feet of film! . . . Via a new trick in movies—his form only will be seen—his face and hands will fade from the audience's view after being stricken by some curse or disease . . . But when he dies—his likeness returns . . . It is expected to be the topnotcher of the horror movies. Be sure and bring the kiddies . . . Wonder what Lilian Harvey thinks about the United States? . . . Her dressing room on the Fox lot is a five-room bungalow, with two baths! . . . She also rates a personal maid plus a secretary . . . In the old country Miss Harvey's dressing room was a messy two-by-four with no running water and no heat . . . And she can't wait to return to Europe! . . . At William McGuire's birthday party the other night—John Considine was among the guests . . . Mr. Considine was invited—in spite of the fact that he is suing McGuire for $12,000.

Ruth Etting probably is a novelty in show business. She can make a neat appearance without squandering heavy coin on apparel . . . You'd think that Ruth would shop at the better places to put up a "front," but no . . . She manages to find pretty decorations for practically no money at all . . . Imagine, then, the amazement of the studios here the other day—when La Etting was told to go to the shopping sector and purchase wardrobe for her next flicker . . . The bills, of course, were to be sent to the movie company, which would foot them . . . And so Miss Etting returned with three pretty frocks, millinery and hose and boots—at the staggering cost of $42. There will be some confusion over the similarity in titles for two movies—the Mae West picture: "I'm No Angel" and another not yet cast called: "I Married an Angel" . . . The latter's theme, a fantasy, is an arresting one . . . In it a man, weary of women, vows that he will never marry again—unless she is a real angel—come down from the skies. And, miracle of miracles, a real angel does come to him—sent from Heaven—and he marries her . . . Only to discover that she is no different from other nagging, spiteful, extravagant and hard-to-get-along-with wives.

Maurice Says Gamin Type His Best

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, July 21.—In your hands, readers, lies the success or failure of a project dear to the heart of Maurice Chevalier. The French star wants to get out of the boudoir and to create a permanent character, like Chaplin's pathetic tramp and Harold Lloyd's bashful youth.

Mr. Chevalier

He'll introduce this character, whom he describes as a Parisian gamin, in his final Paramount picture, "The Way to Love." The verdict of the fans will be his future guide.

A man, whom Hollywood writers are prone to think of as difficult to talk to, Chevalier unburdened himself freely, and he told me some surprising things.

"I have never liked the sophisticated characters," he said, "because they are not me. What I want to bring to the screen is the real Chevalier, the one they know in Paris. There I don't play the Menjou type of roles. I am the gamin, the fellow who walks along jauntily, who might be making more money doing something else, but who prefers to take life in his own way.

"He is a character of the people. In Paris, the galleries recognize him as natural and cheer him. But he amuses the fashionable set too. Last year in Cannes, I gave a benefit performance. The charge was $10 a seat, which was a lot of money even for Cannes. But they crowded in. They like me because I was natural—I was not trying to imitate one of them."

Can Can in Revival For Picture

To make the can can so new, amusing and attractive that its popularity will be revived is one of the aims of Samuel Goldwyn and his staff in preparing the filming of "Nana," Emil Zola's story of Paris of the 1870's, in which Anna Sten will make her American screen debut as the famous courtesan. The can can once was one of the most famous dances of the world. It first appeared around 1860 on the boulevards of Paris. From a street dance it developed into a number for the music halls. In the original, hip rolling and shaking marked a breathing spell between the intervals of fast stepping and high kickings.

MENTION THE SUN-TELEGRAPH WHEN ANSWERING ADVERTISEMENTS

ALL IN A DAY By MARK HELLINGER

The Value of Publicity

IT IS surprising, the number of people who go through life struggling for fame and newspaper glory. The cute manicurist wants to be a Garbo; the barber reminds himself of Valentino; the tailor wants to be a great producer; the college professor strives to be a statesman; and the elevator boy wants to be a second Al Capone.

It's all very mystifying, and a bit amusing. All of these people are what they should be: manicurists, tailors, barbers, college professors and indoor aviators. But none of them is satisfied. Each one feels that he is being cheated of his rightful place in the public spotlight.

Sometimes, a few achieve their goal. Then, for a short period of time, they enjoy the thrill of seeing their autographed photos in lingerie shop windows. After it is over, and the world has forgotten them, the bitterness is greater than before.

So it goes. And so went Oswald Igglehoffer. . . .

To my mind, Oswald represented the perfect picture of the average man. He was neither tall nor short. Neither bright nor dumb. He looked no more like Clark Gable than he did Mickey Mouse. He was broke more often than not. And he thought he was the greatest guy in the world.

It was that last characteristic which caused him to enter the theatrical world. On the boards, he felt, he would give the American public its regular chance to idolize him. Of course, he knew nothing of dramatics. And cue lines, he thought, could be found in any pool parlor. But that, as Oswald could tell you, was the least of his worries.

Publicity. That was the answer. Publicity. Space on the front page. Big streamers of black type. Paid ads. Free ads. Publicity, he felt, would overcome any handicap.

Oswald Igglehoffer started off by playing a bit in a play produced in his own home town. It wasn't much of a play. But then, Oswold Igglehoffer wasn't much of an actor. At the end of the week, the manager gave our hero 25 bucks and advised him to buy a gun with it.

But Oswald took that insult with a laugh. He took the 25, went to the office of the Weekly Courier, and inserted an ad. To me, it's a classic:

"Due to the overwhelming demand," it read, "of the theatergoers to see Oswald Igglehoffer, he has consented to play another full week engagement at the Mugwump Theater. As Mr. Igglehoffer doesn't appear until the second act, it is only fair to his public to advise them that they will not miss his splendid performance by coming to the theater after the first act. The title of the play is Hamlet. Don't miss Oswald Igglehoffer!!!"

Week after week, Oswald did that. And, believe it or not, the townfolk went for it big. They believed our Oswald when he shyly admitted that he was the world's finest actor. They had the utmost faith in his printed announcement that Broadway producers were writing letters day after day begging him to come to the big city.

The system worked. And it won't be a betrayal if I tell you that lots of the better known movie stars achieved the heights by the same method. The idea being, of course, that if you keep telling people you're good, and you keep it up long enough, they're bound to believe it in time.

Oswald Igglehoffer landed on Broadway. And, although he knew little of that famous lane, the famous lane soon knew plenty about him. He hired a press agent. He told the man that he wanted publicity. Plenty of it. And he didn't care how it was done, so long as his name was continually in the public prints.

When the press agent's ideas began to grow sour, he fired the man and hired another. And when offers began to dribble in, he played hard-to-get and signed contracts reluctantly.

Bit by bit, he climbed the ladder of success. And the higher he went, the more publicity he demanded. His silly pan was in every rotogravure section in the country. Full-page advertisements showed him vowing that he never drove any car but a Dupo; that he never smoked any cigaret but a Horsehair; and his hands were kept lily-white by using Axel soap at all times.

Once a year, in the summer time, he made a pilgrimage back to his home town. There he thrilled the folks by shaking hands with them, and never failed to exhibit his bulging scrapbooks to anyone who would look at them. Just before he departed, on each trip, he would make a short speech to those who gathered to see him off.

"My friends," he would yodel, "I must return to my art. Broadway is calling, and I must go back to my gilded prison. But before I leave, I want you all to know that success has not turned my head. Sometime during the winter, I want you to visit me in New York, where everybody knows and loves me."

Last winter, they took advantage of his invitation. Several townfolk came to New York, and Oswald assumed charge of the party immediately. He told them that he was busy, very busy, but that he would give them a glimpse of Broadway's alleged night life on the following night.

"Then," he said, "you will see what my name means. You will see how well known I am. Why, it seems incredible, but there are people in this great city who don't know the name of the President of the United States, but Oswald Igglehoffer—why, that name is known in every nook and cranny in the metropolis!"

The next night he escorted them to a newly opened speakeasy. He stepped out of his limousine, rapped his cane on the door, and watched the peephole open.

"Open up," Oswald demanded, "You know me. I'm Oswald Igglehoffer."

A voice floated out of the peephole.

"Don't know ya," it said. "Never heard of ya. Beat it, Scram."

The visitors began to titter Oswald started to redden.

"Let me in," he bellowed. Then, aside to his guests: "This is just a gag."

Finally, the manager came to the door. The racket was beginning to disturb his drinking. He peered out into the darkness.

"Who did you say you are?" he queried.

"Igglehoffer," replied our hero indignantly. "Surely you've heard of Oswald Igglehoffer!"

"Certainly," said the manager. "Positively. Come right in, Mr. Igglehoffer."

The company trooped in, and the manager grabbed the hand of one of Oswald's friends.

"It's a pleasure to meet you, Mr. Igglehoffer," he told the wrong man. "I never fail to read your books."

Oswald groaned aloud. But when he looked at the door through which he had just entered, he almost fainted. At that moment he learned the true value of publicity.

For there, used only as a shield to cover the peephole, was a picture of himself, inscribed: "To a pal, from Oswald Igglehoffer.

VINES, ALLISON DEFEATED IN DAVIS CUP SINGLES

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Meine's Success Timely. Puts Pirates Near Top. Bucs Keep Up Record.

Sothoron 13th Manager. Extra Lap Aids Runners. Jones Picks Grid Stars.

ONLY SECOND RELIEF WIN FOR HEINIE

IN HIS SECOND appearance in a Pirate uniform on June 12, 1929, Heinie Meine stepped in to relieve Fred Fussell against the Giants in the seventh inning of a game at Forbes Field and won the decision over Jack Scott when the Bucs came from behind to take the contest, 7 to 6. Though he filled 18 other rescue assignments in the intervening four years, Meine never won another game in a relief role until yesterday, when his strong finish for Bill Swift was a big factor in Pittsburgh's victory.

Heinie Meine

It was a fortunate break that the second relief win of Heinie's major league career, and incidentally only the second decision of any kind he has won since May 15, came in such an important game. It kept the Giants from taking the lead in the weighty series and put the Bucs, though still in third place, within three games of the top, whereas the threatened defeat would have left them five games behind the leaders. At that the Pirates were only running true to their form of the last three weeks in making that winning rally after losing the second contest on Wednesday. They have not been defeated twice in succession in their last 18 games.

IN CONNECTION WITH the debate as to the advantages and disadvantages of Cleveland's big ball park, it is held that those complaining that the size of the field prevents home runs have a mistaken notion of the Stadium's dimensions. Left and right fields are 321 feet deep. At all the other parks in the American League, left and right fields are deeper except at the Yankee Stadium.

The main cause of the Cleveland protests is center field, which is more than 500 feet deep. Ruth, Gehrig, Foxx and Simmons have yet to make a home run on the Indians' grounds, but against this both Gehringer and Ferrell hit for the circuit in the last Cleveland-Detroit series. Bucky Harris likes the big park because it gives the outfielders a chance. He says that to him one of the big thrills of baseball is to see an outfielder carry the mail.

WHEN A GUY has fought his way up to the majors twice and has been turned back both times without getting a chance to play a full game of ball. When he is leading the Pacific Coast League in hitting for the third year in succession and the big leagues refuse to give him a tumble. Then, concludes Oscar Eckhardt, it's about time to give up baseball and go in for some other racket.

And that's what he's going to do this coming fall if he doesn't get a chance in the big show, the Mission slugger declares The Tigers and the Braves carried him for a time but used him only as a pinch-hitter and then dropped him. They said he was too awkward.

ECKHARDT LED THE Coast League hitters in 1931 with an average of .369. He was first last year with .371. He is leading again now with .416. Oscar points to those figures in arguing that his awkwardness doesn't keep him from hitting the ball. "It's every man for himself in hitting, anyhow," he says, "and no two batters act exactly the same up there. There's nothing orthodox about the style of Dick Porter, of Cleveland, according to an article by Billy Evans which I read recently, yet he has been a regular for the Indians for a long time. It's not how you hit 'em, but how often and where, and I don't see why I should be passed up just because I'm no Pavlowa. I honestly believe I could make good up there if given a decent chance, and if something doesn't happen this year I'm going to quit for good, throw my bat away and go in for coaching football." Eckhardt was an all-state halfback for the University of Texas in his gridiron days.

Allan Sothoron

WITH BILL KILLEFER out as manager of the Browns, his successor, Allan Sothoron, will have to wrestle with another hoodoo aside from the fact that the St. Louis American League leadership has been a luckless job. For the new skipper is No. 13 on the list.

Killefer was the twelfth man to try without success to lift the Browns to the peak, and one of the others, Jimmy Austin, served two engagements in emergencies. Jimmy McAleer, the first pilot, held the post longest—from 1902 until the middle of 1909. Killefer, serving his fourth year, ranks next. Between McAleer and Killefer came Jack O'Connor, Bobby Wallace, George Stovall, Austin, Branch Rickey, Fielder Jones, Jimmy Burke, Lee Fohl, then Austin again, George Sisler and Dan Howley.

THE BROWNS HOLD the questionable distinction of being the only club in either of the present major leagues that never won a pennant. Their closest approach was second place, reached twice.

McAleer landed them there for the first time in 1902, their initial year in the league, and Fohl made the other second-place finish in 1922. In only eight other seasons did the Browns land among the first four clubs. This year will mark the twenty-second time they have finished in the second division in 32 seasons.

IN SPITE OF his astounding speed, which reached a climax in that unheard of time of 4:07.6 for a world record mile, Jack Lovelock, strangely enough, does not give in any of his races an impression of hurrying. He is so smooth and effortless in his running as to make his achievements appear easy. Only the timers actually can tell how fast he is traveling. And Lovelock convinced the critics at Cambridge and Princeton that for another thing he knows how to run and how to train. The evidence was seen when, at each track, he jogged another full lap after his mile run.

ON THE SURFACE, that extra lap might appear to be something in the nature of showmanship, but actually it is held to be a strict adherence to the best rules of conditioning. Track coaches assert that this jog around the track after a race is what every runner should do, as by jogging slowly the athlete allows his muscles to relax gradually and cools off by degrees.

Above all, say the coaches, it permits the runner's heart action to return to normal at the right rate of regression. The quick stop of the average athlete causes the transition to be made too swiftly. The only bar to making it a general practice is that the average runner would not have enough left after such a remarkable mile.

BESIDES DEMANDING BETTER terms for a return match with Billy Petrolle, Bep Van Klaveren expresses a desire to make a trip to Holland first, and if the Dutchman remains firm in that decision instead of accepting the latest proffered date of August 23, Petrolle will renew his efforts to get a fight with Jimmy McLarnin.

Howard Jones

Boston promoters want Petrolle to meet Sammy Fuller, and Billy is in demand also in Texas, where legalized boxing will start September 1, but the Fargo Express will pass up all these offers if he can get a shot at the welterweight title. There is believed to be a chance now that McLarnin will come down in his terms. New York, Chicago and Los Angeles promoters are hot after the match.

FOR THE DEMONSTRATION World Fair football game against Dick Hanley's mid-Western eleven in Chicago on the night of August 24, Coach Howard Jones has organized the strongest all-star team ever assembled on the Pacific Coast. Morley Drury, Trojan all-America star of 1927, is captain and quarterback. The other backs are Shaver, Southern California; Krause, Gonzaga; Schaldach, California; Sander, Washington; Beasley, St. Mary's, and Christensen, Utah. Ends—Arbelbide and Sparling, Southern California; Nesbit, Washington, and Slavich, Santa Clara. Tackles—Brown and Smith, Southern California; Tozer, California; Schwegler, Washington, and Johnson, Utah. Guards—Baker and Tipton, Southern California; Heiser, Stanford; O'Brien, Washington, and Gill, California. Center—Williamson, Southern California. Jones may shift Brown and Tipton to the backfield for blocking duty, with Shaver, Sander, Schaldach, Beasley and Christensen doing most of the ball carrying.

AUSTIN, PERRY TRIUMPH IN THREE SETS

AUTEUIL, France, July 21.—(AP.)—The British Davis Cup tennis forces put their American rivals to rout today in the inter-zone final with two spectacular straight-set singles victories.

Fred Perry, British No. 1, conquered Wilmer Allison, 6-1, 7-5, 6-4, after Henry W. (Bunny) Austin, second ranking Englishman, sprang a sensational upset by trouncing Ellsworth Vines, Jr., the American champion, 6-1, 6-1, 6-1.

The double setback came as a shocking blow to the American team, virtually crushing their high hopes of forging into the callenge round against France next week.

DOUBLES TOMORROW

With the doubles match scheduled tomorrow and two concluding singles matches Sunday, the British need only one more victory to gain the challenge round, whereas the United States now needs three straight to capture the series.

Geore Lott and John Van Ryn are expected to oppose the British team of George Patrick and Perry in the doubles. Perry will meet Vines and Austin will oppose Allison in the concluding singles.

Austin duplicated his "giant-killing role of 1931 by taking Vines into camp with such ridiculous ease that the American camp was stunned. Allison put up much stouter opposition, with the burden put squarely upon him, but he was outplayed at the critical moments by Perry, especially in the last two sets.

The Americans had entered the inter-zone finals as 6-5 favorites, supposedly tuned to concert pitch, but they quickly became the victims of a startling upset and saw their Davis Cup chances crash with a reverberating echo in the boiling hot stadium.

HISTORY REPEATED

Two years ago the British put the Americans out of the Davis Cup battle in the inter-zone matches by a 3-2 score, but they got no better than an even break then in the first two ssingle matches. They came through on the last day with a singles sweep, Austin accounting for two matches altogether, and Perry gaining the third point.

A near-capacity crowd in the Roland Garros Stadium withstood the terrific heat and the equally terrific blow to American hopes with mixed emotions. At one juncture of the Allison-Perry match, as the Briton was piling up a big lead, many partisans whistled and booed.

The only time in either match when America had a momentary upper hand was in the second set of the last contest, where Allison led, 3-1, and again at 4-3, only to have Perry Take four of the last five games for the set. The British ace gave the crowd the impression he was "toying" with the Texan in the last set, losing a three-game lead and then pounding through the last two games for the decisive points.

VINES OUTCLASSED

Austin played almost flawless tennis in handing Vines one of the worst defeats of his entire career. The Californian looked like an untrained youngster against the slightly built, blonde British youngster who affects tennis "shorts" and has a well-rounded even if sometimes fragile game.

Austin attacked Vines' backhand from the outset and, when the American retaliated, he soon took command. It looked almost as though Vines was playing completely into Austin's hands by such tactics.

After finding he could not penetrate Austin's backhand, Vines' confidence appeared shattered and his whole game fell off, when he applied the full power of his strokes, he lacked control and when he softened his game, the results were equally ineffective. On top of this, Vines' usually dominating service proved his weakest point. It was broken seven out of 12 times in the three sets by Austin.

LEON CHAGNON HEINE MEINE STEVE SWETONIC LARRY FRENCH BILL SWIFT BILL HARRIS

You probably recognize these young men as pitchers of the Pirates, but they think they're more than that. They think they're mighty hitters and get as big, if not a bigger, kick out of the hits they make as they do out of the hits they keep the enemy from making. The other day Swetonic made three hits in four times at bat against the Dodgers and Swift got two the same day and that started something. These six hurlers have teamed up in a competition to see which can beat out the others. Chagnon and Meine make up one team, Swetonic and French another and Swift and Harris yet another. They have a side bet up and the pair finishing with the highest collecti e batting average for the season will pull down the mazuma. This is an exclusive Sun-Telegraph picture.

BUCS TRIUMPH, REDUCE LEAD

The Pittsburgh Pirates moved up to within three games of first place yesterday when they defeated the New York Giants in the third clash of their six-game series, 6 to 5.

Neither Bill Swift nor Parmelee was able to go the route yesterday. The Giants nicked Bill for three hits and two runs in the first and the Bucs duplicated the trick in their half. Parmelee's muff of Terry's toss in the third opened the way for two more Pirate runs.

A collision between Traynor and Vaughan and Vaughan's low throw in the sixth paved the path for two Giant runs. Moore's double with two out drove in the tallies to put the Giants ahead. Heinie Meine relieved Swift and continued against Dolf Luque, who followed Parmelee to the mound.

Earl Grace singled to win the game in the eighth. The Pirates were trailing by a run as Brother Paul singled. Traynor sacrificed. Vaughan was thrown out as P. Waner advanced. Suhr's fine single tallied P. Waner and Ryan then fumbled Piet's grounder. Suhr scored the winning run on Grace's smack for a base.

Maxie Gets Draw Under New Law

TACOMA, Wash., July 21.—(AP.)—At the end of an interrupted 10-round scrap here last night, Maxie Rosenbloom, light-heavyweight champion, and Fred Lenhart, rugged Tacoman, here officially given a draw in a non-title fight.

A low blow struck Lenhart in the eighth round and confusion over the new boxing rules, in effect for the first time here, led to an agreement between the principals that they continue and if both were on their feet at the finish the result would be ruled a draw.

BASEBALL COMEDY

—By NICK ALTROCK—

WASHINGTON, July 21.—I see they released Old Jack Quinn the other day, but it can't be permanent.

I expect he'll bob up some time soon with the Harvard freshman team under the name of Little Lord Fauntleroy or something.

Old Jack admits he is 48 years old, but I bet he's over 60. He was pitching back When Chicago Nick Altrock was just Fort Dearborn. And they had him warming up in the bullpen the day the Monitor played the Merrimac.

If Jack honestly looked his real age, he would have whiskers longer than Santa Claus'. Then he could dye them black and join the House of David team. And if some team doesn't snap him up soon that ain't a bad idea.

MISS KIGHT LEADS 440-YARD QUALIFIERS

LOCAL MERMAID SEEKS THIRD SWIM TITLE

NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP.)—Lenore Kight, of Homestead, Pa., victor in the 100-meter and mile yesterday, this morning swam her trial heat in the 440-yard event in the fast time of 5:59.4 to lead six other qualifiers in the women's National A. A. U. championships at Jones Beach.

Irene Pirie, of Toronto, Canada, allround champion, turned in the second fastest time in winning her heat, but she was far behind the Pennsylvania girl in 6:05.6. Both Miss Kight and Miss Pirie took the lead at the bark of the starter's gun and never were headed.

Other qualifiers were Johanna Gorman, and Louise Clark, Carnegie Library Club, teammates of Miss Kight, Dorothea Dickinson and Susan Robertson, of the Women's Swimming Association, of New York, and June Burr, of Miami, Fla.

MISS HOLM QUALIFIES

Eleanor Holm, who deserted the Hollywood movie colony to defend her 220-yard back stroke, easily qualified for her specialty, in the slow time of 3:07.1, far back of her world record, to win the opening heat with yards to spare over Johanna Gorman, of Homestead, Pa., the only double qualifier of the day.

Alice Bridges, of Whitinsville, Mass., third in the 100-meter free style yesterday, turned in the fastest time in the second heat, swimming the distance in 3:03.2, one second faster than her nearest competitors, Joan McSheehy, of the Women's Swimimng Association, of New York.

Other qualifiers were Elizabeth Kompa and Lisa Lindstrom, also of the Women's Swimming Association, and Edith Motridge, of the Los Angeles A. C.

Yesterday, Miss Kight, looked on by experts of the water sport to succeed Miss Helene Madison, of Seattle, now a professional, as the queen of the United States women free style swimmers, stole the show by capturing the one mile swim and the 100-meter dash before an overflowing crowd of 10,000.

COMES FROM BEHIND

In the 100-meter event, Miss Kight, her strokes matching her feet beat for perfect harmony, came from behind to splash on to a sensational victory over the Los Angeles star, Olive Hatch. The winning time was 1:10.8, several seconds slower than the record held by Miss Madison.

The Homestead lass continued her brilliant performance in winning the mile, finishing ahead of her nearest competitor, Miss Susan Robertson, of the Women's Swimming Association of New York, by 20 yards. Miss Kight was clocked at 24:53.8 for the distance.

Miss Katherine Rawls, the 15-year-old diver, of St. Lauderdale, Fla., successfully defended her springboard diving title against Dorothy Poynton, of Los Angeles, the Olympic high diving champion.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: A SELF-ENTERED COW—First prize was awarded to a fine Jersey cow at the Cadwell (Ga.) Community Fair in 1931, but the entry was not found in the books of the Fair committee. The decision stood, however, and upon investigation it was found that the cow had entered herself in the contest. Her master, young Alvin Warren, had pastured her in his field, from which she broke out and wandered to the fair ground, associating herself with the other Jerseys in the livestock lot. Despite the unique "entry," the fair manager upheld the award, and Alvin proudly retrieved his stray animal plus a blue ribbon.

HERMAN CLOUTS THREE HOMERS

Associated Press.

A burst of hitting by Babe Herman, benched only last Saturday for hitting weakness, again has pointed out that the Chicago Cubs may be the team the other four National League pennant contenders will have to beat to win the flag.

Herman got his chance yesterday because Riggs Stephenson was laid up with a cold, and walloped three home runs and a single and drove in eight runs in a 10-to-1 triumph over the Phillies. Kiki Cuyler contributed a triple, double and single, and Lyle (Bud) Tinning pitched effectively in the pinches.

CUBS 2½ GAMES BEHIND

The Cubs have won 17 of their 23 contests since June 28, and today are only 2½ games behind the New York Giants, who dropped a 6-5 decision to the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday.

The Boston Braves drew up to a spot only a game and a half behind the fourth place St. Louis club by defeating the Cardinals, 3 to 2, when a homer by Pinky Whitney and a triple by Rabbit Maranville brought in the winning runs in the eighth.

The American League duel between the New York Yankees and Washington Senators remained in status quo, when both leaders dropped tough games to second division clubs.

Mel Harder, of Cleveland, limited the Yanks to three hits to give the Indians a 3-1 triumph, and Tommy Bridges, of Detroit, bested Alvin Crowder, of Washington, in a 1-to-0 flinging duel as each team got only four hits.

Earl Averill's triple in the sixth was the big blow of Cleveland's seven, while Detroit scored its lone run in the eighth when Frank Doljack doubled and came home on Rogell's bast hit.

REDS DOWN DODGERS

The Cincinnati Reds drew up a half game behind Brooklyn and Philadelphia, which are virtually tied for sixth place in the National League by defeating the Dodgers, 1 to 0.

More good pitching cropped up in the American League as George Pipgras limited the Chicago White Sox to five blows, while the Boston Red Sox won, 5-0. Lefty Grove, of Philadelphia, and Roland Stiles, of St. Louis, ' d four runs apiece in the first inning, then settled down for a fine mound duel that ended in the tenth, when Pinky Higgins singled with the bases filled and gave the Athletics a 6-to-5 victory.

ZINK, FAY NET FINALISTS

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Title matches grace today's card of competition in the annual Western Pennsylvania junior and boys' tennis championships on the clay courts of Carnegie Tech. Semi-final frays in the 18-year-old division were scheduled in the morning, with the windup on the card for 2 p. m. The title tilt in the 15-year-old class, wherein Harry Zink, of Steubenville, encounters Bill Fay, of Rockwood, bets under way an hour prior to the start of the junior finale.

Bill Fay

Ralph Bald, defender of the junior throne, disposed of Eddie Carson, of Greensburg, in love sets yesterday morning and later forced aside Bill Barr, 6-1, 7-5, to enter the penultimate frame, in which he encounters Jimmy Arensberg, Shady Side star, who yesterday polished off Don Amend, 6-1, 6-4, and Paul DeJohn, 6-3, 6-2, in very impressive fashion.

Jim Magaw, of Washington Heights, won his way to the semi-finals through a surprising 6-4, 6-3 decision over Harold Mathieson, hard-hitting Koppelite and former Pittsburgh Center boys' premier. Magaw also defeated Kin Darragh, Central Catholic High's all-around ace, 6-4, 6-0, and Ed Helm, 6-0, 6-0. The Heightsman battles Hatch this morning. The summary:

P. G. A. OFFICIALS CONFER TODAY

MILWAUKEE, July 21.—(AP.)—The most recent flareup in the ranks of the Professional Golfers' Association, occasioned by the outspoken refusal by several members of the Ryder Cup squad to play in the annual title tournament at Blue Mound less a change in dates is made, had reached the conference stage today.

Gene Sarazen, Walter Hagen, Denny Shute, the new British Open champion; Craig Wood and Joe Kirkwood started it by saying they would not play unless the tournament were shifted from August 8-13 to September.

C. B. Johnson, chairman of the Milwaukee committee, which has arranged for a guarant e to underwrite prize money and expenses, yesterday countered by announcing the guarantee would be withdrawn unless the Ryder Cup stars compete.

Johnson and Albert R. Gates, business manager of the P. G. A., and R. W. Treacy, secretary of the organization, planned to confer today on what to do about the situation.

Lovelock Wins Race Despite Sore Foot

MONTREAL, Quebec, July 21.—(AP.)—The Canadian one-mile record definitely has eluded Jack Lovelock, New Zealand student at Oxford.

Troubled by a blister on his foot, Lovelock, who shattered all records for the mile with a 4:07.6 performance at Princeton last week, ran just fast enough to win his specialty last night in 4:34, exactly 20 seconds slower than the Canadian record held by Reg Thomas, of England. Lovelock, who was clocked in 4:17.4 at Hamilton, Ont., Wednesday night, won by inches from W. S. Karran, of Cambridge.

The mile was the feature event of an informal meet which the combined Oxford-Cambridge team won from a squad of picked Montreal athletes, six first places to five.

S. HILLS LEGION WINS

N. KENSINGTON DEFEATED BY JOHNSTOWN

The South Hills Junior American Legion nine, winner of the Allegheny County title, will be given a well-earned rest until next Tuesday night, when it will meet the winner of tomorrow's Johnstown-Uniontown game at Greensburg, in the final round for the Southwestern district title.

The Tunnelites qualified for the finals by walloping the Swissvale Legion team at Dormont, 16 to 5, last night, thus winning two of the three games played. Last Saturday the South Hills team defeated Swissvale at Swissvale, and on Tuesday evening the two clubs battled to a 6-6 tie.

Johnstown earned the right to play Uniontown in the semi-final round of the tourney by beating the New Kensington aggregation, 3 to 2, at Forbes Field last evening.

McClain, catcher for the South Hills team, was the outstanding batter of the fray, hitting for two home runs and a single. Compagnone, of Swissvale, also hit for a circuit. The scores:

TURF CLASSIC CANCELED

BALTIMORE, July 21.—(INS.)—Maryland turf enthusiasts were stunned today by the announcement of Matt L. Daiger, manager of the Maryland Jockey Club, that the $40,000 added Pimlico Futurity would be not held next November "because of business conditions." When and if the classic is restored, the added money prize will be cut to $25,000, it was indicated.

Forbes

Collapse of 'Whisky Boom' Is Salutary

—By B. C. FORBES—

THE STOCK market structure has strengthened rather than weakened by the sharp relapse in the grossly overboomed "alcohol shares."

They had become nothing but gambling chips. Pools originated the ballooning of these stocks, but the public was drawn into them in enormous numbers. The sudden drop of 30 to 50 per cent in quotations wiped out numerous gamblers who couldn't supply additional margins demanded. Doubtless, too, certain pools were routed.

Mr. Forbes

Nor can the recession in wheat and other commodities which have recently attracted extraordinary speculation be regarded as deplorable. The sooner a salutary check came, the better.

There is far more basis for the recovery which has been witnessed in most securities than for the skyrocketing of shares regarded as likely to be benefited by repeal. For example, railway profits have improved tremendously. So have the net earnings of many industrial enterprises. Utilities, too, are now selling an unusual amount of current.

Therefore, it would be hasty to conclude that the deserved setback in "repeal issues" foreshadows a similar fate for the rest of the market, notwithstanding the extent of the rebound already witnessed.

ONE OF these days, speculators who think the American dollar isn't worth 75 cents, and who figure that one British pound is worth almost $5, are likely to suffer a painful awakening. The probabilities are that, unless President Roosevelt arbitrarily wipes out a third or a half of the dollar's gold content, its international value will snap back sensationally regardless of any amount of manipulation.

Britain clearly expects this. She seeks to take advantage of the present abnormal exchange status by offering to give American holders of British bonds, payable in gold, bonds payable in sterling.

The "explanation" given is that legal payment here no longer calls for gold, but only for dollars. And since dollars are now worth so relatively little and the pound so much, the terms offered are made to appear alluring.

That sterling and dollars and other leading currencies will be stabilized anywhere near their present relative quotations is unthinkable. Six months or a year from now the British offer to American investors is hardly likely to prove to have been profitable to Americans.

PRESIDENT J. S. CALL, of Call's Banking Service Corporation, counsels this column "not to become nervous about the constructive forces emanating from Washington." He adds:

"In my humble opinion we haven't anything to worry about other than to see to it that consumer buying keeps pace or a bit in the lead of wage advances. This is the all-important fundamental to the successful conclusion of the plan.

"As I see it, the President dares not slow up for a while yet. I am satisfied the President knows what he is doing and will, when the proper time comes, slow down and stabilize the price structure.

"He put over the cleverest bit of strategy in all history when he used the fundamental law, fear, in a constructive drive to raise price levels through psychological appeal of devaluation of the dollar. The truth is our money is just as solid as it ever was. By clever strategy he induced men to loosen their purse-strings in constructive movement. By this bold stroke he has completely changed the mental complex of the nation.

"The ultimate outcome will be a long, long period of human well-being."

HERE'S HOPING that the last prediction will be abundantly fulfilled.

Pitt Business Index Resumes Rise

Prepared by the Bureau of Business Research, University of Pittsburgh. All Indexes Are Adjusted for Trend and Seasonal Variation. Computed Normal Equals 100.

Index.	Week Ended July 15, 1933.	July 8, 1933.	July 1, 1933.	July 16, 1932.	July 18, 1931.
Business Activity	*72.3	69.0	69.6	42.4	70.5
Production	*74.5	70.1	69.9	36.5	64.2
Iron and Steel	73.1	69.3	66.8	23.1	51.0
Electric Power	79.9	78.1	78.1	65.2	84.4
Coal	*86.4	81.0	84.5	53.8	80.9
Rail Shipments	*67.6	61.2	62.6	31.3	64.5
Trade	*67.0	66.4	69.1	56.1	85.0

*Preliminary.

THE INDEX OF business activity in the Pittsburgh district resumed its upward trend last week. In the previous week the first decline since March 18 took place.

Not only did the index establish a new high for the recovery period, but it passed the level of the corresponding period of 1931 for the first time.

The index is prepared by the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Pittsburgh. It stood at a preliminary level of 72.3 for the week ended July 15. This compared with adjusted indexes of 69.0 in the previous week, with 69.6 in the week ended July 1 and with 42.4 a year ago and 70.5 two years ago. The index was at the highest level since the second week of June, 1931.

* * *

Production at Higher Level

ALL THE FACTORS making up the index were at higher levels than in the previous week. All also showed gains over the week ended July 1 with the exception of trade activity which was slightly below.

In comparison with a year ago, all showed gains. In comparison with two years ago all showed gains except electric power output and trade activity.

Naturally a week or two may be expected to elapse between increases in industrial production and their translation into increased payrolls and expanded retail purchases. This explains the tendency for the trade elements of the index to lag behind the general improvement. The fact that a large part of increased payrolls goes for the payment of debts also is an influence.

* * *

Freight Traffic Leads Expansion

DURING MOST of the recent weeks iron and steel production has been the leader in the industrial recovery in this district, according to the index. While the iron and steel index increased 3.8 points last week, the greatest gain was shown by rail shipments which expanded 6.4 points. Coal production was a close second with a gain of 5.4 points for the week.

For the week ended July 15, the production factors of the index increased 4.4 points to 74.5. The trade factors increased 1.4 points to 67.0.

LESS RESERVE CREDIT OUT

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(AP.)—The daily average volume of Federal Reserve Bank credit outstanding during the week ended July 19, as reported today by the Federal Reserve banks, was $2,196,000,000, a decrease of $34,000,000; compared with the preceding week and of $242,000,000, compared with the corresponding week of 1932.

On July 19 total reserve bank credit amounted to $2,197,000,000, a decrease of $4,000,000 for the week. This corresponds with a decrease of $32,000,000 in money in circulation and an increase of $17,000,000 in Treasury currency, adjusted, offset in part by increases of $21,000,000 in member bank reserve balances and $24,000,000 in unexpended capital funds, non-member deposits, etc.

STOCK MARKET TAKES DEEP PLUNGE

NEW YORK, July 21.—After slowing down to a rather peaceful jog around noon today, the stock market again plunged downward in a wild selling rush which transformed early gains of 1 to around 3 points into losses of 4 to 12 or more. The resumption of the slump apparently could not be attributed to any especial news. Principal losers included Allied Chemical, American Telephone, United States Steel, New York Central, General Motors, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, International Business Machines, Celanese, American Can, National Distillers and Westinghouse. Transfers approximated 9,000,000 shares.

The opening was fast, with large blocks of shares changing hands at small gains or losses. Short covering, reinforced by "bargain hunters" soon brought an upturn of 1 to 3 or more points in many of the recently depressed leaders and some of the alcohols got back as much as 8 before retracing their steps. The tape sped merrily for a while and then there was a slowing down. While the grain markets were closed at Chicago, to enable commission houses to dig out from under a mountain of work, Winnipeg wheat opened higher. It dropped back a little later, but held fairly steady. Cotton improved. The dollar reacted sharply in foreign exchange markets, then rallied. Bonds were a trifle heavy.

Stocks that recovered 1 to around 5 or more points included National Distillers, United States Industrial Alcohol, American Commercial Alcohol, Standard Brands, Crown Cork, Liggett & Myers B, Western Union, Union Pacific, New York Central, Consolidated Gas, Chrysler, American Smelting, Canada Dry, Cerro de Pesco, United States Smelting and United Aircraft, General Motors, United States Steel, American Telephone and other pivotal issues followed a rather narrow range.

Although many of the recently exhuberant traders still had their fingers crossed, they were solaced considerably by week-end trade reports which testified to the continued betterment in general business. Substantial additions are still being made to employment and payrolls, it was said, and thus far nothing has appeared to indicate any appreciable lull in activity during the balance of the summer.

There was a moderate let-down in some wholesale markets, one trade survey found, but considerable improvement was seen in retail operation. In some lines the flow of orders was said to be quickening instead of diminishing, with buyers being pressed to action by the broadening sweep of general advancing prices.

The early recovery in some of the tobacco issues was attributed partly to publication of the figures on cigaret production for June. The output for this month totaled 12,462,969,787 against 10,660,212,050 in the same month last year. Cigar production increased about 18,000,000, while manufactured tobacco was up more than 1,000,000 pounds.

WINNIPEG GRAIN UNCHANGED

CHICAGO, July 21.—With domestic grain exchanges closed today attention turned to foreign markets where prices displayed an irregular tone.

Wheat futures in the Winnipeg market closed unchanged to ¾ cent lower after opening as much as 5¾ cents higher for May. Trade was heavy.

Oats closed 2¾ to 3⅜ cents down at Winnipeg, barley 1 cent down to 2 cents up and rye 6½ to 8⅞ cents lower.

Liverpool virtually ignored the sharp break in United States markets yesterday and closed 1½ to 2⅜ pence lower, a decline in American funds of about 3 to 4 cents.

A firm tone ruled in the local cash market with a fairly heavy demand from millers. Wheat was 1 to 4 cents higher, corn 1 to 2 cents advanced.

July wheat at Winnipeg closed at 78⅛ cents with May at 86¼ cents after opening at 93 cents.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 21.—Falling in sympathy with sharply receding wheat futures the past two days, flour was off 85 cents today, bringing the total loss since Tuesday to $1.55 a barrel.

Family patent flour was quoted at $7.45 to $7.55 a barrel compared to yesterday's figure of $8.30 to $8.40.

Bar Silver Down 1¼ Cents an Ounce

NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP.)—Bar silver was heavy today. In the spot market there was a drop of 1¼ cents to 37½ cents an ounce. Extreme losses in the futures market amounted to half a cent an ounce.

PREMIERE -:- Gripping Story of Life Behind The Scenes at Hollywood -:- By ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

CHAPTER VIII.

All of them became silent again while the nervous clicking of the watch bespoke the seconds bringing the screen play to its deafening holocaust of roaring battle. Four thousand persons—most of them in evening clothes—sat in plush seats and experienced the carbon-copy emotions of real warfare.

Behind the ramparts of muddy trenches a division of French infantry watched the dawn in Flanders. A heavy mist billowed before the eye, filling folds and hollows of mysterious landscape. Vaguely the twin spires of the cathedral in the distance began to take form.

The men in battle-stained uniforms clutched their rifles and peered into the gray fog as they awaited the zero hour of death. Behind their backs handsome officers in natty uniforms walked up and down and glanced nervously at strap watches. It was the hush before the storm.

The figure of a poilu crept out of a dug-out—a strangely fragile and delicate form to be engaged in the grim business of war. For a moment the audience thinks it is a boy of ten or twelve and is wrong. The camera angle is shifted and it is seen that Leni Luneska has reached the front.

She has deceived the entire army into believing that she is a soldier of France. It is remarkable, even incredible yet it unfolds before the eye and is gladly believed.

Leni has come to die with her sweetheart. He is the soldier of the handsome profile and his uniform is the best in the regiment.

BATTLE SCENE SHOWN

A minor miracle happens. It develops that the commander is the scoundrel who made her life very miserable in the peaceful days before the war. Her gorgeous beauty does not deceive him into believing she is a poilu. His eyes light upon her and immediately he knows she is not one of his men. He recognizes her. The zero hour is forgotten as his Gallic blood becomes molten with passion. War is war and brooks no time for petty formalities between man and woman. Before she can scream to her sweetheart she is in the officer's grasp and on the way to a convenient dugout.

Leni is rescued at the crucial moment by Gen. von Hindenburg, who liberates upon the French army the concentrated fury of 10,000 tons of shrapnel and dynamite.

Vast geysers of dust spring up and settle slowly to earth. It is an inferno of mighty concussion flinging debris through the smoke-laden universe. Roar after roar shakes the heavens, shot through with the shrill scream of flying shells. The walls of the theater tremble. Conversation is impossible. It is worse than a boiler factory. It lasts for three entire minutes. It is epic. The picture proceeded.

BURGLARS OPEN SAFE

In her box, Leni watched and listened. The battle roar was dying down and the audience, carried away by emotion was contributing a machine-gun rattle of applause.

This was success. They liked it. Motion pictures are valuable because they carry people out of themselves—high above the actualities of life. In some way, not quite clear to her, she knew that tonight she had helped four thousand people to escape the crass realities of their own tiresome existence.

The beginning of success and its end. In the midst of it she suddenly felt cold and drew her cloak tightly around her shoulders. Tonight would never come again.

Her lips were dry as dust. Tomorrow her name would be soiled with scandal and next week the newspapers would be printing laudatory photographs of some other new star. This was Hollywood and Leni Luneska was through with it.

But none of this affected the burglary upstairs where a steady hand lit a fuse that ran to a business-like charge of nitroglycerine. The three men dressed as ushers flattened themselves out of danger against a wall and waited for the explosion. When it came it was like a muffled cough of a giant, lost in the cyclone of noise that rocked the theater. The whole front of the safe fell forward and struck the floor.

Immediately the men were frantically busy prying open the tin cash boxes.

So completely had the bombardment on the screen disguised the explosion of the safe that even Karl Kruger and Lucky Cavanaugh, separated from the burglary by a single wall, had not heard the safe blowing. This failure on their part, however, might have been attributed to the fact that they were suspended together in that pregnant instant where human life trembles in the cosmic balance.

KRUGER SLAIN

Karl Kruger had a philosophy but, neurotically, was unable to sustain it against the white fire of his blinding emotions. He raised the revolver in his clutching hand to the level of Lucky Cavanaugh's breast. Neither man breathed.

The difference between them lay in the fact that Lucky Cavanaugh was able to think clearly. Without undue haste, he put a hand behind him. His fingers touched the light switch on the wall and the next instant the room was in darkness. In the same moment of silent suspense, he stepped soft-footedly to one side.

"Where are you?" cried Kruger in a voice so loud and angry that it filled the room with hatred.

The weapon in his hand belched fire and noise. When it had roared six times, Lucky Cavanaugh touched the switch and the room was light again.

Kruger's face had the look of green mud. The revolver dropped from his hand as a hoarse cry sprang from his throat. Everything before him was a blurred haze.

"Let me out of here," he screamed.

Before Cavanaugh could lay hands on him, the man made a dart, whirled and snatched open the door leading into the room where three men dressed as ushers were stuffing currency into canvas bags. One of them made a swift movement with his right hand—a hand that knew how to handle an automatic. A vicious red tongue leaped from the barrel of the weapon and pointed straight at the breast of Karl Kruger. With a slow, painful movement, Kruger rose to his toes, twisted and fell backward—dead.

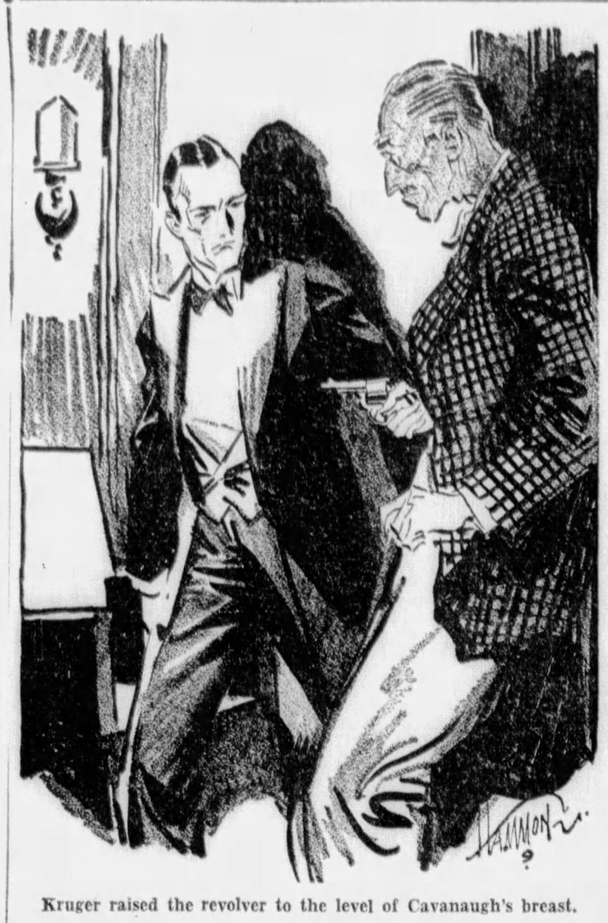
Synopsis

Attending the premiere of her latest motion picture, beautiful Leni Luneska, the star, is confronted by a shabby man, who emerges from the crowd crying "Leni! It is I, Karl Kruger!" Leni turns white. Lucky Cavanaugh, a gambler, saunters into the theater. He prevents Kruger from making a scene. During the performance Douglas Gates, Leni's elderly escort, proposed to her. In the office next to where Kruger waits, thieves are robbing the safe. Leni leaves her box and goes to Kruger, whom she married in Vienna when 14 years old. He wants recognition as her husband. She is given time to think it over. Cavanaugh becomes friendly with Leni and they go out for some fresh air. Later Cavanaugh goes to Kruger and insists that he leave. Kruger draws a revolver. Meanwhile, robbers in the next room prepare to dynamite the safe.

Now Go On



Kruger raised the revolver to the level of Cavanaugh's breast.

The Junior Patrol Mail Box

We said it yesterday, fellows, but we are going to say it again today.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 1, is going to be JUNIOR PATROL PICNIC DAY AT WEST VIEW PARK!

And what a wonderful, swell, magnificent day it's going to be! Tuesday, August 1, is National Kiddies' Day, but Junior Patrol Day at West View Park, we'll bet, is going to be the biggest and grandest time for kids anywhere in the country.

WATCH FOR THE BIG NEWS TOMORROW, FELLOWS!

But we can tell you now that plans are just about all set. There are going to be races and contests of all kinds—and there are swell prizes to go with them. West View Park is just about the nicest place we know of for the Junior Patrol picnic—there are roller coasters, boats on the lake, and all kinds of amusements.

And we can tell you this, right now. There are going to be plenty of eats—all kinds! So remember that date, fellows, and get set for the greatest picnic old Pa Pitt and Western Pennsylvania ever saw! We want all the Captains there with their patrols and clubs, and there may be special prizes for the largest patrol present.

Tell everybody about it at your very next meeting, you Captains and Lieutenants, and let's go!

Don't forget that this is going to be a SAFE picnic. We're sure that every member of the Junior Patrol will do his best to be careful.

Now about the arm bands again, fellows. Requests for them are pouring in. Why not be the first fellow in your neighborhood to get yours?

We have just one new rule for getting an arm band. YOUR PATROL MUST HAVE AT LEAST 10 MEMBERS. When you send in your roll be sure that you have 10 names, at least, on it, who are members of the Junior Patrol registered here at headquarters.

And don't forget, either, fellows, that to be a Captain, you must be elected by a meeting of the members. We have had letters from fellows asking for arm bands who say they are going to start a patrol club. That isn't the way to do it. Hold a meeting first, with at least 10 Junior Patrol members on the roll, and let them elect a captain.

Letters to compete for the HONOR ROLL are pouring in. If your letter is not printed this week, remember that we get a lot of them and that there isn't room for all. We are holding it, and will probably print it next week. A letter is eligible for the HONOR ROLL the week it is printed—no matter when it is received.

Here's a letter today from Billy Snyder, of 1800 Swissvale avenue, Wilkinsburg. Billy writes:

"We have started a Junior Patrol in our neighborhood. There are seven members in our patrol so far and we hope to get more. We have elected a Captain and a First Lieutenant, and a Second Lieutenant of the Treasury. I am First Lieutenant and Gilbert Horner is the Captain and Billy Horner is Second Lieutenant of the Treasury."

Fine and dandy, Billy. We'll send Captain Horner a Captain's arm band just as soon as he sends us a roll of the members—all of them members of the Junior Patrol.

The letters tomorrow are chock full of swell ideas!

Bands are getting too expensive for the country towns. Lockwood is the only town in this territory that still has a band. Golden City has no band this year. Lamar hasn't had a band for two years. It costs about $75 a week to keep up a band in a place like Lamar, and the folks in business figure they can't afford to put up the money.

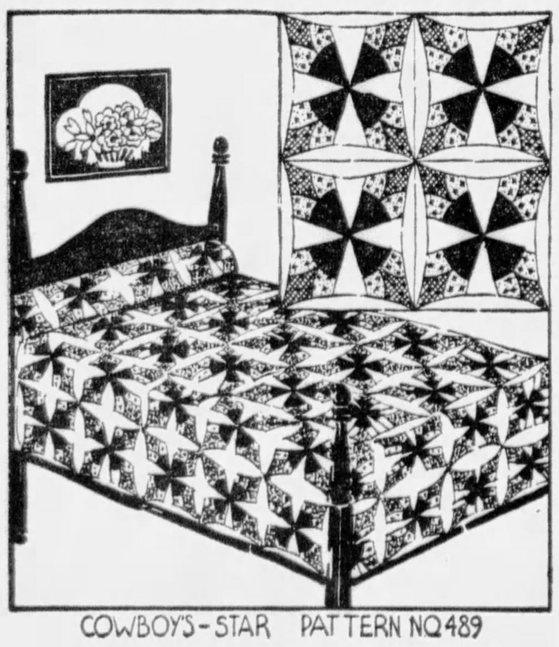
PATCHWORK QUILT PATTERN



COWBOY'S-STAR PATTERN NO 489

By LAURA WHEELER

The cowboy, like the mariner, has always used the stars as a guide in his wanderings. Whichever star may have served his purpose the quiltmaker found occasion to form it into a quilt block and make a lovely pattern of it. Made in four materials, its grace of line places it among the choice quilt patterns.

The pattern comes to you with complete simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10c for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

No Treaties in the Hot Sun

We're thankful that they have muzzled the international conferences during the spaniel days.

It's too hot to argue peace.

It's too humid to be friendly.

When you figure out, cabbage leaves in your hat and alpaca coats, there's nothing that cools you off like a good argument.

Last month in London they had 200 different kinds of diplomats in one room in the Museum of Archowhattzzns.

Each diplomat was entitled to three meals a day and a glass case.

They spoke in more languages than anybody needs to get from Altoona to Scranton. It was the some old pippin jelly dished up with a bigger spoon.

We were little old pals all together, friends for life and comrades forever. But the minute the boys get out in the street, they don't know each other from stuffed sofas.

That's why we claim they put too much stress on conferences.

At its best, an international medley of diplomats is merely dignifying a barroom friendship. It's meat for the news reels. But if a cop comes along all the pals scurry off in different directions.

Too much talking altogether. If speech was made to disguise thoughts, we'll say those thoughts have long false whiskers now.

Only the common people are honest and level. A politician thinks that Frank is something you do to your laundry. And as for leveling, a diplomat can sleep comfortably on a sloping tin roof.

An international courier or envoy is simply a jockey who has checked his hoss with his hat.

That's why we are gratified that the conferences will strike a new low note this month and next. Anybody wishing to take exception to this article will please send a self-addressed letter with an uncancelled three-cent stamp nestling in the upper right hand corner. Until the snow flies again we are arguing by parcel post.

Prepare for Repeal

Pennsylvania Should Not Be Caught Napping When the Federal Ban on Whisky Is Lifted.

The defeat of prohibition in southern states makes it reasonably certain that it is to be repealed. Postmaster General Farley expresses the opinion that the government ban on intoxicating liquors will be lifted by Christmas. Pennsylvania must not be found unprepared, as it was when the sale of beer again became legal.

Ample notice was given that beer was coming back, yet the Legislature was caught napping. Three weeks elapsed after the ban on beer was raised before the state required a license for its sale. In the interim hundreds of thousands of dollars in revenue was lost.

To permit whisky to be sold without state regulation probably would be an even more serious mistake. Fair warning has been given that prohibition is doomed, yet the Legislature has done nothing to prepare for repeal.

The next regular session is scheduled for January, 1935. That is too long to wait. A special session will have to be called to deal with the situation.

In the meantime Gov. Pinchot should get in touch with leaders of the Legislature and prepare a plan for liquor legislation. The Snyder-Armstrong act, which repealed all the state's liquor laws, rests on the Volstead act, which Congress will repeal. Some form of state control must be ready to take its place.

An Appreciated Service

The Sun-Telegraph Thanks Mayor Herron for His Work in Settling the Newsboys' Strike.

Not a little of the credit for the prompt settlement of the newsboys' strike belongs to Mayor John S. Herron, and the Sun-Telegraph takes pleasure in acknowledging it and in thanking him for his service.

Mayor Herron offered his good offices in adjusting the difficulty almost as soon as the trouble was called to his attention. It was no simple task that he thus assumed. There were real obstacles to be overcome.

Mayor Herron gave generously of his time and advice to the solution of the problem. The newspaper publishers and the newsboys' representatives held a number of meetings in his office, and with the Mayor's help there was gradually worked out an agreement that was mutually satisfactory.

It was a valuable service that the Mayor rendered—a service not only to the newsboys and the management of the newspapers, but also to the public.

Pistol Carriers

The Number of Pennsylvanians Who Go Armed Is a Sad Commentary on the Prevalence of Crime.

Licenses to carry firearms have been issued to 28,220 Pennsylvanians since September 1, 1932, the Secretary of the Commonwealth reports.

These are the licenses granted by city police heads and sheriffs to citizens who furnish satisfactory evidence that they must have pistols on their persons as a defense against criminals.

What a sad commentary on the prevalence of crime that 28,220 persons should have been added during the last 11 months to the number in the state who feel it is necessary to go armed!

Death of P. J. Donahoe

Pittsburgh Has Lost a Good Citizen in the Passing of The Well-Known Merchant.

In the sudden death of P. J. Donahoe, president of Donahoe's, Inc., retail food merchants, Pittsburgh has lost a good citizen, and an important one.

Mr. Donahoe was born in the old First Ward and spent the 75 years of his life in the city. By diligence and foresight he succeeded in developing a modest grocery business into one of great size, with two large markets in the downtown district and many branch stores. Exacting as were the requirements of the management of this huge enterprise, Mr. Donahoe did not permit it to monopolize his attention.

In his earlier years he was active in politics and held a number of public offices. While a firm believer in organization, he detested the unscrupulous methods practiced by some of our most conspicuous organization politicians of the present day.

Mr. Donahoe never lost his interest in public affairs. His influence, which was extensive, was ever on the side of honesty and decency.

Pittsburgh needs more citizens like him.

Aid for Suffering Jews

Pittsburgh Should Contribute Generously to the Relief of the Victims of Persecution.

Pittsburgh gained honors some years ago by the generosity of its contributions to the Armenian victims of Turkish persecution. Now an appeal comes to aid other victims of persecution, people closer to us than the Armenians—the Jewish sufferers in Germany.

Here in Pittsburgh, among our most useful and benevolent citizens, we have not a few persons of the same racial stock as the persecuted Jews of Germany—their cousins, as it were. This makes for deeper sympathy with the unfortunates.

That sympathy must be translated into something substantial. Pittsburgh is asked to contribute to a $2,000,000 relief fund. The help, to be effective, must be given promptly. We are requested to furnish the money not later than next Monday. Leo Lehman is chairman of the organization conducting the drive.

Citizens of every race and religion should contribute liberally. The fact that Mayor John S. Herron, Leo G. Griffith and Col. Samuel Harden Church have broadcast appeals for the persecuted Jews shows that there is nothing narrow or sectarian in the campaign. It is only humanitarian, and every humane person should respond.

Marriage is a "noble experiment," these days, whether it ends in a Golden Wedding or in complete repeal, at Reno.

Many a girl has to force a man to go over a love-scene two or three times, before she can make him register sufficient enthusiasm for her to say "Yes."

A rich widow is not half so likely to lose her money in Wall street as she is to be parted from it by one of these bright boys, who can tell her half a dozen ways to make a million—while he lets her pay the dinner check.

Before marriage, two's company—and three's a crowd. After marriage, two's monotony—and three's a godsend.

The honeymoon is over when the bride stops worrying for fear her darling will lose his heart—and begins worrying for fear he'll lose his job.

There appears to be three kinds of husbands. Those who generously hand over all their money to their wives, those who dole out the pennies as though they were radium and those who spend money like water—no matter WHOSE money it is.

A man will lie awake nights for a week, planning to tell a girl gently that "it's all over"—and then feel positively hurt when she beats him to it.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, July 21. — Thoughts while strolling: Few Broadway wits ever touched Scamp Montgomery, Dave's brother. But he was not press agented like Mizner, et al. "O K. talkers" hanging around Lindy's. What became of the Dodge twins? Arthur Somers Roche and Harry Evans, of Life, look alike.

Frank Crummit, a Jackson, O., boy, who made good in the city. Warren Williams has the most distinguished hair brush on the screen. And Ned Sparks the coldest pan. That doctrinaire of exuberance—N. T. G. Helen Dreiser's flaming hair. What has happened—no one seems to age any more?

One word description of Ethel Barrymore—acidy. Those girls tubed in knee-length skirts and wearing wide floppy hats. Nobody flounces down a theater aisle like Peggy Fears. Ed Wynn grows thin again, now he's a businessman with business worries. Most penthouses have become cocotteries.

Bob Garland and his two Bostons. Zaz Hitchcock and her sister, Mrs. Earl Benham. One of my favorite people—Francis Albertanti. Has anyone thought up this one about Cuba—Machado about nothing? I could keep you laughing like that all evening. One funny crack after another!

Coincidence of names: Biggest coal dealer in New York is Burns. Poe spent his most dissipated days on Brandywine street in Philadelphia. Orville Wright made his first flight at Kitty Hawk. Amusing gag saying "Where?" to every remark. A bee zooming around. Go ahead—sting me! I'm no account anyway.

* * *

A spurious sophistication, usually envenomed around the Algonquin, hoots at poetry by Eddie Guest and literature in the Saturday Evening Post. That Guest's poems are read daily by more people than all the poems yearly by the sophisticates and that the prose of the same sneerers never appears in the Post, of course, has nothing to do with it. It's coincidence.

* * *

On Fifty-seventh street near Third avenue: A taxi swings to the curb and a young woman with a cigaret hanging from her lips jumps out. She held a basket, like those we used to bring wood to the fireplace, carrying a sleeping infant. A doorman took the basket and went back into the building. She skipped off again into the taxi. And life went on.

* * *

At 19 and in the grip of a grand literary passion I once touched off a short story with this: "Roark Desmond, pausing for a moment to light a cigaret on the steps of the Cosmopolis Club, was startled to see a rather beautiful young woman dash from a carriage with an infant. Before he could toss away his match she placed the bundle in his arms." It got even worse as it went along—and came back in a jiffy. But the paragraph above is proof that it might have happened. That's something.

* * *

Over on Third avenue, by the way, I came upon the last of the vanishing drug stores of another day. There was a cigar counter with a clipper and a nickel wheel of fortune—always your money's worth, but a chance to triple purchasing power. On a shelf, too, I beheld Father Finch's Febrifuge, Mexican Mustang Liniment, Swift S. S. and Conway's Cobalt Pills. But what turned back the years more than anything was a huge jar of rock candy on a string. I asked for a quarter's worth and they weighed it on one of those old-timey see-saw scales. Remember?

* * *

And the proprietor in a skull cap peered over steel half glasses. A kindly old man, a double for David Warfield, who in his shyness warmed his hands over imaginary fire. He had filled prescriptions for Booth and said the actor always carried peppermint tablets, which he believed calmed his nerves.

* * *

Henry Sell, from a cactus stop in Arizona, fires this one eastward: "Wrap this around your tongue: 'Surely Shrewsbury shoes should suit snooty students.'"

* * *

But I'm no longer a softie for tongue twisters. I glance at those sent in and toss them nonchalantly to one side. My leisure is consumed in writing tarty letters to a laundry. They insist, the liars, they sent home laundry that was never received—and if you know laundries you realize there is no redress. So I'm getting my revenge twitting them. Just an old laundry twitter!

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

"TREAT YOUR WIFE TENDERLY—AS YOU WOULD HANDLE THE RAREST ORCHID THAT BLOOMS!"

That's the advice of Judge Eugene O'Dunne, of Baltimore, to husbands. And has he fixed himself pretty with the Missis! Or HASN'T he?

But after the cheering's done, sit down and study Hizzoner's remark. It is an important remark. When it comes to practical results, it is quite as important as the Constitution, and it influences as many lives.

For the ladies, themselves, firmly believe they are Orchids. They are not only sure of this, but they can Say It With Votes. Therefore it behooves any wise judge, whether he believes it or not, to agree with all these aggrieved or potentially aggrieved wives, mothers and sweethearts — and hand down decisions accordingly.

So don't laugh off that rarest-orchid theory. Consider it gravely. It is a grave factor in our Status Quo, and it's raising Cain with plenty of your fellow citizens. Therefore—Is, or isn't the good Judge right?

ARE WOMEN DIFFERENT?

ARE THEY RARER, FINER THAN THE MEN WHO SUPPORT THEM?

SHOULD THEY RECEIVE EXTRA-SPECIAL DE LUXE HANDLING?

SHOULD THEIR TANTRUMS BE OVERLOOKED, THEIR FIBS CONDONED, THEIR SILLINESS EXCUSED ON THE GROUND THAT THEY ARE GOD'S GREATEST GIFT TO HUMANITY?

AND IF A MAN CAN'T GET ALONG WITH HIS WIFE, OR WON'T STAND FOR HER SHENANIGANS, DOES THAT PROVE HIM TO BE A COARSE LOUT, INCAPABLE OF ALL FINER FEELINGS AND UNDERSTANDING?

AND SHOULD HE THEREFORE BE REGARDED, BY THE COURT AS A CRIMINAL AND TREATED ACCORDINGLY?

Or are women just regular humans?

Are they no better, no worse, than men?

Is the average female as honest or dishonest, as refined or vulgar, as dependable or unreliable, as kind or cruel, as wise or silly as the average man?

Should she, in this day of equal rights and equal opportunities, receive the same treatment, bear the same responsibility as men?

Should she face the same criticism which the man faces, endure the same competition, be judged by the same standards?

Should she be given the same condemnation if she falls down on her job?

And should it be as excusable for a husband to turn against a worthless, unfair wife as it is for a wife to turn against a worthless husband?

Obviously, if modern women really believed in equality it should not be necessary to ask or answer those last seven questions. They would admit their truth and agree to all the conditions, without the asking.

BUT THE AVERAGE WOMAN, ANCIENT OR MODERN, DOES NOT BELIEVE IN EQUALITY OR WANT EQUALITY. SHE DOES NOT BELIEVE SHE IS AS GOOD AS MAN. SHE BELIEVES SHE IS A DARNED SIGHT BETTER! SHE DOES NOT WANT TO BE TREATED AS HE IS TREATED. SHE WANTS TO BE TREATED AS WELL AS HE IS TREATED, AND THEN GIVEN ENDLESS EXEMPTIONS, CONCESSIONS AND COMPLIMENTS BESIDES.

AND AT PRESENT SHE'S GETTING BY WITH IT!

WE MAY SOB AND SMILE OUR WAY INTO COURT, SISTERS—BUT SOME DAY, IF WE KEEP IT UP, WE'LL GET OURSELVES LAUGHED OUT!

So I'm asking you—Just what do YOU think of Judge O'Dunne's lollipop to the ladies?

The Human Side of the News

The Gorgeous Coach of Queen Wilhelmina—Her Vast Empire—The Earl of Chesterfield and His Renowned Ancestor

By EDWIN C. HILL

No circus wagon ever built compares in its red and gold gorgeousness with the golden state coach of the Netherlands as it rumbles through the cobbled and flag-bedecked streets of the Hague, bearing a plump, blue-eyed, still golden-haired and pleasant-looking lady of 52 to the Parliament House. And no shrewder ruler reigns than this same comfortably upholstered lady—Wilhelmina, Queen of the Netherlands — who tells the States-General in her speeches from the throne that the order of the day is economy and protection of the Dutch markets.

Communists, with klaxon-horn voices, try to shout her down, but never for a moment does her firm, clear voice falter as she delivers addresses which are models for brevity and pertinency. They are addresses that touch the lives and fortunes of vast populations and set the pace for a great empire.

The Netherlands—Holland—is such a small corner of Europe, that we are apt to overlook the fact that little Holland, like little England, is the mother-land of great colonies, clear around the curve of the earth. The importance of the Dutch Colonial Empire—Java, Borneo, Sumatra, Celebes and hundreds of smaller islands in the Far Eastern seas—and of the Dutch West Indies—Surinam, on the north coast of South America, and the rich island of Curacao—was thoroughly recognized by the Washington Conference.

* * *

Surinam Traded For New York

It was Surinam, or Dutch Guiana, by the way, that England traded to Holland in 1667 for the province of New York. One of the few bad real estate deals that John Bull ever made. It is this great colonial domain, mostly in the East Indies, that makes Wilhelmina one of the world's richest women, with an income of five million dollars a year.

She was only a little girl of 10, with molasses candy hair and china blue eyes—the last of the House of Orange-Nassau—when her father, William the Third, went the way of kings and common men. A remarkably pretty little Dutch doll, amiable and intelligent, the world was flooded with her pictures in those days.

The piquant and attractive little girl queen developed into an able and serious ruler, very much like the late Queen Victoria in many ways. She knows thoroughly the nature of the problems she must solve daily. She speaks German, French, Italian and English, as well as her native Dutch. She keeps the ablest counsellors at her side—but she never signs a blank check. She wants to know.

Of simple, healthy tastes, she loves the outdoors. Her people see her skating on the Zuyder Zee, bicycling along the neat, clean-swept streets, or trudging along a country road—with a cavalryman riding at a discreet distance. Training her daughter, Juliana, for affairs of state has been her chief concern. Her husband, Duke Henry of Mecklenburg, a solemn, blond German, cannot succeed his queenly wife under Dutch law. Juliana will be the next Queen of the Netherlands.

Earl of Chesterfield A Real Aristocrat

The old Earl of Chesterfield has passed, in the city of London, to that reward which awaits a gentleman. He made his courtly bow from the stage of life at the age of 78, the best looking, the best-dressed and the best-mannered aristocrat in England. Not remarkable, perhaps, when one recalls that he, the tenth earl of the name, was a collateral descendant of that Philip Stanhope, fourth Lord Chesterfield, whose name has come down for exactly 150 years as the perfect synonym for courtesy.

"His manners are Chesterfieldian." One hears that today. Wise, as well as courteous was the fourth earl. One of the best textbooks on life—on that reasonable and tolerant attitude which man should display toward man—is the book made up of letters to his son, traveling abroad. Almost every word of it is as applicable today as it was when he wrote it.

Listen to this:

"There is hardly a man who has not a dominant passion to which all others are subordinate. Discover this governing passion in every individual—and when you have found the master passion of a man, remember never to trust him where that passion is concerned."

And again:

"If you wish particularly to gain the good graces and affection of certain people, try to discover their most striking merit, if they have one, and their dominant weakness, for everyone has his own. Then do justice to the one, and a little more than justice to the other."

And again:

"Women, in general have only one object, which is their beauty, upon which subject hardly any flattery can be too gross to please them. The flattery which is most pleasing to really beautiful women, or decidedly ugly women, is that which is addressed to their intellects."

But he was fair to the ladies, the old Earl, for he wrote again to his son:

"I am of the opinion that you will both think and speak more favorably of women than you do now. You seem to think that, from Eve downward, they have done a great deal of mischief. As for that lady, I give her up to you; but, since her time, history will inform you that men have done much more mischief in the world than women; and to say the truth, I would not advise you to trust either more than is absolutely necessary."

He was one of the most perfectly poised and self-possessed men who ever lived. He was Viceroy of Ireland in the days when rebellions flamed fortnightly. One morning he was awakened by an excited aide who shouted in his ears:

"The people of Connaught are rising!"

Reaching under his pillow for his match, the Earl glanced at it and remarked, amiably:

"Well, it is 9 o'clock. It is time for them to be rising."

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Feeling a little angry, are you, because some person who was liberal in his favors to you in the past has withdrawn his interest in you, apparently.

You think he should continue as he started out.

Many friendships are broken in this way.

Strange, but often true, that a giver is not allowed credit for what he has done when he begins to curtail his bequests or his favors.

Most people are too grasping.

When remuneration of any sort is at stake, friendship takes second place.

Recently, perhaps, you asked someone for a loan.

You have been favored many times before by the same persons, but this time you were refused.

Not that your honesty was in question but because it was impossible or inconvenient to favor you, you were turned down.
